Fukien Province In China Revolts Against Nanking

ORDER SHIPS AT SHANGHAI BE PREPARED

New Civil War Threatened As Autonomous Administration Is Established REVENUES ARE SEIZED
Situation In Shanghai Is Tense And All Public Meetings Are Banned

SHANGHAI, Wednesday, Nov. 22. (UP)—A new civil war threatened China today. Fukien province has revolted against the Nanking government and set up an autonomous administration of its own, according to reports from Foochow, provincial capital.

It was reported the Fukienese concluded a peace agreement with the Kiangsi communists against whom Marshal Chiang Kaishek, Nanking generalissimo, had been warring intensively since last May.

All central government revenues at Foochow were reported seized. The reports said the new administration's foreign minister was Eugene Chen, influential Cantonese leader and one time foreign minister for all China.

One unconfirmed report said Chen had arranged a three million dollar silver loan with Japan.

The Nanking government immediately ordered the central navy at Shanghai to hold itself in readiness to proceed to Foochow at a moment's notice.

The situation in Shanghai was tense. All public meetings and parades were banned following a conference between Mayor Wu Teh-Chen and military and naval leaders.

Fukien province is on the southeast coast of China, about midway between Shanghai and Canton. The situation there became tense late yesterday when a break was reported between Marshal Chiang and General Tsai Ting-Kai, hero of Shanghai's defense against the Japanese two years ago.

Marshal Chiang had sent General Tsai into Fukien in a major effort to subdue communist bands threatening to invade Fukien from Kiangsi province, east of Fukien.

OAKLAND MAN GETS PARDON FROM ROLPH

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 21.—(UP)—Governor Rolph today announced he had granted a full pardon to Howard Hogan, Oakland, who served 18 months in San Quentin prison following conviction on manslaughter charges after his automobile had struck and killed two persons in 1924.

Hogan completed his parole period in 1929, later studied medicine and graduated from the University of Edinburgh. The pardon restored full citizenship rights so that he might practice his profession, the governor said.

"TANGO" OPERATORS SUE

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 21.—(UP)—"Tango" game operators of Southern California today had on file in superior court here eight separate suits seeking to avoid payment of the state 21-2 retail sales tax.

State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson and the board of equalization were named as defendants in the actions, which claim the sales tax does not apply to the operators or their games.

LINDBERGH'S FLY THROUGH STORMS TO AZORES

Tries Suicide After He Calls Police

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Police received a call for an emergency ambulance. "Is some one hurt?" the desk officer asked. "No but there will be," a man's voice replied. A policeman rushed to the address given in the call. As he approached the place he heard some one call: "Hey chief, here I come."

A man's body crashed to the sidewalk from the roof of a three-story building. At Emergency hospital, doctors said the man, Walter Christensen, 20, probably would die. He had a fractured skull and a broken leg.

KIDNAPERS OF HART GUARDED IN JAIL CELLS

Increasing Fear Of Lynching Results In Pair Not Being Moved

SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 21.—(UP)—Increasing fear of "vigilante action" by indignant citizens aroused by the brutality of the Brooke L. Hart kidnaping and slaying, led authorities today to decide to keep the blonde youth's self-confessed slayers in the strong San Francisco prison indefinitely.

While search for the body continued in the muddy bottom and along the shores of lower San Francisco bay, county peace officers learned of new threats against Thomas H. Thurmond, 28, and John W. Holmes, 39. The two men admitted killing Hart after abducting him here Nov. 9.

Information reached the authorities that "20 influential friends of the socially prominent Hart family" had formed a committee, purportedly to insist on immediate and drastic punishment for the prisoners.

The apprehension over possible vigilante action led prosecuting officials to announce that they would not seek indictments in the case during the grand jury session sitting here this week.

Angry crowds have threatened the confessed slayers twice since their arrests last week. A group formed in the courtyard here last Thursday morning, causing the transfer of the prisoners to San Francisco. When Thurmond was taken to another building for questioning there, police had to force their way through a crowd from which came shouts of "lynch him."

Resentment has grown as additional details of the crime became public and as continued search failed to locate the body of the young business executive. Thurmond and Holmes claimed to have thrown Hart, "still struggling," from a toll bridge into the bay 40 miles north of San Jose.

LEE TRACY AVOIDS MEXICO CITY TRIAL

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Lee Tracy, American motion picture actor, was "permitted to leave the country" today, thus avoiding trial on charges of violation of the public morals code and "insulting the Mexican government."

The Hollywood star, here "on location" as one of the principal characters in a film which already had stirred indignation in Mexico, boarded a train for El Paso at the conclusion of a brief hearing.

It was understood authorities dropped the charges in consideration of his leaving the country.

Tracy was accused of standing unclad save for a blanket, on the balcony of a hotel and shouting "insults" at the cadets from the crack military school, the Chapultepec academy, while they were passing in review.

Indict Two California Bank Heads

President And Vice President Of California National Accused

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 21.—(UP)—Fred W. Kiesel, president, and A. B. Carter, vice president and cashier of the closed California National bank, were indicted by the federal grand jury here today on charges of making false reports to the United States comptroller of currency on the institution's condition and conspiracy to file such reports.

Warrants were ordered issued for the arrest of the former bank officers and bond was placed at $10,000 each.

Both bank officials were named in four counts in the indictment based on bank reports dating back to December 31, 1931. Three of the counts were based on specific reports allegedly filed with the comptroller, and the fourth was a conspiracy charge based on the first count.

The first count accused Kiesel and Carter with reporting the value of securities owned by the California National bank at $5,438,241.57, while "the true value of the securities was $3,945,916.10."

The indictment also charges that the report of December 31, 1931, listed securities with an asserted value of $5,333,477.47, as compared to a "true" value of $4,077,985.26.

The third charge was based on the accusation that bonds and stocks listed in the report of June 30, 1932, had a true value of $4,111,681.92 instead of $5,515,416.39 as listed in the report of that date on the bank's condition.

DEFENSE RESTS IN SANTA CRUZ TRIAL

SANTA CRUZ, Calif., Nov. 21.—(UP)—The trial of Miss Frieda W. Weltz, war nurse, on charges of murdering Francis J. M. Grace, her former employer, entered its closing stages today with the state calling rebuttal witnesses and with final arguments scheduled to begin before nightfall.

Both prosecuting and defense attorneys believed the fate of the titian-haired nurse would be given the jury of 11 men and one woman sometime Wednesday.

The defense rested late yesterday after the defendant had maintained her story that Grace had attacked her in a mountain cabin two years ago and that he had refused to aid her when she became ill after the alleged attack.

OIL PRODUCTION IN DECEMBER REDUCED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Production of oil will be limited to 2,210,000 barrels next month, or 128,000 barrels a day less than currently permitted, under orders of Secretary of Interior Ickes.

The order for reduced production was issued last night after hearings on price fixing were postponed for 15 days, and the date of effectiveness of a tentative price schedule moved back from December 1 to January 1.

The more drastic limitation of output was regarded as a final trial of this method of remedying the ills of the vast industry without resort to price fixing.

FEDERAL PRICE OF GOLD IS BOOSTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(UP)—The government today raised its price on newly mined American gold to $33.76 an ounce from yesterday's price of $33.66, an overnight increase of 10 cents an ounce.

Today's Washington price was 31 cents below the world price set at London today.

UNITED STATES AND RUSSIA TO ADJUST DEBTS

Soviet-American Agreement Expected To Be Reached By Thursday

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(UP)—A Soviet-American agreement which would expunge the past and enable both countries to inaugurate their renewed diplomatic relationship with a clean slate may be reached Thursday.

Complete, final settlement of Russia's debt to the United States, American private claims against the Soviets for confiscated property and Moscow's counter-claims for America's 1918 military expedition to Archangel, would be included in the significant agreement.

Maxim Litvinov is conducting under high pressure with the state and treasury departments are successful.

Accord in Sight
Though not yet within reach, this historic accord is in sight, the United Press was reliably informed, and both governments are hopeful that the perplexing financial issues between them may be adjusted within a week of last Thursday's resumption of diplomatic relations.

Litvinov and the American negotiators, Ambassador Designate William Bullitt, Under-Secretary of State William Phillips and Acting Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., are making a determined effort to come to an agreement.

REPORT EARTHQUAKE IN NEAR BAFFIN BAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(UP)—A terrific earthquake that jarred the seismographs of the scientific world yesterday, was placed today by the Fordham university observatory, after a check of international figures, in the vicinity of Baffin bay—the farthest north an earthquake ever has been recorded.

Although many earthquake observatories estimated the center of the shock from the Caribbean sea to Asia, Father Joseph Lynch of Fordham said computations based on the figures recorded at Fordham, London, British Columbia, and Pasadena, Calif., pointed definitely to the far north.

Father Lynch said the quake was probably in Baffin bay closer to Baffin Island than Greenland.

Stiff Winds Bucked For Nine Hours

Famous Couple Forced To Veer From Course But Arrive Safely

HORTA, Azores Islands, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh arrived at Fayal, the Azores, at 4:17 p. m. today (11:17 a. m., E. S. T.) after a trip from Lisbon, through heavy storms. Fayal is at the southwestern end of the Azores group, and the island is the natural mid-ocean landing place for transatlantic fliers who take the southern route.

Lindbergh's flight from San Miguel, at the eastern tip of the islands, to the island of Fayal, was more speedy than his longest haul over the storm-ridden Atlantic, nearly 300 miles, from Lisbon.

Although he had maintained two-hourly communication with the Portuguese authorities, the various positions he reported showed his speed greatly cut down by stiff winds and rain squalls.

Nine hours and seven minutes were required for the colonel to fight his way over the stormy 1000 miles. It appeared at times that he had been forced to veer from his course to escape the worst of the squalls.

His speed often fell below 100 miles an hour, although under favorable conditions his 700-horsepower motor will drive the big plane at 150 miles an hour.

Lindbergh left Lisbon at 7:10 a. m. He had Portuguese government assistance, and kept in radio communication with the Goncalves Zarco, which had been assigned to watch for him at San Miguel, easternmost point of the islands.

SPRAGUE RESIGNS GOVERNMENT POST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Dr. O. M. W. Sprague in a letter of criticism of the administration's monetary program today resigned his position as financial and executive assistant to the secretary of the treasury.

Sprague said he had "reached the conclusion that there is no degree from a drift into unrestrained inflation other than an aroused and organized public opinion."

"It is," Sprague's letter of resignation to President Roosevelt said, "for the purpose of contributing to such a movement that, with feelings of profound disappointment, I sever my connections with your administration."

CAR PLUNGES INTO HARBOR; BODY FOUND

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21.—(UP)—The body of an elderly man was recovered from Los Angeles harbor today when firemen hoisted to the surface an automobile which had plunged off a lumber company wharf while traveling at a high rate of speed.

The victim, identified as Fred W. Roberts of Long Beach, was found in the rear seat, but salvagers believed he was the sole occupant. The muddy floor of the harbor was still dragged, however, on the possibility other victims may have been drowned after releasing themselves through two open doors of the sedan.

A night watchman who saw the sedan dash past him as he opened a gate had believed it contained four passengers.

Late News Flashes

GENEVA, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Delegates of the chief European powers, with Hugh Wilson, American delegate, participating, decided today to recommend postponement of the disarmament conference until late in January. It was due to reconvene December 4.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Rioting broke out anew at Eastern penitentiary this afternoon and 500 policemen and a fire company were rushed to the scene to assist guards and state police.

Theft of Three Avocados Brings Death

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Three avocados cost the life of Miguel M. Negrete in a gun trap today.

He tripped the triggers of two double-barreled shot-guns and received a double charge of rock salt and bird shot in his leg. He bled to death from the wound after a delayed trip to a hospital.

Sheriff's deputies said the gun trap was set by Marlowe Niles to punish thieves who had been stealing avocados from his ranch in Baldwin Hills. Negrete stumbled against the string. The charge struck him below the thigh.

Officers said he dragged himself 60 feet to a highway where his brother, Andrew found him some time later.

Near the two guns, deputies found two sacks. There were two avocados in one, a single avocado in the other.

MAY ABANDON OIL INDUSTRY PRICE FIXING

Administrator Ickes Announces Probe To Probe Pipe Line Situation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Oil Administrator Ickes announced today the oil administration board would make a searching inquiry into the pipe line situation.

Ickes estimated that price fixing in the oil industry might be abandoned.

He appeared to believe that if conflicting factions within the industry could agree on a fair policy it might be unnecessary to fix arbitrarily the price of crude petroleum.

Ickes said representatives of independent producers and the large oil companies joined yesterday in requesting postponement of the effective date of the oil price fixing schedules.

Adequate control of production and refinery runs coupled with elimination of unfair trade practices, Ickes believes, would solve the situation. He contended that price fixing alone could not meet the oil problem.

Ickes said that if a large percentage of producers agree on a definite policy for the benefit of the entire industry, he would have no disposition to fix prices. He added, however, that if prices for petroleum and its products go too high, he may fix a maximum price to aid consumers.

The oil administrator said that there had been a great deal of complaints that the pipe lines were exerting undue influence on the oil business, that profits were too high and that the lines oppressed small producers.

FORD MAY CONFER WITH ROOSEVELT

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 21.—(UP)—The possibility of a "little White House" conference with Henry Ford arose today as President Roosevelt went forward with the task of directing his gigantic recovery program from his vacation retreat on Pine Mountain here.

While the temporary executive offices said that no formal engagement for Ford had been requested or made he would be received by Mr. Roosevelt if he came here. At the same time close administration friends made it clear that they would not be at all surprised if the motor manufacturer arrived within the next few days for a visit.

General Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, is coming to Atlanta for an NRA address. It was not revealed whether he would journey the 75 miles from that city to Warm Springs to be in on a Roosevelt-Ford discussion should one develop.

BIG BALLOON GROUNDED IN NEW JERSEY

Commander Settle And His Aide Remain With Ship On Mudflat Over Night

REACH 58,000 FEET

Gondola Not Injured And All Instruments Will Be Checked By Experts

FAIRTON, N. J., Nov. 21.—(UP)—Lieut. Commander T. G. W. Settle and Major Chester L. Fordney, first Americans to penetrate the stratosphere, landed in this remote corner of New Jersey last night, spent the night in their craft and reported today their flight was a "success."

Major Fordney walked three miles through a swamp early today to reach a telephone and spread the news of the safe landing.

Commander Settle remained with the balloon to guard the instruments and other equipment. The major was taken to a farmhouse and given a cup of coffee.

A detail of New Jersey state police arrived to escort Fordney back to the balloon. They planned to bring Commander Settle to the farmhouse.

Normal Landing
"We made what the commander called a normal landing," said Fordney. "We were unhurt, and the balloon was not damaged."

"We suffered no hardships during the flight."

The flight to an altitude of more than 58,000 feet, only some 4000 feet under the world record, was a scientific venture to study cosmic rays. The balloon left Akron, Ohio, yesterday, floated over Pennsylvania and was lost from sight over New Jersey after dusk.

When it was not reported this morning, scores of airplanes, ships and land parties sought for it over a wide area.

Fordney appeared fresh and not in the least exhausted after the long hours in the air on the second highest ascension ever made by man.

He smiled broadly as he drank a cup of coffee. Asked how he felt, he replied: "Swell."

Major Fordney was in great haste to return to the balloon with state troopers and bring Commander Settle.

STATE LIQUOR ACT IS HELD SENSIBLE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 21.—(UP)—The present state liquor control act is sensible, and should be given a fair trial before any changes are made, Fred Stewart, member of the board of equalization, said today when he heard of the recommendations advanced at a conference with Gov. James Rolph last night.

A plan to place liquor control in the hands of local authorities instead of having it retained by the state under the present liquor law was recommended to Governor Rolph by Theodore Roche, San Francisco attorney and one of the governor's chief advisers. The proposal was made, Roche said, in answer to a general demand for municipal and county jurisdiction in licensing and control of liquor sales.

Thanksgiving Proclamation Issued Today

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 21.—(UP)—In a proclamation expressing his gratefulness for "the passing of the dark days," President Roosevelt today called on the nation to observe Thanksgiving, Nov. 30.

The document, free of the usual "whereas" and "be it resolved," cited the courage of the pioneers of the land, pointed to a new spirit of dependence on one another, friendship between capital and labor and asked "for a clearer knowledge by all nations that we seek no conquests."

STIFF WINDS BUCKED FOR NINE HOURS

WIFE HELD AS DEAD HUSBAND IS IDENTIFIED

SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 21.—(UP)—A hotel room key, sole object found in the pockets of a well-dressed man mysteriously slain here, led today to identification of the victim as Courtland Howard, Reno, Nev., and to the detention at Reno of his wife and father-in-law.

Through the key, police traced the slain victim to the San Francisco Drake hotel, where "Mr. and Mrs. Courtland Howard and daughter and Samuel Montgomery, Reno," occupied adjoining rooms over the week-end.

Investigators learned that Mrs. Howard and Montgomery had left the city by airplane Sunday night. Howard's body was found in a gulch on the outskirts of the city. There were three bullet holes in the body, one in the temple and two in the neck. Every mark of identification except the key had been removed. There were $20 dollars in the pockets, indicating that robbery had not been the motive for the shooting. The expensive clothing the victim wore had been purchased in Los Angeles.

In the hotel room searchers found an overcoat and a partly-filled bottle of cognac. Howard's automobile was located in a near-by garage.

A maid told of seeing "four men in their shirt sleeves" in the hotel room.

REPORT EARTHQUAKE NORTHWESTERN AND CHICAGO MAY MERGE

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—(INS)—Negotiations looking toward a merger molding the University of Chicago and Northwestern university into one great educational enterprise today were reported to have reached the final stage.

Melvin A. Traylor, chairman of the Northwestern university merger committee, said the combination would be complete and not a co-operative union.

Details will be made public January 1, President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago said.

Although three proposals have been submitted to and studied by the committee of three educators named to study the plan, it was reported that the members favor a complete merger.

The proposal was made, Roche said, in answer to a general demand for municipal and county jurisdiction in licensing and control of liquor sales.

Thanksgiving Proclamation Issued Today

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 21.—(UP)—In a proclamation expressing his gratefulness for "the passing of the dark days," President Roosevelt today called on the nation to observe Thanksgiving, Nov. 30.

The document, free of the usual "whereases" and "be it resolved," cited the courage of the pioneers of the land, pointed to a new spirit of dependence on one another, friendship between capital and labor and asked "for a clearer knowledge by all nations that we seek no conquests."

500 SCOUTS IN BIG PROGRAM AT NEW CAMP

Highest awards in Scouting were presented and patrols from six Boy Scout troops in Orange county emerged with Class "A" ratings in a big Camporal and camp of honor held over the week end at the new Scout camp in Limestone canyon. More than 500 Boy Scouts participated in the Camporal and about 500 were present at the court of honor ceremonies Saturday night.

Competing against a given standard in proficiency in camping and outdoor life, the following patrols from troops named won highest honors at the Camporal:

Troop 1 of Newport Beach, led by Scoutmaster Vernon Orr; Troop 2 of Garden Grove, led by Scoutmaster W. V. Brady; Troop 25, Santa Ana, led by Scoutmaster Lee Boyle; Troop 35, of Fullerton, led by Scoutmaster Ben Carey; Troop 89 of Yorba Linda, led by Scoutmaster Francis Addy and two patrols from Troop 100, Placentia, led by Scoutmaster H. E. Douglas.

Achievement Awards Achievement awards were made yesterday afternoon during the final of the big Camporal. Fred Rowland and W. E. Hilliard, Santa Ana, Kenneth Kessler of La Habra and W. V. Brady, Garden Grove, judged the camping events. Saturday, yesterday members of the two Troop 100 patrols, which won highest honors at the previous county Camporal, aided by M. R. Littlejohn, Garden Grove, Carl Parker, Fullerton, and T. J. Holt, Oceanview, judged final events.

Some of the highest awards in Scouting were presented during the court of honor Saturday night around a campfire. Col. M. E. Wellington, pioneer member of the Orange County Boy Scout Council, made the presentations following a brief address in which he stressed the necessity for Scouts to play their full part in citizenship matters.

Eagle Badges Given Eagle Scouts who were presented with their badges by Colonel Wellington were Jack Preston, Bob Fannell, Conley Kemper and Franklin Muncie, Santa Ana, and John Murphy, Fred Kobayashi and Dick Skinner, Garden Grove.

THREE JAILED ON DRUNK CHARGES

Three men were jailed for drunkenness by Santa Ana police within 30 minutes last night, including one man who was released from jail on a drunk charge Saturday.

Louie Carisoza, 48, 311 Lacy street, was arrested at Fifth and Bush streets with a pint bottle of whiskey, officers reported. This was his second arrest this month on the same offense. Officers J. L. Grouard and William Heard made the arrest at 12:30 a. m. today.

Leo Saragosa, 20, 1816 West Fourth street and John Ysaia, 23, 1816 West Third street, were arrested for intoxication at 1 a. m. by Officers A. L. Steward and Joe Murillo in the car of Ysaia in the 2200 block on West Fifth street. Saragosa was in a fighting mood and was jailed with difficulty, officers said.

Joe Roberts, 49, concluding a 7 1-2-day jail term for drunkenness in the county jail, was rebooked for Santa Ana police yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct and will serve five days unless he pays a $10 fine.

ARRESTED FOR SPEEDING E. Conklin, of Santa Ana, has been arrested by police on a bench warrant from Long Beach, for speeding. He posted $15 bail and was cited to appear in Long Beach today.

CATARHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or hard and ear noises or are growing hard of hearing go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmitin (double strength), and add to it a pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

BEVERLY HILLS, Nov. 21. (To the Editor of The Register.) Well, the name of the new Russian Ambassador appeared in the paper yesterday, and it just about took up all the paper. It's Alexanderovich Antonovich Trovanovsky. That's an alphabetic rhapsody in vowels and consonants. But they don't put much over on Mr. Roosevelt, he sent 'em a guy named Bullett, that was just a kind of subtle hint.

Mr. Roosevelt was rather undecided exactly what to do on the stabilization of the dollar, till the U. S. Chamber of Commerce come out and told him what to do. Then he knew exactly what to do. Do what the chamber said not to do. Mr. Roosevelt knows he is right now; before he was in doubt.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

CONFERENCE ON OIL SUIT HELD HERE MONDAY

Said to have been for the purpose of attempting a solution of the difficulty that has halted drilling operations of independent companies in the Huntington Beach field, L. G. Campbell, representing the State attorney general, U. S. Webb, and Phil Swaffield, attorney for the Terno Oil company, accused of slant drilling of wells, was held here yesterday.

Yesterday's conference, it was said, may be the first step toward settling difficulties that culminated when the state filed suits against the Terno company which resulted in practically shutting down the field. According to Campbell, however, the agreement, if any is reached, will apply only to Terno company wells. He intimated that other independent operators in the field probably will not feel justified in renewing production as a result of the negotiation.

The conference was for the purpose of arriving at a satisfactory means whereby the state can remove its objection to production by the Terno wells, under certain conditions. The state, it is intimated, will insist that all proceeds from the wells be impounded in Orange county pending determination of litigation. If such agreement is made, it was said, production will not be in excess of the amount allowed under the NRA petroleum code. This, it is estimated, will be about 46,000 barrels for November.

No definite agreement was reached yesterday at the conference and it was said that Swaffield and Campbell will continue their conference at a later date. In the meantime hearing on the three suits pending against the Terno company is scheduled for November 27. Postponement of this hearing, is considered a possibility in the fact of an action pending in superior court in Sacramento which will attempt to interpret existing legislation to permit State Director of Finance Rolland Vandegrift to settle with the independent operators in the Huntington Beach field on a royalty basis. The suit was filed by Assemblyman James Utt from Santa Ana who said that until present legislation is interpreted the state cannot make a settlement. The state-owned oil pool, under the tidelands cannot be worked by the state, which is prevented from entering the oil business.

It has been claimed that if the state, through Vandegrift, is permitted to settle with the independents on a royalty basis, it will turn several millions of dollars annually into the state treasury and at the same time relieve the unemployment situation in the beach field.

Should adjudication of the pending suit not permit the state to settle with the operators, it has been suggested by Assemblymen Utt and Ted Craig that a special session of the legislature be called to amend the law permitting such settlement. Settlement with the operators has been recommended by a special legislative investigation committee appointed by Gov. James Rolph, of which Craig was a member.

OPERATORS MEET WITH OFFICIALS

A committee representing Huntington Beach town oil operators expects to meet with Governor Rolph, State Finance Director Rolland Vandegrift and State Attorney General U. S. Webb the latter part of this week for the purpose of presenting engineering and other data and to make a royalty offer, it was learned today from Cecil Rood, prominent beach city oil man.

The governor at a hearing held in Sacramento last week, indicated that he would endeavor to settle the state's suits against operators charged with "whipstocking" their wells into pools under state owned tidelands, provided the operators would make a fair royalty offer.

At present, the state is legally unable to accept any royalty from the operators, but a suit has been filed in Sacramento by Assemblyman James providing for acceptance by the state of royalty from tidelands. A hearing on Utt's suit is scheduled for December 7. Rood and H. R. Hamilton were named by Huntington Beach oil operators recently to represent them in negotiations with state officials.

STRATOSPHERE FLIERS LAND SAFE AT NIGHT

mander Settle back, and he discussed the flight only briefly before departing with them.

The sudden appearance of Fordney with news of the safety of the stratosphere balloon and its occupants ended the greatest search along the Atlantic seaboard since the crash of the dirigible Akron off the New Jersey coast last spring.

More than 50 airplanes had taken off during the early morning from various stations between Norfolk, Va., and Lakehurst, N. J., to seek Commander Settle.

The descent was on a mudflat along the Delaware river at 6:10 p. m. yesterday, a short time after the balloon was sighted in the air above Alloway, N. J. Stay With Ship

Almost sixteen hours elapsed before word of the safety of the two men was spread. They apparently feared to attempt to get through the swamp land during the night. Both remained with the craft until after daybreak.

They were in the air eight hours and forty-three minutes. The flight started at Akron, Ohio, at 9:27 a. m. yesterday. The balloon distance between Akron and the landing point is approximately 350 miles, but the flight of the balloon was much longer as it followed the air currents.

Commander Settle and Major Fordney soared to within less than a mile of the world record of 63,320 feet set by three Russians last September. They exceeded by more than a mile the altitude attained by Prof. Piccard of Belgium, first to penetrate the stratosphere.

Settle and Fordney were the first Americans to reach the stratosphere, and the first men to maintain radio communication between it and the earth.

Skill of the men in navigating the balloon was shown by their ability to bring it down at the spot where they landed. A few more minutes of flight would have carried them over the Delaware river for a perilous landing in the water after dark.

Men To Get Work On State Roads

Work for two weeks each month will be supplied to eight men from Santa Ana on state highway projects, the city council was notified last night by Earl Lee Kelly, director of the state public works department.

Sixteen applicants will be Swanner, American Legion commander, and Carl Mock, realtor. Eight of these will be chosen and the other group will serve as alternates. The work will start on December 4 and will hand labor projects.

LAGUNA BEACH DISH WASHER INHERITS ESTATE IN ENGLAND

Gilbert Broking, 34, will step from the job of washing dishes in the kitchen of the Mad Hatter cafe, Laguna Beach, to be the master of a landed estate in England. Today he received a letter from McTavish and MacDermott, barristers in charge of the estate of his second cousin, Gerald Broking, informing him that he had inherited the landed estate near Rotham and 25 miles from Newcastle. As soon as financial arrangements can be made he will shake the green apron and dish towel for a suitable outfit and go to claim his inheritance. Value of the estate is not known.

Broking's father, Henry Charles Broking, first cousin of the deceased landed proprietor, migrated to New York after leaving the army and Gilbert was born in that city. His early training was at the New York Military academy, Cornwall, N. Y., and then he was sent to Charter House, the English school for sons of officers. When the World War was declared he received a commission as lieutenant and served with the Fifth Hussars in Palestine. Five Brokings are a cadet branch of the family of the Earl of Northumberland, but have no titles. The estate consists of a fine old manor house and grounds and there are many tenant farmers, it is reported.

Gilbert Broking's first night in Laguna Beach was in a jail cell. Out of work and declaring that he would not "sponge" on friends or relatives, he had started out from New York in search of work. Hitch-hiking from city to city he made extended stops at Miami, Key West, New Orleans and El Paso. Careful to leave a forwarding order at each postoffice, the barrister's letter followed him over that trail to Laguna Beach.

Late one evening last August he appeared at the Mad Hatter cafe and asked for a job. Mrs. Tessa Marin Chamberlain and Mrs. Constance Day Tawney, the proprietors, gave him a meal and told him to report in the morning. There was no place for him to sleep and the hotels and rooming houses were crowded, so they asked Police Chief Abe Johnson to take care of him for the night. He went to work in the morning. When the busy season was over, he was so well liked that he was kept on the job.

Body Missing A five-day search of the immediate area of the bridge brought no trace of the body. Grappling hooks brought up from the mud several blocks and coils of wire allegedly used by the kidnapers and a shoreline searcher found a hat which Alex J. Hart, wealthy father of the victim, positively identified as his son's. A pillow slip found in the bay was not the one used to cover the youth's head, authorities said.

Officials of three counties conferred on extension of the search. It was decided to drop a weighted dummy figure from the bridge to determine which way it would float. Chief of Police Charles Scudero of Pittsburgh, Cal., joined the hunt with the hook-studded apparatus which has found 67 bodies in the bay in recent years.

Meantime in the well-guarded prison in San Francisco, the prisoners received relatives and attorneys in planning for their defense. Thurmond was expected to plead insanity. In his own words, he has been "crazy" since his sweetheart married another man more than a year ago. Holmes' attorney indicated his client probably would repudiate a confession "forced from him by third-degree methods."

Opened today in Santa Ana canyon, 16 miles northeast of this city, the state labor camp authorized by a recent agreement between the state and the board of supervisors will offer work, food and shelter to 80 single men, residents of Orange county during the winter months, according to E. V. Curry, county welfare director.

That the camp will offer a haven for Orange county residents only was emphasized this morning when a truck load of men sent to the camp from Los Angeles county was turned back and the men refused admission.

The state has permitted establishment of the labor camp in Santa Ana canyon for accommodation of 80 men. If the need is sufficient, and more men apply for admission than the camp will accommodate it is considered likely that a second will be opened. The camp is under direction of State Ranger Joe Scherman of Orange.

to terms on the sole remaining obstacles of the past which might impede Russo-American harmony. The commissar intends to go to New York Thursday noon to attend a banquet at which Senator Borah is to speak. Litvinov plans to sail Saturday on the "Le De France" or "Conte Di Savoia," probably the former. If a few more days were needed to perfect the accord on debts and claims, the commissar doubtless would postpone his departure, but he is eager to return to Europe and confer with the new Soviet ambassador to the United States, Alexander Troianovsky, before the envoy proceeds to Washington.

That Litvinov decided to remain in this country for at least a week after President Roosevelt's departure from Washington was due entirely to the project of crowning recognition with a financial settlement. Discussion of trade and credits has been wholly subordinated to the debts-and-claims negotiations.

United Press inquiries in high administration quarters revealed that Litvinov and the United States government are evolving a concrete formula, by which they propose to untangle the Soviet-American debts-and-claims know within two or three days.

Discovery of this formula has been the only grave difficulty hitherto encountered during Litvinov's mission. Curtly summarized, the puzzle to be solved is as follows:

If Moscow agrees to repay the $157,729,750 Keresky debt to the American government, it may establish a precedent which would enable France, Britain, Germany and other countries to lodge claims for $6,500,000,000 against the Soviets for Russian war and pre-war debts, municipal and railway loans. On the other hand, were the United States to cancel the Keresky debt and American private claims in return for Soviet renunciation of damages for American intervention in Archangel, Washington would jeopardize, if not forfeit, legal and moral title to the $11,000,000,000 allied war debts.

Venus kept a date with the moon here last night providing a rare spectacle last visible here five years ago.

The moon and Venus were seen so close together that it looked as if Venus were just dropping in on the moon. The spectacle lasted until the moon "retired". In reality, astronomers said, the two heavenly bodies were far apart, but to observers, Venus and the Moon were on the same line of vision from the earth.

Police Inspectors Allen McGinn and Harry Husted left here for Reno to return the prisoners for questioning. The Howards' daughter was not mentioned in the Nevada report.

At Reno, Montgomery and Mrs. Howard refused to discuss the death.

"I didn't do anything," Montgomery, who is 67 years old, told police. "I won't talk until I get an attorney." He also advised Mrs. Howard not to answer questions.

Reno police could not identify either the Howards or Montgomery as residents of the city. The automobile Howard used was borrowed, reportedly from Howard Asher, Reno. A checkbook found in Montgomery's pockets was issued by a Los Angeles bank.

Authorities believed that the persons involved in the mystery came originally from New York City.

500 SCOUTS IN BIG PROGRAM AT NEW CAMP

Highest awards in Scouting were presented and patrols from six Boy Scout troops in Orange county emerged with Class "A" ratings in a big Camporal and court of honor held over the week end at the new Scout camp in Limestone canyon. More than 500 Boy Scouts participated in the Camporal and about 500 were present at the court of honor ceremonies Saturday night.

Competing against a given standard in proficiency in camping and outdoor life, the following patrols from troops named won highest honors at the Camporal:

Troop 5 of Newport Beach, led by Scoutmaster Vernon Orr; Troop 9 of Garden Grove, led by Scoutmaster W. V. Brady; Troop 25, Santa Ana, led by Scoutmaster Lee Boyle; Troop 33, of Fullerton, led by Scoutmaster Ben Carey; Troop 39 of Yorba Linda, led by Scoutmaster Francis Addy and two patrols from Troop 100, Placentia, led by Scoutmaster H. E. Douglas.

Achievement Awards
Achievement awards were made yesterday afternoon during the finale of the big Camporal. Fred Rowland and W. K. Hillyard, Santa Ana, Kenneth Kessler of La Habra and W. V. Brady, Garden Grove, judged the camping events, Saturday. Yesterday members of the two Troop 100 patrols, which won highest honors at the previous county Camporal, aided by M. R. Littlejohn, Garden Grove, Carl Parker, Fullerton, and T. J. Holt, Oceanview, judged final events.

Some of the highest awards in Scouting were presented during the court of honor Saturday night around a campfire. Col. M. B. Wellington, pioneer member of the Orange County Boy Scout Council, made the presentations following a brief address in which he stressed the necessity for Scouts to play their full part in citizenship matters.

Eagle Badges Given
Eagle Scouts who were presented with their badges by Colonel Wellington were Jack Preston, Bob Fennell, Chet Kemper and Franklin Muncelle, Santa Ana, and John Murphy, Fred Kobayashi and Dick Skinner, Garden Grove.

A big campfire program was staged Saturday night, with yells, stunts and other features included in the program.

A stirring sermon on the subject, "Be Prepared," was delivered to the large group of Scouts at special outdoor service yesterday morning by the Rev. Albert E. Kelley, minister of the Santa Ana United Presbyterian church.

Scout Executive Harrison E. White was in general charge of the combined events.

THREE JAILED ON DRUNK CHARGES
Three men were jailed for drunkenness by Santa Ana police within 30 minutes last night, including one man who was released from jail on a drunk charge Saturday.

Louie Carisoza, 48, 311 Lacy street, was arrested at Fifth and Bush streets with a pint bottle of whiskey, officers reported. This was his second arrest this month in the same offense. Officers F. L. Grouard and William Heard made the arrest at 12:30 a. m. today.

Leo Saragosa, 20, 1816 West Fourth street and John Ysais, 23, 1816 West Third street, were arrested for intoxication at 1 a. m. by Officers A. L. Steward and Joe Murillo in the car of Ysais in the 2200 block on West Fifth street. Saragosa was in a fighting mood and was jailed with difficulty, officers said.

Joe Roberts, 49, concluding a 1-1-2 day jail term for drunkenness in the county jail, was rebooked for Santa Ana police yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct and will serve five days unless he pays a $10 fine.

ARRESTED FOR SPEEDING
E. Conklin, of Santa Ana, has been arrested by police on a bench warrant from Long Beach, for speeding. He posted $15 bail and was cited to appear in Long Beach today.

CONFERENCE ON OIL SUIT HELD HERE MONDAY

Said to have been for the purpose of attempting a solution of the difficulty that has halted drilling operations of independent companies in the Huntington Beach field, L. G. Campbell, representing the State attorney general, U. S. Webb, and Phil Swaffield, attorney for the Terno Oil company, accused of slant drilling of wells, was held here yesterday.

Yesterday's conference, it was said, may be the first step toward settling difficulties that culminated when the state filed suits against the Terno company which resulted in practically shutting down the field. According to Campbell, however, the agreement, if any is reached, will apply only to Terno company wells. He intimated that other independent operators in the field probably will not feel justified in renewing production as a result of the negotiation.

The conference was for the purpose of arriving at a satisfactory means whereby the state can remove its objection to production by the Terno wells, under certain conditions. The state, it is intimated, will insist that all proceeds from the wells be impounded in Orange county pending determination of litigation.

If such agreement is made, it was said, production will not be in excess of the amount allowed under the NRA petroleum code. This, it is estimated, will be about 46,000 barrels for November.

No definite agreement was reached yesterday at the conference and it was said that Swaffield and Campbell will continue their conference at a later date. In the meantime hearing on the three suits pending against the Terno company is scheduled for November 27. Postponement of this hearing, is considered a possibility in the fact of an action pending in superior court in Sacramento which will attempt to interpret existing legislation to permit State Director of Finance Rolland Vandegrift to settle with the independent operators in the Huntington Beach field on a royalty basis.

The suit was filed by Assemblyman James Ut from Santa Ana, who said that until present legislation is interpreted the state cannot make a settlement. The state-owned oil pool, under the tidelands cannot be worked by the state, which is prevented from entering the oil business.

It has been claimed that if the state, through Vandegrift, is permitted to settle with the independents on a royalty basis, it will turn several millions of dollars annually into the state treasury and at the same time relieve the unemployment situation in the beach field.

Settlement with the operators has been recommended by a special legislative investigation committee appointed by Gov. James Rolph, of which Craig was a member.

A committee representing Huntington Beach town oil operators expects to meet with Governor Rolph, State Finance Director Rolland Vandegrift and State Attorney General U. S. Webb the latter part of this week for the purpose of presenting engineering and other data and to make a royalty offer, it was learned today from Cecil Rood, prominent beach city oil man.

The governor at a hearing held in Sacramento last week, indicated that he would endeavor to settle the state's suits against operators charged with "whipsnocking" their wells into pools under state owned tidelands, provided the operators would make a fair royalty offer.

At present, the state is legally unable to accept any royalty from the operators, but a suit has been filed in Sacramento by Assemblyman James providing for acceptance of a hearing on "Ut's" suit is scheduled for December 7. Rood and H. R. Hamilton were named by Huntington Beach oil operators recently to represent them in negotiations with state officials.

LAGUNA BEACH DISH WASHER INHERITS ESTATE IN ENGLAND

Gilbert Broking, 34, will step from the job of washing dishes in the kitchen of the Mad Hatter cafe, Laguna Beach, to be the master of a landed estate in England. Today he received a letter from McTavish and MacDermott, barristers in charge of the estate of his second cousin, Gerald Broking, informing him that he had inherited the landed estate near Rotham and 25 miles from Newcastle. As soon as financial arrangements can be made he will shake the green apron and dish towel for a suitable outfit and go to claim his inheritance. Value of the estate is not known.

Broking's father, Henry Charles Broking, first cousin of the deceased landed proprietor, migrated to New York after leaving the army and Gilbert was born in that city. Late one evening last August he appeared at the Mad Hatter cafe and asked for a job. Mrs. Tessa Marin Chamberlain and Mrs. Constance Day Tawney, the proprietors, gave him a meal and told him to report in the morning. There was no place for him to sleep and the hotels and rooming houses were crowded, so they asked Police Chief Abe Johnson to take care of him for the night. He went to work in the morning. When the busy season was over, he was so well liked that he was kept on the job.

Body Missing
A five-day search of the immediate area of the bridge brought no trace of the body. Grappling hooks brought up from the mud several blocks and coils of wire allegedly used by the kidnapers and a shoreline searcher found a hat which the victim, positively identified as his son's. A pillow slip found in the hay was not the one used to cover the youth's head, authorities said.

Officials of three counties conferred on extension of the search. It was decided to drop a weighted dummy figure from the bridge to determine which way it would float. Chief of Police Charles Scudero of Pittsburgh, Cal., joined the hunt with the hook-studded apparatus which has found 67 bodies in the bay in recent years.

Meantime in the well-guarded prison in San Francisco, the prisoners received relatives and attorneys in planning for their defense. Thurmond was expected to plead insanity. In his own words, he has been "crazy" since his sweetheart married another man more than a year ago. Holmes' attorney indicated his client probably would repudiate a confession

LABOR CAMP OPENS TODAY IN S.A. CANYON

Opened today in Santa Ana canyon, 16 miles northeast of this city, the state labor camp authorized by a recent agreement between the state and the board of supervisors will offer work, food and shelter to 80 single men, residents of Orange county during the winter months, according to E. V. Curry, county welfare director.

That the camp will offer a haven for Orange county residents only was emphasized this morning when a truck load of men sent to the camp from Los Angeles county was turned back and the men refused admission.

The state has permitted establishment of the labor camp in Santa Ana canyon for accommodation of 80 men. If the need is sufficient and more men apply for admission than the camp will accommodate it is considered likely that a second will be opened. The camp is under direction of State Ranger Joe Scherman of Orange.

UNITED STATES AND RUSSIA TO ADJUST DEBTS

to terms on the sole remaining obstacles of the past which might impede Russo-American harmony.

The commissar intends to go to New York Thursday noon to attend a banquet at which Senator Borah is to speak. Litvinov plans to sail Saturday on the "De France" or "Conte Di Savoia," probably the former. If a few more days were needed to perfect the accord on debts and claims, the commissar doubtless would postpone his departure, but he is eager to return to Europe and confer with the new Soviet ambassador to the United States, Alexander Troyanovsky, before the envoy proceeds to Washington.

That Litvinov decided to remain in this country for at least a week after President Roosevelt's departure from Washington was due entirely to the project of crowning recognition with a financial settlement. Discussion of trade and credits has been wholly subordinated to the debts-and-claims negotiations.

United Press inquiries in high administration quarters revealed that Litvinov and the United States government are evolving a concrete formula, by which they propose to untangle the Soviet-American debts-and-claims knot within two or three days.

Discovery of this formula has been the only grave difficulty hitherto encountered during Litvinov's mission. Curly summarized the puzzle to be solved is as follows:

If Moscow agrees to repay the $157,729,750 Keresky debt to the American government, it may establish a precedent which would enable France, Britain, Germany and other countries to lodge claims for $6,500,000,000 against the Soviets for Russian war and pre-war debts, municipal and railway loans. On the other hand, were the United States to cancel the Keresky debt and American private claims in return for Soviet renunciation of damages for American intervention in Archangel, Washington would jeopardize, if not forfeit, legal and moral title to the $11,000,000,000 allied war debts.

Moon, Venus Provide Free Show

Venus kept a date with the moon here last night providing a rare spectacle last visible here five years ago.

The moon and Venus were seen to close together that it looked as if Venus were just dropping in on the moon. The spectacle lasted until the moon "retired".

In reality, astronomers said, the two heavenly bodies were far apart, but to observers, Venus and the Moon were on the same line of vision from the earth.

drunkenness, two for speeding and two for traffic violations. Felix Morales, 702 Fairclawn street, paid $5 of a $15 fine for drunkenness; Robert McClellan was committed for 7-12 days for intoxication; Lee Martin paid $5 of a $15 fine for drunkenness; Stephen Guerra was given a 30-day suspended sentence for drunkenness, and John Lauder promised to pay a $15 fine for drunkenness on November 22.

Two speeding fines were paid, Henry Windley, R. D. 2, Box 81 being fined $8 and Mrs. Ina Gregg, 931 West Camille street, $5.

Tessie Childers paid a $1 fine for failing to make a boulevard stop and L. D. Spencer paid a $2 fine for blocking a street car.

Howard's room Sunday. They were drinking, she said. The room showed evidence of having been abandoned hurriedly.

Police Inspectors Allen McGinn and Harry Husted left here for Reno to return the prisoners for questioning. The Howards' daughter was not mentioned in the Nevada report.

At Reno, Montgomery and Mrs. Howard refused to discuss the death.

"I didn't do anything," Montgomery, who is 67 years old, told police. "I won't talk until I get an attorney." He also advised Mrs. Howard not to answer questions.

Reno police could not identify either the Howards or Montgomery as residents of the city. The automobile Howard used was borrowed, reportedly from Howard Asher, Reno. A checkbook found in Montgomery's pockets was issued by a Los Angeles bank.

Authorities believed that the persons involved in the mystery came originally from New York City.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES

AMERICA'S GREATEST STUNT GIRL

A SUDDEN NERVE-RACKING swing upward from a racing auto into a hurtling plane... It's all in the day's work for Mary Wiggins, famous stunt girl who also dives on fire into fire and does the suspension glide in mid-air while hanging only by her teeth. It means something when she says, "Camels never give me edgy nerves even when I smoke a lot."

A MATCHLESS BLEND

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

LISTEN TO MARY WIGGINS, greatest of all girl stunt performers. She says:
"I have to be sure my nerves are healthy to do my stunts, changing from a speeding auto to a plane, the high dive on fire into fire, wing walking while up in a plane, and the high-altitude parachute jump. As to smoking, I've found that Camels don't interfere with healthy nerves. I've tried all the brands. Camels are milder and better in flavor. They do not give me edgy nerves even when I am smoking a lot."

You'll like that rich Camel flavor and mildness. And your nerves will tell you the difference there is in Camel's costlier tobaccos.

REPORTS PURSE STOLEN

Mrs. Fred Dawson, 412 East

Pine street, had a brown purse containing a driver's license and small change stolen from a parked car at 213 South Garney street, he has reported to police.

CRIME CAREER

WINDS UP IN PRISON TERM

Ending a checkered career of

imprisonment in several jails, successful jail breaking, hand to hand fighting with officers and automobile

McNeil Island Penitentiary was meted out to William Edward

Boyd, Jr., 24, in a Los Angeles federal court yesterday on a charge of impersonating a colonel in the Army Officers Reserve.

Boyd escaped from the Orange County hospital prison ward in August by breaking the bars and dropping two stories to the ground with the aid of a rope made from sheets. He had been taken to the hospital for observation after federal officials took him to the county jail to await his trial in Los Angeles. From the hospital he went to a nearby ranch where he stole a car and clothing, wrecked the car in San Diego and was finally recaptured in Oregon. While being returned here, he nearly escaped from his guards on the train.

Boyd pleaded guilty to the impersonation charge, which involved the cashing of worthless checks and the obtaining of an army pistol.

"I generally had a girl with me and I was just trying to show off,"

he explained to Judge Paul J. Mc-

Cormick.

HEARING ON

SCHOOL MERGER

IS CONTINUED

Hearing before the board of su-

perisors on petitions for consolidation of portions of the Centralia school district with other

Supervisor LeRoy Lyon.

The continuance was voted following submission of recommendations by County Superintendent of Schools Ray Adkinson in which he declared opposition to any plan for consolidation that did not provide for the entire district. Under petitions that have been filed, a

consolidated as a small district.

The board, in granting the continuance urged that an effort be made to provide for consolidation of this small strip with one or more of the other districts.

Three consolidation petitions have been filed with the supervisors. Under the petitions a portion of the Centra district would be merged with the Buena

Park grammar school district; another portion would be annexed to the Cypress district and a third portion would consolidate with

Magnolia elementary district.

Explaining his recommendation,

Adkinson said that the trend of education and policy of his office is toward larger school districts.

In view of this policy he would oppose any action that would create a smaller district. Through the petitions filed the Centra

district would not be consolidated and eliminated as a district but would leave a small area as a separate district.

It was also pointed out by Adkinson that indications are that at the next session of legislature laws will be passed making it mandatory to merge small districts with larger areas.

REPORTS PURSE STOLEN

Mrs. Fred Dawson, 412 East Pine street, had a brown purse containing a driver's license and small change stolen from a parked car at 313 South Garnsey street, she has reported to police.

COURT ORDER SETS HEARING NEXT FRIDAY

Listing the burning of the gambling ship "Johanna Smith" as "an act of God" which delayed drilling operations on state tidelands under a permit she held, Matilda Shallemiller has filed suit in superior court here to prevent threatened termination of her lease by the state. Her permit is valued in the suit at $5,000,000.

Following filing of the action late yesterday, Superior Judge James L. Allen issued a temporary restraining order preventing termination of the permit and ordered the defendants, W. S. Kingsbury, chief of the division of state lands, and Rolland A. Vandegrift, director of the department of finance, to appear Friday, at 2 p. m., to show cause why a permanent injunction should not be issued.

The permit terminated November 3, and denial of the right to continue operations is threatened because the plaintiff has not drilled her wells as rapidly as the permit agreement required, she charges in her complaint. In her complaint she explained that delays in various court actions involving a boundary dispute with the Bolsa Land company was one of the contributing causes to her delay in drilling wells under the permit.

The permit, according to her complaint, was originally granted November 3, 1930. It was extended one year on November 3, 1931, and again in 1932.

She alleges that in April, 1930, she secured approval from the division of state lands for plans for a proposed pier and derrick to be erected for drilling a well. The permit to erect the derrick and well was obtained from the district engineer of the United States army, and through her agent, the Vaqueros Motor Oil company, started drilling. On April 29, 1930, the Bolsa Land company, she alleged, claimed an interest in land adjoining the tidelands property and secured an injunction preventing use of the land. Later the land company stationed armed guards on the property and ordered drilling crews away from the well under threats of violence and arrest.

The Bolsa Land company suit and others filed against the operators have dragged through court without a definite determination of the boundaries of the permit. When the Johanna Smith gambling ship burned, the complaint alleges, the hull washed ashore near the derrick which was then being operated by the Preston Oil company and broke in two pieces, offering an obstacle to transportation of materials and supplies to the well, which materially delayed completion of wells as required under the permit.

MARY LOCKHART ORANGE COUNTY PIONEER, DIES

Memories of pioneer days of Orange county, then a part of Los Angeles county, were revived here today with the receipt of news of the passing of Mrs. Mary B. Lockhart, 90, which occurred yesterday at her home at 1929 Lovelace avenue, Los Angeles.

Mrs. Lockhart was the widow of the late T. J. Lockhart, who, living at Orange between the years of 1873 and 1892, took a prominent part in the affairs of the county. The former Lockhart home in Orange is now the L. E. Smith place on West Chapman street.

Mrs. Lockhart was born December 11, 1843, near Danville, Ind. She taught school in Danville for a few years, and was married in 1864 to Thomas Jefferson Lockhart, who served in the Union forces during the Civil war. The couple lived for a time in Terre Haute, Ind., and from there moved to Indianapolis, where they remained for a few years, before moving to Pittsburgh, Penn. In 1872, the Lockharts struck out for California, settling at San Jose. The next year, the couple came south and acquired a 700-acre ranch one mile west of Orange. Here Lockhart and a brother, L. J. Lockhart, were engaged in the stock business. In 1892 the Lockharts moved from Orange to Los Angeles and built a home near the corner of Figueroa and Washington streets where the family lived for 40 years.

The deceased is survived by her brother, J. Everett Parker of Orange; four children, O. P. Lockhart and Lew Lockhart of Los Angeles; Edwin Lockhart of New York City, and Mrs. Frank S. Williams of Beverly Hills; and several grandchildren. She was an aunt of Mrs. Mabel Fishback of Orange, Mrs. Rex B. Kennedy of Santa Ana, and of George and Bernard Parker, the latter two of the Orange County title company; and a sister-in-law of Mrs. C. E. Parker and Mrs. Ella Parker, of Santa Ana.

The funeral services will be held Friday, November 24, at 2 p. m. at the Magnolia Avenue Christian church, with interment at the Evergreen cemetery.

SPEAKS TONIGHT

Senator Robert La Follette, below, will speak at the Fullerton Union High school tonight at 8:15 p. m. on the topic "What Progressives Are Fighting For," under auspices of the Orange County Forum.

HEARING ON SCHOOL MERGER IS CONTINUED

Hearing before the board of supervisors on petitions for consolidation of portions of the Centralia school district with other adjoining districts was continued until December 5 on motion of Supervisor LeRoy Lyon.

The continuance was voted following submission of recommendations by County Superintendent of Schools Ray Adkinson in which he declared opposition to any plan for consolidation that did not provide for the entire district. Under petitions that have been filed, a strip through the middle of Centralia district would be left unconsolidated as a small district. The board, in granting the continuance urged that an effort be made to provide for consolidation of this small strip with one or more of the other districts.

Three consolidation petitions have been filed with the supervisors. Under the petitions a portion of the Centralia district would be merged with the Buena Park grammar school district; another portion would be annexed to the Cypress district and a third portion would consolidate with Magnolia elementary district.

Explaining his recommendation, Adkinson said that the trend of education and policy of his office is toward larger school districts. In view of this policy he would oppose any action that would create a smaller district. Through the petitions filed the Centralia district would not be consolidated and eliminated as a district but would leave a small area as a separate district.

It was also pointed out by Lyon that indications are that at the next session of legislative laws will be passed making it mandatory to merge small districts with larger areas.

Oil Worker Has Narrow Escape

Having escaped serious injury or death by a mere fraction of an inch, Roscoe Haskins, Huntington Beach oil worker, was recovering from minor injuries today and was discharged from St. Joseph's hospital, where he was taken Sunday night.

Haskins was working on a well owned by the Burma Oil company when a 100-pound crown block fell from the derrick. The heavy object scraped off the skin as it grazed his face and struck his arm and leg. His injuries were thought to be serious at first but he improved enough to be removed today to his home at 714 Olive street, Huntington Beach.

CRIME CAREER WINDS UP IN PRISON TERM

Ending a checkered career of impersonating an army officer, imprisonment in several jails, successful jail breaking, hand to hand fights with officers and automobile stealing, a five-year sentence at McNeil Island Penitentiary was meted out to William Edward Boyd, Jr., 24, in a Los Angeles federal court yesterday on a charge of impersonating a colonel in the Army Officers Reserve.

Boyd escaped from the Orange County hospital prison ward in August by breaking the bars and dropping two stories to the ground with the aid of a rope made from sheets. He had been taken to the hospital for observation after federal officials took him to the county jail to await his trial in Los Angeles. From the hospital he went to a nearby ranch where he stole a car and clothing, wrecked the car in San Diego and was finally captured in Oregon. While being returned here, he nearly escaped from his guards on the train.

Boyd pleaded guilty to the impersonation charge, which involved the cashing of worthless checks and the obtaining of an army pistol.

"I generally had a girl with me and I was just trying to show off," he explained to Judge Paul J. McCormick.

EGYPTIAN RULER LECTURE SUBJECT

Dr. Frederick W. Roman is speaking tonight at 7:30 at Temple theater, Third and Bush streets on the subject, "The First Civilized Man—Akhkaton." The first hour of the evening will be devoted to current events and open forum.

According to Dr. Roman, Akhkaton, a Pharaoh of Egypt 3000 years ago, thought and acted along lines that are as modern as though they had originated yesterday. "The fundamentals of world peace, prevention of war and the standards of liberty are universal and timeless," said Dr. Roman. "They have not changed during the last 3000 years and their eternal wisdom is being demonstrated as necessary for human survival. Everyone with a due and true appreciation of world idealism should be acquainted with Akhkaton's life and philosophy." The lecture and current events discussion is free to the public.

Makes Arrest For Violating State Contractors' Law

Clayton H. Landreth, proprietor of the Capistrano Rock and Sand company, was arrested at Laguna Beach today by E. W. Reed, Orange county inspector for the state registrar of contractors, on a charge of contracting without a state license. Landreth pleaded not guilty. He is scheduled before City Judge C. C. Cravath, and the trial was set for November 23 at 10 a. m. Reed charged the defendant was doing an excavating job without the proper license.

Child Succumbs to Blood Poisoning

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at the Harrell and Brown funeral home, this city, for Lucille Ellen Woods, 3, who succumbed yesterday to blood poisoning caused from infection. The girl, who had only been ill for a short time, is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben L. Woods, one brother, Lewis, and one sister, Marie, all of 940 Fairview, this city, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Gardner, of Huntington Beach.

GASOLINE SUIT AGAINST HOOD GOES TO JURY

With a motion for dismissal of the case denied by Judge Kenneth E. Morrison in justice court, decision on charges filed against Harold Clark Hood, service station operator at 120 East First street, for violation of the state oil substitution act, was given to the jury at noon today.

Hood was accused by James A. Randall, deputy county sealer of weights and measures, with selling gasoline from pumps which were not adequately labeled according to law, advertising gasoline he did not sell and mixing grades of gasoline in the same pumps. Randall and L. S. Enders, tank wagon driver, were placed on the witness stand by Deputy District Attorney Leo Ellis.

In his motion for dismissal, Defense Attorney Franklin West maintained that it did not appear that there was a selling of gasoline at any time when there was not a legal label on the pump, that there was no mixing or adulterating since one brand of gasoline was in the ground tank and another in the vending pump, and that Hood was entitled to advertise for sale the gasoline he had on hand before the change.

Ellis countered by saying that there was no label on the tank. Hood was already selling the Peerless gasoline from one pump and had no excuse to sell it from another, that there had to be a mixing of brands and that the advertising was improper.

GREGG RE-ARRESTED

Ed Gregg, ending a term for violation of the national prohibition act has been rebooked at the county jail for Santa Monica police on a petty theft charge.

PREMIER OF ONTARIO IS S. A. VISITOR

George S. Henry, premier of the Province of Ontario, visiting here in the Southland with his daughter Helen, staying at the Biltmore in Los Angeles, called at The Register office yesterday.

Premier Henry said, in speaking on the liquor question, that there was about 30 per cent less liquor consumed this last year than had been previously, owing to the hard times in Ontario. He declared that Ontario is adopting considerable social legislation, and it has an old age pension and undoubtedly will adopt unemployment insurance.

He stated that the agricultural workers had not been suffering from unemployment, but it was in the centers of population, that the federal government had been taking care of the unemployed much as the method of the United States. He said that there was, however, an amount of $5 per week per family for food, which represented 60 per cent of the amount allowed by the government, the balance of it being for clothes and shelter.

BICYCLE STOLEN

George Opp, 501 East Twentieth street, reported to police the theft of his bicycle from Fifth and Broadway.

WELFARE WORK DISCUSSED AS SOCIETY MEETS

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—Plans for a Christmas party and discussion of welfare work and student loans constituted the business session of the Northern Orange county Pan-Hellenic society at the Frank Walton cabin in Hillcrest park last night. Mrs. Donald Cruikshank presided over the meeting.

A party will be held at the home of the president, 590 Golden street, Fullerton, at a date to be announced later by a committee that will be appointed to work out details for the affair. Members were asked to bring toy gifts that will be placed on a Christmas tree and later gathered up and distributed to children throughout the county by Miss Margaret Wentz.

Members are asked to get in touch with Miss Martha Adams of Anaheim, transportation chairman, when transportation is necessary to the meetings. Her telephone number is Anaheim 3267.

Students desiring to make application for a loan should contact some member in the club, it was stated.

During the dinner hour students from the Goodwill dance studio presented a number of tap dances, recitations and Oriental numbers. The tables were decorated in the Thanksgiving Day motif with fruits and autumn leaves.

Following the business session, the members enjoyed contract bridge, with prizes going to Mrs. Ethel Caverley and Mrs. Raymond Terry.

Junior Forum In Steak Bake Soon

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—An informal program was held last night at the Junior forum at the Ebell clubhouse. After a potluck supper held at 6:30 o'clock, a short business meeting was in session, with Vera Still presiding.

Plans were made for a steak bake to be held next Monday at Hillcrest park at 6:30 p.m. Dean Unger from Pasadena Community Playhouse school will address the young women of the forum December 4 at the Ebell clubhouse. The date for the Christmas dance has been set for December 16.

The Register welcomes news and Fullerton residents are urged to telephone or bring their items to the branch office, located on the north side of the California hotel building. The phone number is Fullerton 550.

School, Civic Groups To Meet Nov. 23

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—Meeting at the school cafeteria Thursday, the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce will confer with school authorities on what can be done for the mutual help of schools and community. The session will be at the cafeteria.

J. P. TON MADE PRESIDENT OF FARM CENTER

YORBA LINDA, Nov. 21.—Yorba Linda Farm Center and the Brotherhood held a joint session last night at the Yorba Linda Woman's clubhouse, where those prominent in farm bureau work provided the program of the evening.

J. P. Ton presided, as president of the farm bureau, and announced that at the last meeting officers were not elected but nominated, and Bert Shaw, retiring president, took the chair during the election, which placed Ton as president; August Anderson, secretary; C. W. Morris, vice president, and Shaw as director.

W. W. Beard, president, announced the Brotherhood father and son banquet, December 8; Dr. Trueblood of Whittier will be speaker.

The working of the federal farm and loans was explained by C. A. Palmer, and the work of the consolidation department was explained by W. H. Filppen. Both gave much credit to the farm bureau for establishing the two departments.

Felton Browning told of the present investigations of the bureau in tax reduction and on water conservation, and said a main work is to prevent pollution of water through oil wells.

The interesting experiments in control of frost in orchards was explained by Harold Rathbone, who told of the new "orange thermometer" that tests the temperature of fruit. He advised that when the thermometer reads 29, and the orchard thermometers read 29, it is time to light orchard heaters.

The federal code for citrus shipments was explained by C. A. Butler. Eric Eastman showed a group of motion pictures. The president appointed Shaw, Austin Marshall, J. J. Carter and J. A. Small as committeemen to handle the center membership drive.

PLANS FOR IMPROVEMENT OF PORT OUTLINED BY ENGINEER

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—Plans for the improvement of Newport harbor were outlined before a group of citizens at McFarland's cafe last night, with City Engineer R. L. Patterson, Councilman Paul Ellsworth, George Raymer and A. B. Rousseau speaking.

Following the session, although no vote was taken on the stand of the representative Fullerton resident present, all expressed their approval of the project, and of the passing of the bonds December 19.

The cost of the harbor project is placed at $1,835,441, with Orange county's share being $640,500. The work problem of unemployment would be solved, Patterson said, through placing men at work on an income bearing project and in addition the reclamation of marshlands, the project would add another two million dollars in taxable valuation to the tax toll, and add a million taxable value on increase in boats brought into the harbor.

J. H. HOGG RITES HELD WEDNESDAY

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—Funeral services for John William Hogg, 57, member of a pioneer California family, are to be conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday from the Ingelwood chapel. Mr. Hogg succumbed to pneumonia, resulting from a cold contracted while he was acting as judge at the Orange county Armistice day parade.

The J. E. Seale Funeral home is in charge of services.

COUNCIL DELAYS CITY HALL ACTION

PLACENTIA, Nov. 21.—Placentia city councilmen last night deferred formal action on starting proceedings for a city hall, to be opened under the government reconstruction policy, until after the meeting of the Orange County League of Municipalities in Santa Ana November 23. Routine business occupied the balance of the evening.

Y. W. Leaders At Riverside Meet

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—Seven leaders of Y. W. C. A. organizations of Northern Orange county left early this morning to attend the leadership conference of Y. W. C. A. today and tomorrow at Riverside.

Those attending were Miss Faustina Nenne, Mrs. Arthur C. Terrill, Miss Miriam Moore, R. E. Fellows, Miss Edna Munford, Mrs. Lewis Jacobson, Placentia, and Mrs. Fred Johnson, Yorba Linda.

DAUGHTER BORN
FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. John Dunn (Yvonne Irwin) are parents of a daughter, Sally, born November 19 at the Fullerton Cottage hospital. The baby is the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Irwin.

NEW OFFICERS ARE SELECTED BY DEMOCRATS

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—Fred Fuller was elected chairman, L. B. Harris, vice chairman; R. B. Carey, treasurer and John B. Menges, secretary, when members of Fullerton Democratic club met last night at the California hotel to start plans for an active campaign. Following the session it was revealed that 59 names had been added to the roster.

A dinner meeting was arranged for December 11 at McFarland's cafe. The dinner will be followed by an address.

Dean W. T. Boyce told the members that if they are organizing to back the administration and all it carries with it, rather than organizing to support some ancient political cult, it is worth while.

"President Roosevelt and those he has drawn about him have displayed a disposition toward a program that is worth while," Boyce said. "The policy has been for human justice, for fair play, for the righting of wrongs, for a fair chance and for human welfare, with human welfare interest as the chief concern throughout it all, and with such a program the party is bound to succeed." He warned that the administration is needing friends for its support.

The laws that were passed by the last congress showed that the party is once again serving people, he said. The administration recognizes that social justice is greater than individual rights, that humanity is greater than institutions, and the spirit of adventure with which the president has launched his programs has shown he is fearless in his efforts to save the country, Boyce declared.

The speaker warned that forces, seeking special privileges, have been refused favors, but have been refused in such a way as to not antagonize them too much; he also showed how very definite forces are organized to break down the policy of the government and to regain for special privileges the return of the old power.

"The national destiny is tied up with success or failure just as far as the friends of the administration advance to support the policy," Boyce said. "Whether the country will go down under the present selfish control of big business, or succeed under a social control that cares for all people, depends on the backing of the short distance control for immediate reconstruction and the policy of long planned economy which will succeed if we become enthusiastic and dynamic in our support."

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY

EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, married DICK RADER, a construction superintendent temporarily working in Lake City. Dick wants Eve to give up working but she refuses.

SAM HOLERIDGE, an advertising man employed by another store, becomes infatuated with ARLENE SMITH, stenographer at Bixby's, but she fancies herself in love with GEORGE BLISS. Bliss has been vamped by MONA ALLEN, blond copy writer.

Without telling Dick, Eve begins playing the stock market on borrowed money. Dick is frequently absent from home evenings and offers no explanation for his absence.

This worries Eve.

MARYA VLAD, fashion artist at Bixby's, announces that she is to be married soon.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIV

The announcement of Marya's marriage plans came as a distinct shock to Eve. The girls had worked together for several years. Marya was blessed with a tranquil disposition that often served as oil on the troubled waters of office trials.

For a while Marya had been watching sales and making purchases for her hope chest, for it was a tradition among Marya's people that a bride should go to her bridegroom with a complete equipment of linens, cooking utensils and silver. Marya's parents also purchased her dining room furniture as a wedding gift. An uncle invited her to choose a living room suite as his gift. Marya was to take to her new home the bedroom furnishings that had been hers since her 21st birthday. Thus the new home would be practically equipped.

Marya and Ray had spent many Sundays driving about the city, stopping now and then to look at houses in new neighborhoods. Marya had always maintained that she wanted a little gray bungalow when she married but a red brick house completely captured her fancy. There was a beamed ceiling in the story-and-a-half living room. The dining room was elevated a trifle with a wrought-iron banister beside its three steps. In one bedroom the walls were paneled with an English garden scene and here she planned to place her mahogany bed, using a light green spread and draperies. In the other bedroom gay nautariums trailed over the walls. This room was to have furniture enameled green.

Colorful floral wall paper adorned the breakfast room. The recreation room in the basement appealed to Ray. There was a nursery upstairs with cunning Mother Goose figures on the wall and light pink woodwork and beside it was another well-lighted room which would serve as Marya's studio.

It really seemed to be an ideal home. For Ray's parents it was the culmination of years of thrift to know that their son could purchase such a house. Ever since he had received his first earnings Ray's father and mother had coached him to prepare for a future home of his own. Hence, though only in the middle twenties, Ray and Marya were to start married life with no debts except the monthly payments arranged to complete the purchase of their home.

Marya and Ray had asked Eve and Dick to drive out to see the house before the final papers were signed. Dick declared it to be well built and, according to the prevailing market, a good buy. Eve thought the house was perfect and she came back to the apartment with a wistful longing for such a home of her own.

"Never mind, sweetheart!" Dick told her. "You'll probably get everything you want some day but you can't expect it all at once."

"Yes, and now I have my career," Eve answered, instantly optimistic. "Lots of women who spend their days with dustmops and ironing boards would be glad to exchange them for a chance at a job like mine. Besides they say everything comes to him who waits."

"That's right," Dick agreed. "If he keeps busy while he's waiting!" And so Eve helped Marya shop during their noon hours. Arlene never accompanied them on these shopping trips.

"Honestly," Arlene confided to Eve, "I can't work up much excitement over household doowhackets. I'll probably wait until I'm 100 years the other side of the altar and then go on a buying spree! The advantage of that will be that I'll have the very last word in floorwaxers and washlines. I suppose!"

The week before Easter Marya met Ray daily for luncheon. Eve and Arlene attended Lenten services each noon. On Good Friday they met Mr. Bixby coming from the church and Eve's heart warmed toward the white-haired old man as he bowed to them with dignity.

"The old lamb!" said Arlene. "To think I usually tremble in my boots when he enters the office!" Saturday Marya spent her last day at the store. She had worked industriously to prepare advance drawings so that the advertising office could run smoothly for a week in case they found no one to take her place immediately.

Marya's eyes were misty when she finally cleared her desk and packed her personal belongings. Several girls from other departments came in to bid her goodby and Barnes called her into his private office for a brief session. Then it was closing time and Marya made a last survey of the familiar room. "Oh, Eve!" she cried. "I'm going to miss you dreadfully! What shall I do without this office?" Eve put firm arms about Marya and led her to the locker room.

After lunch Sunday, Eve and Dick joined the Easter parade on the avenue. The sun shone brightly and here and there before a pretentious home yellow and lavender crocuses raised their heads from the green grass. They saw Mona Allen wearing a new black coat, lavishly trimmed with black fox. Framing her face was the hat with the halo of white violets which Eve had wanted to buy.

Eve and Dick ate a late dinner and then strolled through the park to the Art Museum where they enjoyed the organ recital.

Marya's wedding took place next day. Eve felt that she would never forget the lovely picture Marya made as she came down the aisle of the church on the arm of her white-haired father. The organ was sending forth the strains of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin." Eve brushed her eyes with a wisp of lace handkerchief while Arlene let the tears roll frankly down her cheeks.

Marya wore a severely simple white satin frock with long tight sleeves and a long train. Her veil was arranged cap fashion above her broad white forehead. She carried a sheaf of call lilies. The altar was banked with Easter lilies, and seven-branch candelabra lighted the path of the bride. Marya had but two attendants — fair-haired cousins gowned in pink and blue lace frocks.

After the ceremony there was a reception. Later that evening Marya changed into a dove gray traveling costume trimmed with fluffy gray fox. And before anyone was aware of it she and Ray had slipped away from the others and fled in a taxi to the Union Station where they boarded a train for New York.

Marya's wedding was the sort Eve had once planned for herself. She knew she would always remember that wedding as one of the loveliest she had attended. She knew too, that she would miss Marya from the office but that their friendship was the sort that would last.

Later as Eve and Dick went up the steps of Mrs. Brooks' house they heard their telephone ringing. "Wonder if something is wrong on the job," Dick said as he fitted the key into the lock.

Eve was amazed to hear that the call was for her. "This is the Times advertising department," came the voice over the wire. "We are calling about the Bixby advertisement for tomorrow. Mr. Barnes said he left the copy with you this afternoon. We've been trying to get you all evening. Our deadline is 10:15, and it's nearly that now. What shall we do?"

Eve's knees seemed to go limp. "How dreadful!" she exclaimed. "I left the copy in an envelope on my desk addressed to The Times. Are you sure it wasn't there?"

"The boy said he and Barnes looked all over for it and then decided you must have taken it with you," the voice answered.

"Heavens! I'll have to try to get into the office and then call you back from there!" Eve answered. "Dick, Dick!" she cried. "We've got to go to the store right away to see if I can find the copy for tomorrow's Times. Oh, this is terrible! There's a special sale scheduled and if that ad isn't in the morning paper I'll lose my job! We've got to hurry—the deadline is at 10:15 and there isn't a minute to spare!"

Dick got out the car and they drove without a word until he made an abrupt stop at the side entrance to Bixby's. To Eve it seemed forever before the night watchman arrived in answer to her frantic summons.

WELFARE WORK DISCUSSED AS SOCIETY MEETS

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—Plans for a Christmas party and discussion of welfare work and student loans constituted the business session of the Northern Orange county Pan-Hellenic society at the Inaak Walton cabin in Hillcrest park last night. Mrs. Donald Crickshank presided over the meeting.

A party will be held at the home of the president, 690 Golden street, Fullerton, at a date to be announced later by a committee that will be appointed to work out details for the affair. Members were asked to bring toy gifts that will be placed on a Christmas tree and later gathered up and distributed to children throughout the county by Miss Margaret Wentz.

Members are asked to get in touch with Miss Martha Adams of Anaheim, transportation chairman, when transportation is necessary to the meetings. Her telephone number is Anaheim 3267.

Students desiring to make application for a loan should contact some member in the club, it was stated.

During the dinner hour students from the Goodell dance studio presented a number of tap dances, recitations and Oriental numbers. The tables were decorated in the Thanksgiving Day motif with fruits and autumn leaves.

Following the business session, the members enjoyed contract bridge, with prizes going to Mrs. Ethel Caverly and Mrs. Raymond Terry.

Junior Forum In Steak Bake Soon

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—An informal program was held last night at the Junior forum at the Ebell clubhouse. After a potluck supper held at 6:30 o'clock, a short business meeting was in session, with Vera Stull presiding.

Plans were made for a steak bake to be held next Monday at Hillcrest park at 6:30 p. m. Dean Unge from Pasadena Community Playhouse school will address the young women of the forum December 4 at the Ebell clubhouse. The date for the Christmas dance has been set for December 16.

The Register welcomes news and Fullerton residents are urged to telephone or bring their items to the branch office, located on the north side of the California hotel building. The phone number is Fullerton 550.

School, Civic Groups To Meet Nov. 23

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—Meeting at the school cafeteria Thursday, the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce will confer with school authorities on what can be done for the mutual help of school and community. The session will be at the cafeteria.

J. P. TON MADE PRESIDENT OF FARM CENTER

YORBA LINDA, Nov. 21.—Yorba Linda Farm Center and the Brotherhood held a joint session last night at the Yorba Linda Woman's clubhouse, where those prominent in farm bureau work provided the program of the evening.

J. P. Ton presided, as president of the farm bureau, and announced that at the last meeting officers were not elected but nominated, and Bert Shaw, retiring president, took the chair during the election, which placed Ton as president; August Anderson, secretary; C. W. Morris, vice president, and Shaw as director.

W. W. Beard, president, announced the Brotherhood father and son banquet, December 8; Dr. Trueblood of Whittier will be speaker.

The working of the federal farm and loans was explained by C. A. Palmer, and the work of the consolidation department was explained by W. H. Flippen. Both gave much credit to the farm bureau for establishing the two departments.

Felton Browning told of the present investigations of the bureau in tax reduction and on water conservation, and said a main work is to prevent pollution of water through oil wells.

The interesting experiments in control of frost in orchards was explained by Harold Rathbone, who told of the new "orange thermometer" that tests the temperature of fruit. He advised that when the thermometer reads 29, and the orchard thermometer reads 29, it is time to light orchard heaters.

The federal code for citrus shipments was explained by C. A. Butler. Eric Eastman showed a group of motion pictures.

The president appointed Shaw, Austin Macdonald, J. J. Carter and J. A. Small as committeemen to handle the center membership drive.

PLANS FOR IMPROVEMENT OF PORT OUTLINED BY ENGINEER

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—Plans for the improvement of Newport harbor were outlined before a group of citizens at McFarland's cafe last night, with City Engineer R. L. Patterson, Councilman Paul Ellsworth, George Raymer and A. B. Rousseau speaking.

Following the session, although no vote was taken on the stand of the representative Fullerton resident present, all expressed their approval of the project, and of the passing of the bonds December 19, for the improvement of Newport.

The cost of the harbor project is placed at $1,835,441, with Orange county's share being $640,500.

The work problem of unemployment would be solved, Patterson said, through placing men at work on an income bearing project and in addition the reclamation of marshlands, the project would add another two million dollars in taxable valuation to the tax toll, and add a million taxable value on increase in boats brought into the harbor.

The J. E. Seale Funeral home is in charge of services.

J. H. HOGG RITES HELD WEDNESDAY

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—Funeral services for John William Hogg, 57, member of a pioneer California family, are to be conducted at 2 p. m. Wednesday from the Ingelwood chapel. Mr. Hogg succumbed to pneumonia, resulting from a cold contracted while he was acting as judge at the Orange county Armistice day parade.

PLACENTIA, Nov. 21.—Placentia city councilmen last night deferred formal action on starting proceedings for a city hall, to be opened under the government reconstruction policy, until after the meeting of the Orange County League of Municipalities in Santa Ana November 23. Routine business occupied the balance of the evening.

Y. W. Leaders At Riverside Meet

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—Seven leaders of Y. W. C. A. organizations of Northern Orange county left early this morning to attend the leadership conference of Y. W. C. A. today and tomorrow at Riverside.

Those attending were Miss Faustina Nanno, Mrs. Arthur C. Terrill, Miss Minnie Moore, Mrs. R. E. Fellows, Miss Edna Munford, Mrs. Lewis Jacobson, Placentia, and Mrs. Fred Johnson, Yorba Linda.

DAUGHTER BORN

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. John Dunn (Yvonne Irwin) are parents of a daughter, Sally, born November 18 at the Fullerton Cottage hospital. The baby is the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Irwin.

2 BOOKS REVIEWED AT CLUB MEETING

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—"Anthony Adams," by Harvey Allen, a new novel, received favorable criticism yesterday when members of the Monday Afternoon Reading club met with Mrs. Owen H. Richelleu at her home on Rose drive. Mrs. Earl Dysinger reviewed the book, and Mrs. C. W. Hart reviewed "Little Man—What Now?" by Salada.

Mrs. A. H. Koch presided at the short business session. Twenty-five attended.

NEW OFFICERS ARE SELECTED BY DEMOCRATS

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—Fred Fuller was elected chairman, L. B. Harris, vice chairman; R. B. Carey, treasurer and John B. Menges, secretary, when members of Fullerton Democratic club met last night at the California hotel to start plans for an active campaign. Following the session it was revealed that 59 names had been added to the roster.

A dinner meeting was arranged for December 11 at McFarland's cafe. The dinner will be followed by an address.

Dean W. T. Boyce told the members that if they are organizing to back the administration and all it carries with it, rather than organizing to support some ancient political cult, it is worth while.

"President Roosevelt and those he has drawn about him have displayed a disposition toward a program that is worth while," Boyce said. "The policy has been for human justice, for fair play, for the righting of wrongs, for a fair chance and for human welfare, with human welfare interest as the

Auxiliary Card Affair Planned For November 27

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—Mrs. Howard Wilkinson of 1308 Francis avenue, will be hostess Monday to members of the American Legion auxiliary at her home. After a short business session, cards will occupy the evening. All eligible members are invited to attend, this being the regular social session of the auxiliary.

The speaker warned that forces, seeking special privileges, have been refused favors, but have been refused in such a way as to not antagonize them too much; he also showed how very definite forces are organized to break down the policy of the government and to regain for special privileges the return of the old power.

"The national destiny is tied up with success or failure just as far as the friends of the administration advance to support the policy," Boyce said. "Whether the country will go down under the present selfish control of big business, or succeed under a social control that cares for all people, depends on the backing of the short distance control for immediate reconstruction and the policy of long planned economy which will succeed if we become enthusiastic and dynamic in our support."

CLUB MEMBERS TO VISIT ART STUDIOS

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—Members of the arts and crafts section of Fullerton Ebell club cancelled their trip to the studio of Frances Rich Smith, La Habra today, because of the illness of Mrs. Smith, according to an announcement by Mrs. J. Arthur Miller, the chairman.

Instead, the section is to meet at the California hotel tomorrow at 8 a. m. to go to Los Angeles to visit several art studios. An exhibit by Glen Lukens, Fullerton craftsman, is to be viewed.

NEW OFFICERS OF AUXILIARY PARTY GUESTS

FULLERTON, Nov. 21.—Mrs. Madeline Kirby, new president of the Fullerton American Legion auxiliary entertained her officers and committee chairman at a lovely party at her home at 634 Beverly drive last night.

Bridge occupied the evening and Miss Laura Porter won first and Mrs. Verne Baker second, while Mrs. Rose Alexander was given consolation prize.

Mrs. Kirby served refreshments at tables decorated in pink and yellow. The rooms of her home were decorated with autumn flowers.

Those who enjoyed the hospitality of the auxiliary head were Mrs. Harold Hevener, Mrs. Baker, Miss Porter, Mrs. Leo C. Burdick, Mrs. Marguerite McKenney, Mrs. Morris Ford, Mrs. Oscar Schneider, Mrs. Howard Wilkinson, Mrs. George Willett, Mrs. James McNamara, Mrs. Robert Seamans, Mrs. W. P. Alexander, Mrs. Harley Brewer, Mrs. Gordon Handsfield, Mrs. Albert Callaud, Mrs. Roy Black, Mrs. G. W. Sherwood, and a guest of Mrs. Sherwood, Mrs. Eldridge.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, married DICK BAYLESS, a frequently unemployed man, who is working in Lake City. Dick wants Eve to give up working but she refuses.

SAM HOLTERIDGE, an advertising man employed by another store, becomes infatuated with ARLENE SMITH, stenographer at Bixby's, but she fancies herself in love with GEORGE BLISS. Bliss has been vamped by MONA ALLEN, blind copy writer.

Without telling Dick, Eve begins playing the stock market on borrowed money. Dick is frequently absent from home evenings and offers no explanation for his absence. This worries Eve.

MARYA VLAD, fashion artist at Bixby's, announces that she is to be married soon.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIV

The announcement of Marya's marriage plans came as a distinct shock to Eve. The girls had worked together for several years. Marya was blessed with a tranquil disposition that often served as oil on the troubled waters of office trials.

For a while Marya had been watching sales and making purchases for her hope chest, for it was a tradition among Marya's people that a bride should go to her bridegroom with a complete equipment of linens, cooking utensils and silver. Marya's parents also purchased her dining room furniture as a wedding gift. An uncle invited her to choose a living room suite as his gift. Marya was to take to her new home the bedroom furnishings that had been hers since her 21st birthday. Thus the new home would be practically equipped.

Marya and Ray had spent many Sundays driving about the city, stopping now and then to look at houses in new allotments. Marya had always maintained that she wanted a little gray bungalow when she married but a red brick house completely captured her fancy. There was a beamed ceiling in the story-and-a-half living room. The dining room was elevated a trifle with a wrought-iron banister beside its three steps. In one bedroom the walls were paneled with an English garden scene and here she planned to place her mahogany bed, using a light green spread and draperies. In the other bedroom gay nasturtiums trailed over the walls. This room was to have furniture enameled green.

Colorful floral wall paper adorned the breakfast room. The recreation room in the basement appealed to Ray. There was a nursery upstairs with cunning Mother Goose figures on the wall and light pink woodwork and beside it was another well-lighted room which would serve as Marya's studio.

It really seemed to be an ideal home. For Ray's parents it was the culmination of years of thrift to know that their son could purchase such a house. Ever since he had received his first earnings Ray's father and mother had coached him to prepare for a future home of his own. Hence, though only in the middle twenties, Ray and Marya were to start married life with no debts except the monthly payments arranged to complete the purchase of their home.

Marya and Ray had asked Eve and Dick to drive out to see the house before the final papers were signed. Dick declared it to be well built and, according to the prevailing market, a good buy. Eve thought the house was perfect and she came back to the apartment with a wistful longing for such a home of her own.

"Never mind, sweetheart!" Dick told her. "You'll probably get everything you want some day but you can't expect it all at once."

"Yes, and now I have my career," Eve answered, instantly optimistic. "Lots of women who spend their days with dustmops and ironing boards would be glad to exchange them for a chance at a job like mine. Besides they say everything comes to him who waits."

"That's right," Dick agreed. "If he keeps busy while he's waiting!" And so Eve helped Marya shop during their noon hours. Arlene never accompanied them on these shopping trips.

"Honestly," Arlene confided to Eve, "I can't work up much excitement over household downhacks. I'll probably wait until I'm 100 and then go on a buying spree! The advantage of that will be that I'll have the very last word in floorwaxers and washlines, I suppose!"

The week before Easter Marya met Ray daily for luncheon. Eve

and Arlene attended Lenten services each noon. On Good Friday they met Mr. Bixby coming from the church and Eve's heart warmed toward the white-haired old man as he bowed to them with dignity.

"The old lamb!" said Arlene. "To think I usually tremble in my boots when he enters the office!" Saturday Marya spent her last day at the store. She had worked industriously to prepare advance drawings so that the advertising office could run smoothly for a week in case they found no one to take her place immediately.

Marya's eyes were misty when she finally cleared her desk and packed her personal belongings. Several girls from other departments came in to bid her goodbye and Barnes called her into his private office for a brief session. Then it was closing time and Marya made a last survey of the familiar room. "Oh, Eve!" she cried, "I'm going to miss you dreadfully! What shall I do without this office?" Eve put firm arms about Marya and led her to the locker room.

After lunch Sunday, Eve and Dick joined the Easter parade on the avenue. The sun shone brightly and here and there before a pretentious home yellow and lavender crocuses raised their heads from the green grass. They saw Mona Allen wearing a new black coat, lavishly trimmed with black fox. Framing her face was the hat with the halo of white violets which Eve had wanted to buy.

Eve and Dick ate a late dinner and then strolled through the park to the Art Museum where they enjoyed the organ recital.

Marya's wedding took place next day. Eve felt that she would never forget the lovely picture Marya made as she came down the aisle of the church on the arm of her white-haired father. The organ was sending forth the strains of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin." Eve brushed her eyes with a wisp of lace handkerchief while Arlene let the tears roll frankly down her cheeks.

Marya wore a severely simple white satin frock with long tight sleeves and a long train. Her veil was arranged cap fashion above her broad white forehead. She carried a sheaf of calls. The altar was banked with Easter lilies and seven-branch candelabra lighted the path of the bride. Marya had but two attendants — fair-haired cousins gown in pink and blue lace frocks.

After the ceremony there was a reception. Later that evening Marya changed into a dove gray traveling costume trimmed with fluffy gray fox. And before anyone was aware of it she and Ray had slipped away from the others and fled in a taxi to the Union Station where they boarded a train for New York.

Marya's wedding was the sort Eve had once planned for herself. She knew she would always remember that wedding as one of the loveliest she had attended. She knew too, that she would miss Marya from the office but that their friendship was the sort that would last.

Later as Eve and Dick went up the steps of Mrs. Brooks' house they heard their telephone ringing. "Wonder if something is wrong on the job," Dick said as he fitted the key into the lock.

Eve was amazed to hear that the call was for her. "This is the Times advertising department," came the voice over the wire. "We are calling about the Bixby advertisement for tomorrow. Mr. Barnes said he left the copy with you this afternoon. We've been trying to get you all evening. Our deadline is 10:15, and it's nearly that now. What shall we do?"

"How dreadful!" she exclaimed. "I left the copy in an envelope on my desk addressed to The Times. Are you sure it wasn't there?"

"The boy said he and Barnes looked all over for it and then decided you must have taken it with you," the voice answered.

"Heavens! I'll have to try to get into the office and then call you back from there!" Eve answered. "Dick, Dick!" she cried. "We've got to go to the store right away to see if I can find the copy for tomorrow's Times. Oh, this is terrible! There's a special sale scheduled and if that ad isn't in the morning paper I'll lose my job! We've got to hurry—the deadline is at 10:15 and there isn't a minute to spare!"

Dick got out the car and they drove without a word until he made an abrupt stop at the side entrance to Bixby's. To Eve it seemed forever before the night watchman arrived in answer to her frantic summons.

-- News Behind The News --

WASHINGTON

By George Durno

WOODIN
The country has a rather well-known picture of William H. Woodin as a small, inoffensive, ever-smiling gentleman who composes waltzes and children's music on a guitar.

This mental photograph has been built up bit by bit ever since he consented to enter President Roosevelt's Cabinet as Secretary of the Treasury. The reporters who have consistently emerged from crucial administration conferences with a giggle and a jovial remark, they painted him into a sort of super-financial cherub.

But in this composite word portrait of the man, they rather overlooked the fact that, despite his diminutive stature and guileless countenance, he had carved himself out a very respectable fortune in the realms of big business.

Woodin can get his back up when the occasion demands, and it stays up.

If you had the ear of no less a person than President Roosevelt you undoubtedly would get confirmation of the little man's stubbornness.

That is what lies back of the switch which put Woodin on indefinite leave, toward Dean Acheson out of his job as Undersecretary of the Treasury and brought Henry Morgenthau Jr. in to run our national cash register.

Here is the inside of it all:

The President decided the Treasury Department should shoulder responsibility for the gold purchasing policy. He suggested as much to his old friend, Woodin. A statement making the Treasury's responsibility clear would do the trick.

Woodin said no, and refused to listen to what is understood to be prolonged argument on the part of Mr. Roosevelt. The little secretary said it was the President's policy (with which he was NOT in accord) and therefore the White House should do all the talking.

Acheson, who was running the department as acting secretary, felt likewise. They were both 100 per cent for the President, but they wouldn't swallow his gold policy.

MORGENTHAU

So the President turned naturally to a man who would—the younger Morgenthau. As a matter of fact, Morgenthau (an old Cornell agricultural student of Prof. George Warren, who conceived the gold idea) had been setting the daily gold prices. His office was equipped with a stock ticker to gauge the effects.

From now on our monetary policy will be a Treasury policy. Morgenthau, as an old and most loyal friend, is quite willing to take the rap when and if it falls. Naturally, he thinks it won't fall.

AL

There was plenty of tall speculation when Al Smith and John Raskob called at the White House the other day. Conjecture ran riot in connection with possible changes in the Cabinet, Senate and diplomatic corps.

The White House insisted that Al and John came only for tea, and were entertained along with a small group of people whose presence made political talk impossible.

Despite all the "mystery" stories conjured up about the visit, the White House was telling the truth.

Smith and Raskob were ushered into the informal upstairs sitting room. President and Mrs. Roosevelt were already there with half a dozen guests and their daughter, Anna Dall, pouring tea.

Contrary to his usual practice of guiding the conversation, Mr. Roosevelt sat back almost silent. (He probably was getting a little inward amusement out of the strained efforts of his guests to make small talk with Smith and Raskob.)

The conversation veered from football to the weather—and, as the White House said, to the respective grandchildren of the Roosevelts and the Smiths.

Finally Norman Davis, our Ambassador-at-large, who was present, expressed amazement over the speed with which prohibition repeal had been accomplished. He said he would not have believed when he last left the country the returns would be in so soon.

It was at this point President Roosevelt offered the only high light of the half hour's chat. He told those present that repeal so soon would NOT have been possible except for the pioneering work of Al Smith in 1932 and the ensuing four years of labor by John Raskob as Democratic national chairman.

GUARANTEES

Administration leaders on Capitol Hill are predicting privately that the President will recommend federal guarantee of bank deposits to Congress in January.

Continued opposition of big banking interests to the present method of securing your savings from bank failures is reported to have the administration on the verge of taking matters in its own hands.

Only a sudden rush to meet requirements of the law passed last spring—which becomes effective January 1—will prevent such a course, according to the congressional prognosticators.

It is anticipated by these crystal-gazers that the administration will propose federal guarantee of all deposits up to $2500 in member institutions of the national banking system.

State banks would be included, provided they made application for membership in the Federal Reserve and qualified therefor in two or three years.

The Senate passed a similar bill last session. It was opposed by Secretary Woodin and Senator Glass, author of the measure finally adopted. Kingfish Long was responsible for the state bank provision. The House failed to adopt it.

Woodin is now out of the picture. Glass, more or less ill over a considerable period, doesn't seem to have the same say in court as before.

NOTES

Complete agreement by Russia on the controversial points of claims, religion and propaganda in advance of recognition was quite a victory for our government. The Soviets have forced all other countries to resume relations first and then arbitrate the matters of difference. In the midst of President Roosevelt's announcement of recognition, the State Department rushed over a tremendously important correction.

On the title page of the exchange of correspondence they had spelled Commissar with one "s." So many newspaper men were jammed into the President's office for the news that the air became stifling inside of ten minutes. The windows are nailed down because of the ventilating system.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

STABILIZATION

The next big shot down from the arsenal of currency tactics will be double-barreled-domestic revaluation plus stabilization.

New Yorkers who tuned in on the "New Deal's" private length say it will be fired soon—probably around December 1st. Revaluation will be between 50 and 60 cents. Close to 54 is likely. The Thomas amendment will be used to cut the official number of grains in the gold dollar, and announcement will be made that the dollar has reached the end of its toboggan—at least for a time.

Back to sound money? Yes. But note that the committee for the nation will have arrived at its original destination. The best New York opinion holds that the effects of the move will depend on the timing—the sooner, the more action. At least a temporary reprieve is expected. The important psychological point is substitution of the confidence motive for the fear motive as incentive to buy. The question is whether confidence (in buying terms) will grow as fast as fear will wane.

BUDGET

Shortly before the shot is fired a huge transfer of gold from the Federal Reserve to the Treasury is in order. This move the Treasury can credit itself with a modest profit of about two billion dollars because of the increase in the value of its gold from $20.67 an ounce to $35, or whatever the figure may be.

The profit can then be applied to the budget, and will make the budget look much prettier than before—at least on paper. This angle counted heavily in preliminary discussions.

GOLDBACKS

The nearest twist of all is the probable printing and distribution of gold certificates based on the newly-defined gold dollar. Of course it will be explained that you can't redeem for gold right away, but presumably 100 per cent coverage will be earmarked for every certificate issued.

This bags two big birds. The government can tell the Thomasites they wanted more currency in circulation, and here it is.

And what more could the sound money folks ask than currency fully backed by gold instead of greenbacks.

There is even a possibility that all or part of the December certificate maturities will be paid off in gold certificates as a grand gesture to restore confidence.

New York insiders concede that

PROGRAM HELD AS METHODIST GROUP MEETS

ORANGE, Nov. 21.—The Rev. and Mrs. James Edwin Dunning of the Methodist Episcopal church were hosts yesterday afternoon and evening to the Orange County fellowship of Methodist ministers and their wives. During the afternoon the women visited in the parsonage, while the men played golf at the Santa Ana Country club.

Dinner was served in the evening in the Epworth hall by a committee of women from the Ladies Aid society of the church, headed by Mrs. J. Russell Kenyon, president of the organization. The tables were attractively decorated with bouquets of pink flowers.

Following dinner, the group enjoyed a program under the direction of the Rev. J. H. Ingle, which included several vocal solos by Mrs. George Warner and an address by Dr. J. A. Giesinger, superintendent of the San Diego district of Methodist churches, who spoke on the life and character of Albert Schweitzer, one of the outstanding writers of today and the author of "Out of My Life and Thought," "History of Civilization," "The Quest of the Historical Jesus" and "The Mysticism of St. Paul," among other works.

Those present were Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Giesinger of Balboa; the Rev. and Mrs. E. D. Hoffman of Fullerton; Dr. and Mrs. George Warner of Santa Ana; the Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Ingle of Huntington Park; the Rev. and Mrs. G. C. Ralston of Garden Grove; the Rev. and Mrs. O. W. Reinius of Santa Ana; the Rev. Crawford Trotter of Yorba Linda; the Rev. Harry Banks of Santa Fe Springs; the Rev. H. O. Simmons of La Habra; the Rev. Russell Stroup of Newport Beach; the Rev. and Mrs. A. B. Enochson of Orange; the Rev. and Mrs. James Dunning and son, Charles, of Orange, and Mrs. Blanche Mohney.

The next meeting of the fellowship will be held December 13, at Costa Mesa.

PIANO PUPILS GIVE RECITAL IN CHURCH HALL

ORANGE, Nov. 21.—An interesting recital was given in the Methodist Episcopal church last night, when a number of the talented pupils of Ora Leola Caldwell presented an enjoyable program to a large group of friends. The platform was colorfully decorated with rosebuds and poinsettias.

The program presented included: "Polonaise in F" (Beethoven), played by Harriet Skinner and Harold Larson; first piano; Carol Larson and Elsie Sorenson; second piano; "Consolation" (Mendelssohn), by Lucille Marie Drinkwater; "Tambouritz" (H. Nicholls), by Carol Jane Willis; "Rigando" (Grieg), by Carol Mae Larson; "Valse de Coppelia" (Delibes), by Dorothy Ameling and Elsie Sorenson; "Moment Musical in C" (Schubert), by Carol Jane Willis; (Henselt), Joan Harriet Skinner; "The Maiden's Wish" (Chopin), by Dorothy Ameling; "Prelude in C Sharp Minor" (Rachmaninoff), by Harold Larson; "Prelude in C Sharp Minor" (Scriabine), by Carol Mae Larson; "Romance" (A. Rubinstein); and "Valse in D Major" (Mokrejs) by Dorothy Ameling; "Andante" (Haydn), arranged from the "Surprise Symphony" by Carol Larson, and Harold Larson; "Serenade Aux Etolles" (Radeigla), by Joan Willis; "Impromptu in C Sharp Minor" (Reinhold), by "The Spinner" (Raff, Elsie Sorenson); "Coronation March" (Meyerbeer), from the "Prophet," first piano, Elsie Sorenson, and Charlotte Larson; second piano, Harold Larson and Harriet Skinner.

SKIT GIVEN BY METHODIST GROUP

ORANGE, Nov. 21.—An instructive evening was shared last night when approximately 30 girls of the high school and intermediate foreign and home missionary societies of the Methodist church met in the Epworth hall for a pot luck supper and discussion. The room was decorated with lavender flowers and tall pink candles, while the dinner was served by Mrs. Dorothy Abersold, Mrs. Robert Gross, and Mrs. Ed Stanley, mothers of a trio of the members.

A combined business meeting and program was presided over by the president, Miss Elvia Worden, during which Miss Eleanor Buckles played several piano solos and a skit entitled, "The Missionary Girls' Canteen," was presented by Miss Sabra Batchelor and Miss Elvia Worden.

Later the girls adjourned to their two study classes under the direction of Mrs. L. L. Williams and Mrs. F. E. Hallman.

ORANGE, Nov. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Condon of 306 East Palmway avenue observed the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding Monday at their home. A reception was held both afternoon and evening and a family dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock.

The home was filled with baskets of golden toned flowers and beautiful baskets of blossoms from the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war, the Royal Neighbors lodge, the McPherson Thimble club, the Calander club, the Woman's club and the First Economics section of the Woman's club.

Mrs. Condon wore a frock of dark blue crepe in receiving her guests and a corsage of Tallman roses. Numerous lovely gifts were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Condon and included were topaz crystalware and rare potted plants. Guests were served with dainty refreshments, a crystal service being used in serving.

Mr. and Mrs. Condon were married at Aurora, Neb., by the Rev. W. G. Rogers, pastor of the Congregational church at that place. They have resided in Orange for the past 25 years.

Yellow candles in silver torches were used in the dining room. Present at the family dinner other than the hosts were the daughter of the home, Miss Marjorie Condon; Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Evans and daughters, Miss Jerry Evans of Pomona and Mrs. Arthur Farnham of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sherer and baby son, William of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Condon received a letter of congratulation from their other daughter, Mrs. Achille Angeli of Florence, Italy. Mrs. Angeli had expected to be present at the golden wedding but was unable to do so, but wrote that with her husband, she will arrive in Orange in February from Italy.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Tulene of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Blum of Los Angeles; Catherine Wilson McMurry of Long Beach; Roberta Wilson Fliken of Anaheim; Mrs. Clara Whitman, Mrs. E. FREEDOM COMPLEX OF PEOPLE, MISPLACED SYMPATHY CITED AS REASONS FOR CRIME GAIN

ORANGE, Nov. 21.—The super-states in one year, one in 100 of the murderers goes to the gallows. The average prison term for a first degree murderer is seven and a half years. A criminal would rather be tried for murder in the United States than for the theft of a car in Canada.

"I am not saying that police are perfect. The honest average of the government can not be higher than the source which produces it but I do say that the average police officer is of a courageous type and of finer and more honest type than the average citizen. America holds the third highest record for murders of any country in the world, Argentine heading the list, with crime and adequate punishment Mexico second."

Prompt methods of dealing with meted out for criminals were remedies for the present situation named by the peace officer, who told of a policy he has inaugurated of not dallying with criminals who carry guns, and naming the recent shooting of Thomas White, bandit, and "Mile Away" Thomas by Los Angeles police.

Davis declared that the failure of prohibition could be laid to judges and justices who had failed to impose sentences heavy enough to deter repetition of the crime. He stated that he would like to see judges on the bench eight hours every day.

Guests were introduced by Karl Chasewinner. Under Sheriff Charles Riggie, Theo. Lacy, county jailer; Herman Zabel and Chief of Police B. F. Richards of Orange were at the speakers' table. Preceding the talk, George Stinson, "singing cop" of the state traffic squad, accompanied by Mrs. Stinson at the piano, sang "Danny Boy" and "Old Man River." He responded with "O Sole Mio" as an encore. Alfred Higgins presided and reservations were in charge of W. C. Armstrong.

"Estrellita" and "Cielo Lindo," she was accompanied by Miss Ruth Hesthuis of Santa Ana.

Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Flora B. Johnson, section president; Mrs. Fred Alden, Miss Emma Corson and Mrs. Marsh Adams, who acted as program chairman. One new member for the section was announced, Mrs. Emma Williamson.

Mrs. Ray McCarthy announced the Red Cross drive in progress here and obtained five members for the roll call.

TRAVEL GROUP GIVES PROGRAM IN CLUBHOUSE

ORANGE, Nov. 21.—Members of the Travel section of the Orange Woman's club were in charge of the program given on the occasion of the regular session of the organization at the clubhouse Monday, with J. L. Criswell, passenger agent of a steamship line, as the speaker. Criswell showed a number of reels of Alaskan scenery and the operation of the fish canneries. The pictures of glaciers from which thousands of tons of ice were breaking and falling were among the interesting pictures shown.

Preceding the talk, Mrs. C. F. Rowell gave an interesting resume of the important current events and told especially of the observance of the birthday anniversary of Martin Luther through out the nation. Mrs. J. T. McInnis presided.

The program was centered around a travel theme and the first number was given by Mrs. W. C. Armstrong, who was charming in an Irish costume and who sang "Hills of Donegal" and "Killarney." She was accompanied by Mrs. Christine Lambert.

Harold Mathews, well known musician of Santa Ana, gave a short talk on Russian music and played a typically Russian instrument. His first number was the "Voiga Boatman," played in Russian fashion and this was followed by a stirring dance number. Eleanor Young Elliott gave a reading by Mary Stewart Cutting, "The Theme With Variations," and as an encore, responded with James Whitcomb Riley's "Bear Story."

Miss Whilmina Dominguez, very lovely in Spanish costume, sang

Don't take calomel! Here's New Health For Your Liver

Now banish bad breath, pimples, constipation; feel like a million!

That tired, frowsy feeling in the morning, that "dark-brown" taste in the mouth—if you would banish them and win back buoyant health, don't expect relief from salts, mineral oil, or candy and chewing-gum laxatives.

For such remedies only move the bowels. While chances are, you're one of the thousands suffering from sluggish liver which does not yield sufficient bile-causing pimples, blemishes, headaches, bad breath and a general run-down feeling.

What you need is something which acts thoroughly but harmlessly upon the liver. And in Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets you will find that "something" which stimulates the bile flow. A successful substitute for calomel, these famous tablets are composed of pure vegetable ingredients, and have been praised for years by millions.

To get and keep the bile flowing freely—correcting constipation, skin troubles, and win back that "fine-and-dandy" feeling of youth—go to your druggist for Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets today. 15c, 30c, 60c. —Adv.

VELMA FIELD AND DONALD TODD WED

ORANGE, Nov. 21.—Miss Velma Field, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Henson, 227 East River avenue, and Donald Todd, son of Mrs. Lydia Todd, of 355 South Glassell street, were united in marriage at a quiet ceremony held Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Christian church parsonage, with the Rev. Franklin Minck, pastor of the Christian church, conducting the ceremony.

The bride was beautiful in a smart black frock, with which she wore white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

The young people have been prominent in social activities of the community for the past several years. They have established their home at 815 South Parton street, Santa Ana.

Present at the wedding were the mothers of the bride and bridegroom, Mrs. Henson and Mrs. Todd and Miss Margaret Todd, sister of the bridegroom.

Y GROUP TO MEET

ORANGE, Nov. 21.—Hi-Y boys of the mercer group will meet Friday night at the headquarters of the "Y" on South Lemon street to elect officers for the year. William Stead is the temporary chairman of the group. The meeting will be held at 6 o'clock.

Three directors were appointed. These were E. G. Bandick of West Orange, C. O. Helm, of Olive, and Donald Smiley, of El Modena. J. F. Allen was included in the list of directors elected by mail, others being J. H. Eggers, Ivan Swanger, C. H. Robinson and C. J. Hessel.

WASHINGTON

WOODIN
The country has a rather well-formed picture of William H. Woodin as a small, inoffensive, ever-smiling gentleman who composes waltzes and children's music on a guitar.

This mental photograph has been built up bit by bit ever since he consented to enter President Roosevelt's Cabinet as Secretary of the Treasury. The reporters knew his musical background, and when he consistently emerged from crucial administration conferences with a giggle and a jovial remark, they painted him into a sort of super-financial cherub.

But in this composite word portrayal of the man, they rather overlooked the fact that, despite his diminutive stature and guileless countenance, he had carved himself out a very respectable fortune in the realms of big business.

Woodin can get his back up when the occasion demands, and it stays up.

If you had the ear of no less a person than President Roosevelt you undoubtedly would get confirmation of the little man's stubbornness.

For that is what lies back of the switch which put Woodin on indefinite leave, toward Dean Acheson out of his job as Undersecretary of the Treasury and brought Henry Morgenthau Jr. in to run our national cash register.

Here is the inside of it all: The President decided the Treasury Department should shoulder responsibility for the gold purchasing policy. He suggested as much to his old friend, Woodin. A statement making the Treasury's responsibility clear would do the trick.

Woodin said no, and refused to listen to what is understood to be prolonged argument on the part of Mr. Roosevelt. The little secretary said it was the President's policy (with which he was NOT in accord) and therefore the White House should do all the talking.

Acheson, who was running the department as acting secretary, felt likewise. They were both 100 per cent for the President, but they wouldn't swallow his gold policy.

MORGENTHAU
So the President turned naturally to a man who would—the younger Morgenthau. As a matter of fact, Morgenthau (an old Cornell agricultural student of Prof. George Warren, who conceived the gold idea) had been setting the daily gold prices. His office was equipped with a stock ticker to gauge the effects.

From now on our monetary policy will be a Treasury policy, Morgenthau, as an old and most loyal friend, is quite willing to take the rap when and if it falls.

Naturally, he thinks it won't fall.

AL
There was plenty of tall speculation when Al Smith and John Raskob called at the White House the other day. Conjecture ran riot in connection with possible changes in the Cabinet, Senate and diplomatic corps.

The White House insisted that Al and John came only for tea and were entertained along with a small group of people whose presence made political talk impossible.

Despite all the "mystery" stories conjured up about the visit, the White House was telling the truth.

Smith and Raskob were ushered into the informal upstairs sitting room. President and Mrs. Roosevelt were already there with half a dozen guests and their daughter, Anna Dall, pouring tea.

Contrary to his usual practice of guiding the conversation, Mr. Roosevelt sat back almost silent. (He probably was getting a little inward amusement out of the strained efforts of his guests to make small talk with Smith and Raskob.)

The conversation veered from football to the weather—and, as the White House said, to the respective grandchildren of the Roosevelts and the Smiths.

Finally Norman Davis, our Ambassador-at-Large, who was present, expressed amazement over the speed with which prohibition repeal had been accomplished. He said he would not have believed when he last left the country the returns would be in so soon.

It was at this point President Roosevelt offered the only high light of the half hour's chat. He told those present that repeal so soon would NOT have been possible except for the pioneering work of Al Smith in 1928 and the ensuing four years of labor by John Raskob as Democratic national chairman.

GUARANTEES
Administration leaders on Capitol Hill are predicting privately that the President will recommend federal guarantee of bank deposits to Congress in January.

Continued opposition of big banking interests to the present method of securing your savings against bank failures is reported to have the administration on the verge of taking matters in its own hands.

Only a sudden rush to meet requirements of the law passed last spring—which becomes effective January 1—will prevent such a course, according to the congressional prognosticators.

It is anticipated by these crystal-gazers that the administration will propose federal guarantee of all deposits up to $2500 in member institutions of the national banking systems.

State banks would be included, provided they made application for membership in the Federal Reserve and qualified therefor in two or three years.

The Senate passed a similar bill last session. It was opposed by Mr. Roosevelt. The little secretary said it was the President's policy (with which he was NOT in accord) and therefore the White House should do all the talking.

Acheson, who was running the department as acting secretary, felt likewise. They were both 100 per cent for the President, but they wouldn't swallow his gold policy.

NOTES

Complete agreement by Russia on the controversial points of claims, religion and propaganda in advance of recognition was quite a victory for our government. The Soviets have forced all other countries to resume relations first and then arbitrate the matters of difference. In the midst of President Roosevelt's announcement of recognition, the State Department rushed over a tremendously important correction. On the title page of the exchange of correspondence they had spelled Commissar with one "s". So many newspaper men were jammed into the President's office for the news that the air became stifling inside of ten minutes. The windows are nailed down because of the ventilating system.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

STABILIZATION

The next big shot down from the arsenal of currency tactics will be double-barreled-domestic revaluation plus stabilization.

New Yorkers who tuned in on the New Deal's private wave length say it will be fired soon—probably around December 15. Revaluation will be between 50 and 60 cents close to 54 is likely. The Thomas amendment will be used to cut the official number of grains in the gold dollar, and announcement will be made that the dollar has reached the end of its toboggan—at least for a time.

Back to sound money? Yes. But not the committee for the nation will have arrived at its original destination.

The best New York opinion holds that the effects of the move will depend on the timing—the sooner, the more action. At least a temporary spurt is expected. The important psychological point is substitution of the confidence motive for the fear motive as incentive to buy. The question is whether confidence (in buying terms) will grow as fast as fear will wane.

BUDGET

Shortly before the shot is fired a huge transfer of gold from the Federal Reserve to the Treasury is in order. This means the Treasury can credit itself with a modest profit of about two billion dollars because of the increase in the value of its gold from $20.87 an ounce to $35, or whatever the figure may be.

The profit can then be applied to the budget, and will make the budget look much prettier than before—at least on paper. This angle counted heavily in preliminary discussions.

GOLDBACKS

The nearest twist of all is the probable printing and distribution of gold certificates based on the newly-defined gold dollar. Of course it will be explained that you can't redeem for gold right away, but presumably 100 per cent coverage will be earmarked for every certificate issued.

This bags two big birds. The government can tell the Thomasites they wanted more currency in circulation, and here it is. And what more could the sound money folks ask than currency fully backed by gold instead of greenbacks.

There is even a possibility that all or part of the December certificate maturities will be paid off in gold certificates as a grand gesture to restore confidence. New York insiders concede that

PROGRAM HELD AS METHODIST GROUP MEETS

ORANGE, Nov. 21.—The Rev. and Mrs. James Edwin Dunning of the Methodist Episcopal church were hosts yesterday afternoon and evening to the Orange County fellowship of Methodist ministers and their wives. During the afternoon the women visited in the parsonage, while the men played golf at the Santa Ana Country club.

Dinner was served in the evening in the Epworth hall by a committee of women from the Ladies Aid society of the church, headed by Mrs. J. Russell Kenyon, president of the organization. The tables were attractively decorated with bouquets of pink flowers.

Following dinner, the group enjoyed a program under the direction of the Rev. J. H. Ingle, which included several vocal solos by Mrs. George Warner and an address by Dr. J. A. Gelsinger, superintendent of the San Diego district of Methodist churches, who spoke on the life and character of Albert Schweitzer, one of the outstanding writers of today and the author of "Out of My Life and Thought," "History of Civilization," "The Quest of the Historical Jesus" and "The Mysticism of St. Paul," among other works.

Those present were Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Gelsinger of Balboa; the Rev. and Mrs. E. D. Hoffman of Fullerton; Dr. and Mrs. George Warner of Santa Ana; the Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Ingle of Huntington Park; the Rev. and Mrs. G. R. Ralston of Garden Grove; the Rev. and Mrs. O. W. Reinius of Santa Ana; the Rev. Crawford Trotter of Yorba Linda; the Rev. FREEDOM COMPLEX OF PEOPLE, MISPLACED SYMPATHY CITED AS REASONS FOR CRIME GAIN

ORANGE, Nov. 21.—The super-free complex of the American people, misplaced sympathy with the criminal population and the fact that Americans think in terms of the individual rather than in terms of the whole, were reasons cited by Chief of Police James E. Davis of Los Angeles for criminal conditions today, in a talk given before the Men's club of Orange at the Trinity Episcopal church parish house last night.

Davis was introduced by Sheriff Logan Jackson. The super-free complex, Davis declared, was inherited by Americans from ancestors who had sought freedom from political and religious codes in other countries. The chief condemned the practice of criminal lawyers, who, he said, build up a prejudice among the people against peace officers for their own profit.

The number of criminals in the United States is estimated at three millions, the speaker stated. Allowing 10 relatives for each criminal, it will be found that there are 30,000,000 persons in sympathy with the criminals, he said. The relatives naturally pass along propaganda discrediting police and lessening confidence in them, he said.

"Individualism is developed in America more than in any other similar country in the world," said Davis. "Each person thinks he is a king in his own right. He thinks that laws which require driving at a certain rate of speed are made for others and not for himself. Honesty in the whole American mass is low. I have never seen a citizen who would not boost the price of property to be purchased by city or county, the price for which must come from other taxpayers. After 20 years as a peace officer, I have few illusions about humanity. Of 12,000 murders in the United States in one year, one in 100 of the murderers goes to the gallows. The average prison term for a first degree murder is seven and a half years. A criminal would rather be tried for murder in the United States than for the theft of a car in Canada."

"I am not saying that police are perfect. The honest average of the government can not be higher than the source which produces it but I do say that the average police officer is of a courageous type and of finer and more honest type than the average citizen. America holds the third highest record for murders of any country in the world, Argentine heading the list, with crime and adequate punishment Mexico second."

Prompt methods of dealing with crime for criminals were remedies for the present situation named by the peace officer, who told of a policy he has inaugurated of not dallying with criminals who carry guns, and naming the recent shooting of Thomas White, bandit, and "Mile Away" Thomas by Los Angeles police. Davis declared that the failure of prohibition could be laid to judges and justices who had failed to impose sentences heavy enough to deter repetition of the crime. He stated that he would like to see judges on the bench eight hours every day.

Guests were introduced by Karl Glasbrenner. Under Sheriff Charles Riegler, Theo. Lacy, county jailer; Herman Zabel and Chief of Police B. F. Richards of Orange were at the speakers' table.

Preceding the talk, George Stinson, "singing cop" of the state traffic squad, accompanied by Mrs. Stinson at the piano, sang "Danny Boy" and "Old Man River." He responded with "O Sole Mio" as an encore. Alfred Higgins presided and reservations were in charge of W. C. Armstrong.

"Estrellita" and "Cielo Lindo," she was accompanied by Miss Ruth Frothingham of Santa Ana. Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Flora B. Johnson, section president; Mrs. Fred Alden, Miss Emma Corson and Mrs. Marah Adams, who acted as program chairman. One new member for the section was announced, Mrs. Emma Williamson.

Mrs. Ray McCarthy announced the Red Cross drive in progress here and obtained five members for the roll call.

Lodge Observes Brothers' Night
ORANGE, Nov. 21.—Brothers' night was observed at the regular meeting of Ruby Rebekah lodge Monday night and following a business meeting dancing was enjoyed. Mrs. Elizabeth Rodlock presided. Invitations were received from Toroso Rebekah lodge of Santa Ana, to attend a session to be held Wednesday night and one from the Sycamore lodge to attend a brothers' night program and initiation Saturday night.

Refreshments were served in the dining room of the lodge hall under the direction of Harold Talbert.

The program was centered around a travel theme and the first number was given by Mrs. W. C. Armstrong, who was charming in an Irish costume and who sang "Hills of Donegal" and "Killarney." She was accompanied by Mrs. Christine Lambert.

Hazel Mathews, well known musician of Santa Ana, gave a short talk on Russian music and played a typically Russian instrument. His first number was the "Volga Boatman," played in Russian fashion and this was followed by a stirring dance number.

Eleanor Young Elliott gave a reading by Mary Stewart Cutting, "The Theme With Variations," and as an encore, responded with James Whitcomb Riley's "Bear Story."

Miss Wilhelmina Dominguez, very lovely in Spanish costume, sang "Don't take calomel! Here's New Health For Your Liver"

Now banish bad breath, pimples, constipation; feel like a million!

That tired, frowzy feeling in the morning, that "dark-brown" taste in the mouth—if you would banish them and win back buoyant health, don't expect relief from salts, mineral oil, or candy and chewing-gum laxatives.

For such remedies only move the bowels. While chances are, you're one of the thousands suffering from sluggish liver, which does not yield sufficient bile—causing pimples, blemishes, headaches, bad breath and a general run-down feeling.

What you need is something which acts thoroughly but harmlessly upon the liver. And in Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets you will find that "something" which stimulates the bile flow.

VELMA FIELD AND DONALD TODD WED

ORANGE, Nov. 21.—Miss Velma Field, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Henson, 327 East River avenue, and Donald Todd, son of Mrs. Lydia Todd, of 385 South Glassell street, were united in marriage at a quiet ceremony held Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Christian church parsonage, with the Rev. Franklin Minck, pastor of the Christian church, conducting the ceremony.

The bride was beautiful in a smart black frock, with which she wore white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

The young people have been prominent in social activities of the community for the past several years. They have established their home at 815 South Parton street, Santa Ana.

Present at the wedding were the mothers of the bride and bridegroom, Mrs. Henson and Mrs. Todd and Miss Margaret Todd, sister of the bridegroom.

HORSES GO SOUTH

Running horses will be going south very soon, like the birds. . . . Hialeah Park and Tropical Park at Miami will house the stables of the Whitneys, Joseph L. Widener, Sylvester W. Labrot, C. C. Bestwick, . . . Labrot's mare, the great Tred Avon, which once defeated Equipose, will be among those entered for the major stakes.

IT'S OFFICIAL

The wrestling season now is actually on. Tiger Man Pesek having posted his $1000 check to a match at St. Louis with Ray Steele. . . . For several years South Bend newspaper has been running articles signed by "Bearskin," taking pot shots at the Notre Dame team. . . . the players used to figure Rock was doing them. . . . but the letters have continued, one printed the other as being a hoax.

Sports promoters will have something when they combine rodeo with wrestling. . . . Alabama Pitts, Sing star, will be lost to the team by graduation in about a year and a half. . . . he's a young Alabamian, and that story about him being a colored man is wrong.

MORE SORROW THAN ANGER

One of Hank Anderson's severest critics, a fellow who has been writing to us for more than a year, pointing out Hank's weaknesses, as changed his mind. . . . and now wants to see Hank retained as "knock 'em all cockeyed next." . . . says he's beginning to feel sorry for a guy who has taken it the way of Hank has.

If Max Baer had fought Max Schmeling again last summer two weeks after he knocked the German out, the Livermore Larruper probably would have beaten the challenger. . . . but if the two meet again February 22, as planned in San Francisco, Max Baer may find the job a little bit too tough.

Mr. O'Goofy wants to know if his Little Litrino can rattle. . . . Warner is right when he says football today is too much defense. . . . the pros have been putting up wild scoring games with their rule that allows passes to be thrown from any point behind the line of scrimmage. . . . whereas there are too many zeros in the college game.

PROFESSIONALS AT ROSE BOWL?

Mara's Scheme Might Be O. K. At That—McLemore PASADENA TILT NOT LILY WHITE

BY HENRY MCLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(UP)—The regrettable first because he deserves a reply, the secondly because selection of the Giants would be a swell idea. The Giants are professionals, it's true, but so is the idea of the Rose Bowl game, which, unless our information is haywire, is sponsored by the chamber of commerce.

The Rose Bowl fathers need have no fear about the Giants as a drawing card. Mara's team positively drips with colorful players, including Harry Newman and Ken Strong, and it plays wide-open, let's-go-to-town football. A game between the Giants and Southern California, say, would settle one and for all the argument concerning the relative merits of the pro and college game.

Personally, I don't see where there's any argument. I've seen half a dozen of the hired (and when I say hired I mean openly hired) outfits this season, and any one of them could take any college team I ever saw and bust it wide open. The talk about professional players taking it easy in tackling and blocking is heard no more. The boys are out there performing for board and room, and let me tell you that combination isn't just much an incentive as dear old Rutgers, dear old Harvard or dear old West Coast Marines.

But I must say no more. Mara will be sure as the dickens at me for writing this much, for he wanted to keep this gesture secret. The fact that a copy of his wire landed on my desk was pure accident.

SURVEYING CURRENT SPORTS IN COMPANY WITH MCLEMORE

By HENRY MCLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(UP)—Putting the sports shot here and there. Track and field athletes are going in for football in a big way this season with no less than six national or intercollegiate championships on the gridiron. . . . there's Duane Purvis of Purdue, a javelin flinger; Pete Zambura, N. Y. U. the hammer champ; Ivan Fiqua of Indiana, career quarter-mile; Willis Ward of Michigan, high jump champ; Glenn Hardin of Louisiana State, hurdle ace, and Jack Terrance of the same school, shot-putter of repute. . . . one might add that Ralph Metcalfe, water boy at Marquette and gets the bucket out there before the players hit the ground. Another trackman using his speed is Bob McAllister, the one-time sprinter who is now a cop. . . . he recently outran an automobile in which four thugs were escaping, shot one and captured another. . . . Bob says it wasn't bravery. . . . he thought the bandit's shot was the starting gun. "Man Mountain" Dean, the 300-pound wrestler with the Spanish moss beard, is a chicken rancher. . . . Max Baer, called into a Hollywooding for an introduction the other night, pinched Referee Jack Dempsey on both cheeks and then kissed him. . . . and they wonder what's wrong with the fight game. . . . A feature of the last Olympics was the thousands of women spectators. . . . A few thousand years ago the Olympic contestants performed in the nude and women were not allowed to attend. . . . if a girl did slip by in disguise and was caught, they tossed her off a cliff.

LOOKING AHEAD

Pursuing the trend of wrestling events as they are conducted nowadays, it may not be many years, according to our prognostication department, before we are reading some such chronicle as this: "Savoldi was wearing a spiked helmet, spiked shoes and a spiked belt and collar when he entered the ring for his match with Gentleman Jack Washburn. Washburn wore a jerkin of tempered steel and among the equipment in his corner, besides the usual halberd, were an adz and a brace of cold chisels. Jumping Joe depended upon his customary tools, a Moline plow, nine yards of picture wire, a sashweight and a blow-torch.

CRY FOR ACTION

"They rushed for each other's throats, emitting the hoarse cries of the bull ape. The first 15 minutes of the bout were spent in the exercise of various guzzling, throttling and garroting holds. Savoldi managed to twist Washburn into a picture-wire hold, but Gentleman Jack quivered his way to his corner where he managed to break it with one of the cold chisels.

"Washburn leaped into the offensive, whacking the former Notre Dame fullback about the head and ears with the adz. Savoldi laughed.

"There were 'oh's' and 'ah's' from the effete ringside section when Washburn followed up this lead with a flurry of three-edged trench knives which he dug into Savoldi fearfully.

REFERENCE WARNS

"But the gallery boomed and called upon the referee to 'make 'em fight or throw 'em out, the bums!' That worthy official thrust his helmeted head from a window in his one-man tank and warned the boys to quit stalling or he would open fire with one of the field-pieces mounted on the turret of his armored tractor. "The boos changed to applause and hilaire laughter when Washburn began singling Savoldi with his blow-torch. The high point of interest was reached a few minutes later when Savoldi, seizing his plow, split Washburn right up the middle.

"The fans, leaving the hall, congratulated the promoters on the show, which, by the way, was popularly priced at 10 cents to 25 cents, with school children admitted at half price."

PHILLIES SELLS KLEIN TO CUBS

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(INS)—Admitting that a football rules committee is like a man cutting his own hair, neither knowing quite where to stop, it naturally follows that those now in charge are prepared to be bitterly opposed to whatever they favored at this time last year and that, as soon as they can get off somewhere and think very deeply, they'll set about simplifying the game further by making it more profound.

Nevertheless, I understand today that they are contemplating one step to which there can be no possible objection by anybody, not even by the people who pay to see the games and whose objections do not count.

The change in question is to affect the side-line zones, introduced between this season and last with the idea of presenting a greater range to the attack.

Zones To Be Widened

These zones won't be eliminated. On the contrary, they will be widened, it is said, from 10 yards to 15, it having been discovered on the trial-by-error basis that the provision now defeats its own purpose.

Anyhow, it was formerly possible to get the ball out 15 yards from the side lines by wasting a down. Now you take it out 10 yards and waste the down, anyway. More than that, you're liable to keep on wasting them, owing to the fact that the short side is too narrow and if you try to run a play in there, you invariably wind up 10 yards out from the side lines again—and you kick magnificently on third down.

The zone-widening business will be one attempt to pandar to those who claim that modern defense has left the attack floundering and enfeebled. Whether there will be others, I do not profess to know and neither, I suspect, does the rules committee at this time.

Fumble Rule To Stand

Some of the more learned observers seem to be agitated about a return of the run-with-the-fumbled-ball but they are wasting their time. In the first place, the rules committee won't go for that. In the second, it wouldn't greatly help. As Harry Kipke, of Michigan, points out, it would only mean a profusion of punts, with nobody willing to assume the obligation of keeping so dangerous an object as the football with which the comical game is played, and I trust that I'm violating no confidence in stating that we have too much punting now.

There are other things the committee might do but won't. It could rescind at least part of its legislation against the screen pass. It could release the time element on the shift or make it a less onerous. It could throw away altogether the rule which says that a man is down who so much as stumbles momentarily to his knees, even though no opponent is nearer than the head linesman. But, as I say, it could, it might, but it won't.

WEST POINT HEAVY FAVORITE OVER NAVY

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Betting odds hover around 9 to 1 that the cadets will stand before the Navy cheering section in the duck at Franklin field in Philadelphia Saturday and sing the old West Point victory song, "Good Night, Navy; We're Going to Leave You Now."

Despite Navy's strong showing against Princeton's rugged football team last week, and Army's unexpected difficulties with Penn Military, Jack Doyle, veteran Broadway betting commissioner, announced the current odds today as 9 to 1 against Army, and 9 to 1 against Navy.

Reports from Annapolis and West Point indicate both elevens will take the field at virtually full strength, and both primed for this second engagement under last year's three-season truce between the academies.

Army is the heavy favorite because it is one of the three leading contenders for the National championship, and is considered generally a stronger outfit than either of the other two major unbeaten and untied elevens, Princeton and Duke.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Doctors said today that back injuries received by Joe Paglia, Santa Clara university fullback, were not serious. Paglia was injured in the game against St. Mary's.

An X-ray examination of the injuries showed a "small crack on one of the vertebrae," doctors said. They believed Paglia would leave St. Mary's hospital here within two weeks. He will not play again this season.

Pro Football Is Marquette Captains' Game

SAINTS OUT TO REDEEM SELVES AT LONG BEACH

Determined to make their last game their best, Santa Ana's Saints today plunged into the final week of their football season, vowing to make a better showing at Long Beach Saturday than they did against Alhambra here last week.

Coach Bill Foote frankly confessed his dissatisfaction with Santa Ana's last game, but at the same time said he believed Alhambra was the most underestimated team in the Coast league. "The Moors were as strong as any team we've met this year," Foote declared.

Long Beach, pre-season favorite, is out of the running for conference honors due to its defeat by San Diego and its tie with Pasadena, so the Saint-Jackrabbit joust means little this year. The title will be decided by the San Diego-Pasadena contest at Pasadena.

Santa Ana's force will be at full strength for the first time since early season. Ray Clark, right halfback, returned to the squad yesterday. He has been absent since the Covina game, October 6, when his ankle was broken. Waldo Smith, first string quarterback, missing from the Alhambra tussle because of injuries, also reported. He probably will start against Long Beach. Charley Roemer and Carl Schultz, tackles, slightly injured in the Alhambra quarrel, will be ready for Long Beach.

DONS STILL ANGLING FOR GAME FRIDAY

Coach Bill Cook of the Santa Ana Dons was still angling today for a game with some junior college squad Friday afternoon or evening.

Neither Long Beach nor Los Angeles cared to play here, but Cook was trying to get in touch with Glendale officials this afternoon, the idea being to schedule a game in which only the reserves of the two teams would compete. Cook is anxious to build up his reserve strength for the championship Fullerton engagement at the Municipal Bowl Thanksgiving Day.

GIRL SUIT AGAINST BAER IS POSTPONED

OAKLAND, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Max Baer's appearance in court to face a girl who accused him of breaking a promise to marry her was postponed until Dec. 4, due to the disappointment of a large crowd that had gathered in the courtroom.

The heavyweight pugilist and motion picture hero was sued for $250,000 damages by Olive Beck, a waitress in Baer's home town of Livermore, Cal. Attorneys for both sides denied persistent reports that Baer and his former girl friend had reached a settlement of the suit.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Ace Hudkins, the former "Nebraska Wildcat" of fistiana, was at liberty today after his latest brush with the law in which he spent 24 hours in jail on a charge of intoxication.

Released on $150 bail, Hudkins was ordered to reappear tomorrow with a companion, David Chalmers, 21. Police claimed both were asleep in a parked car in the middle of Hollywood boulevard. Chalmers also was released unpled $150 bail.

Walter Marty's High Jump Mark Accepted

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 21.—(UP)—California held another championship today after approval by the Amateur Athletic union of Walter Marty's high jump record of 6 feet 8 5/8 inches. Marty made the record as a student at Fresno State college.

MCOWAN NOW FIRST IN LEAGUE SCORING

Boosting his total to 18 points, Walt Mcowan, Long Beach "midnight express," forged into the leadership of Coast league scoring in the fourth round of conference competition.

The dusky Jackrabbit halfback tallied one touchdown against Pasadena Saturday, while Harry Acquarrelli, who was tied with him for the lead last week, was being held scoreless.

Santa Ana has made three touchdowns in league competition. They were made by Walt Hendrie, Bill Hawkins and Leroy Levans. The standings:

Mcowan, Long Beach, halfback, 18.
Woodruff, Long Beach, halfback, 12.

Jones Broadcasts On Football Friday

HOPEFUL IRISH PLOT DEFENSE FOR WARBURTON

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Nov. 21.—(INS)—Irvine Warburton, Trojan quarterback, will be marked man here Saturday when the Southern California football team clashes with Notre Dame.

Hearty Anderson, coach of the Irish, is seeing to that. Anderson planned to give his men a practical drill outdoors today on the defensive outlined in a blackboard session yesterday as the effective one for stopping the elusive Trojan quarterback.

Notre Dame regulars took it easy yesterday while Anderson delivered his warning. All of the regurs were in good physical condition except for a few bruises sustained Saturday when the Irish defeated Northwestern, 7 to 0.

Preparations have been made for a crowd of 40,000 persons at the stadium here.

Coach Anderson was not overly optimistic concerning the contest although a new hope was evident among both players and coaches.

"Southern California is too strong for us, but they will not run away with the game," said Anderson. "They have speed, experience, weight and confidence, but we will give them a real battle from start to finish."

TOSS OF COIN ENDS 'B' GAME ARGUMENT

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov. 21.—The disputed football game between Fullerton high school, freelance "B" champions, and Huntington Beach, Orange County league "B" champions, has been conceded to be "no game," because of the decision of Referee John Mitchell of Garden Grove.

The play which was miscalculated after Huntington Beach blocked a punt. Hunt, Oiler end, recovered the ball and ran to the Fullerton 4-yard line but Mitchell called the ball back and put it in play where the punt had been blocked. The Huntington Beach team captain, Porry Patrick, protested but the referee held firm.

Coach James Roy Smith of Fullerton and Coach Harry Sheue of Huntington Beach discussed the decision with C.I.F. officials and decided on the "no-game" agreement.

As time prevented another game between the teams before the date for the next C.I.F. game, the two coaches tossed a coin to see which team should proceed in the playoffs. Fullerton won the toss.

TROJANS LEAVE FOR SOUTH BEND TONIGHT

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21.—(UP)—The University of Southern California's football team leaves at 6:45 p. m. tonight for South Bend, where it will strike for its third consecutive victory over Notre Dame's hapless Ramblers Saturday.

Workouts en route are scheduled at Tucson, Ariz., Wednesday; Hutchinson, Kan., Thursday, and Chicago, Friday afternoon.

Pacho, Jackson In Olympic's Windup

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Bobby Pacho will attempt to avenge a knockout defeat tonight in a scheduled 10-round battle with Young Peter Jackson at the Olympic.

Fred Feary up and coming Stockton heavyweight, makes his local debut on the supporting card in a bout with Ed Prante. The fight is scheduled for 10 rounds.

S. F. Orders Investigation Of Grid Riot

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21.—(INS)—The board of supervisors today instructed the public welfare committee to investigate the near riot of 5000 football fans who swarmed onto the playing field at Kezar stadium Sunday when the final gun ended the St. Mary's-Santa Clara game.

The committee was instructed to investigate present facilities for handling crowds at the stadium, and make recommendations if they are deemed inadequate.

NAZI OFFICIALS 'REGRET' A. A. U. OLYMPIC VOTE

BERLIN, Nov. 21.—(INS)—Germany today officially took notice of the American Amateur Athletic union's action in adopting a resolution demanding that the Reich lift restrictions on Jewish athletes.

A high official of the federal athletic administration of Germany said:

"We regret that the American A. A. U. took such action, in view of the fact that, at the Olympic Congress in Vienna, Germany assured Jewish members of foreign teams a hearty welcome as guests just as Germany adheres to all other Olympic rules and customs."

"Moreover, Jewish athletes have not been excluded officially from the German Olympic team nor have they been ousted officially from sports clubs."

ELECTION OF OFFICERS NEXT FOR A. A. U.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 21.—(INS)—The most explosive item of their business out of the way, delegates to the Amateur Athletic union meeting here resumed the convention routine today with the election of officers scheduled as the windup.

A brief but sharp verbal exchange preceded adoption of the resolution which served notice upon the Nazi government that Jewish athletes in Germany must be permitted to attend the 1936 Olympics in Berlin. The alternative of this, as far as the A. A. U. is concerned is withdrawal of the United States from the Games.

The resolution, adopted almost unanimously, was an ultimatum to Germany. It demanded a guarantee of this protection before the A. A. U. will certify any athlete for the Olympics. G. T. Kirby of New York, presented the measure on the convention floor.

In the order of business was the selection of the 10 outstanding amateur athletes named by the Sullivan Memorial committee for presentation to the committee of 600 to select the athlete, performing under A. A. U. auspices, of outstanding performance.

FOOTBALL CAMPS

(By United Press)

BERKELEY—California's Golden Bears started heavy work today for the "B" game this season, the clash with Stanford. The Bears came out of the hard game with Idaho without serious injuries.

PALO ALTO—Betting commissions today established odds of 10 to 8 favorites to win the traditional game with California Saturday. The Bears today on plays for their battle against Washington State Saturday.

SEATTLE—Greatly pleased by the University of Washington's performance in the 10-0 victory over U. C. L. A., Coach Jimmy Phelan started his Huskies today on plays for their battle against Washington State Saturday.

LOS ANGELES—Disappointed by the 10-0 trouncing they took from Washington, the U. C. L. A. Bruins were back home today to select their training camp at St. Mary's, which invades the Coliseum Saturday. Several line changes are planned by Coach Ray Spaulding in an effort to assemble a point-scoring aggregation.

EVANSTON, Ill.—Ollie Olson's punting toe received much attention today as Northwestern drilled for the Michigan game Saturday. Dick Hanley said his eleven will have to rely heavily on the punting of Olson to keep the Wolverines out of Wildcat territory.

WEST POINT, N. Y.—With only two days left for practice before the Navy game, the Army buckled down to hard work today. Place-kicking and punting were stressed and Buckler, the Army's great forward passer, gave special attention to that form of attack. The squad entrains for Philadelphia Thursday.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Harvard hopes rose today with the return of Captain Dean and Tackle Choate. One shift has been made in the first team, Shaun Kelly replacing Tom Nazro at end. The Brown victory supplied today's tonic, which Harvard thinks will lead to a victory over Yale.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Yale scrimmaged against Harvard formations today. Coach Coach Reggie Root put the team through an intensive drill. The squad was bolstered yesterday by the return of Kim White, head and this sterling back probably will see plenty of action Saturday.

CASH. TRIO OF PLAYERS SWING BIG BALL DEAL

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Purchase of Outfielder Charles ("Chuck") Klein, from the Philadelphia Phillies, was announced today by the Chicago Cubs.

In exchange for Klein the Phillies received Harvey Hendrick, outfielder, Mark Koenig, infielder, and Theodore Kleinhaus, left-hand pitcher from Atlanta.

Walker did not reveal whether cash entered the transaction but sports circles believed the Cubs paid heavily. Figures as high as $75,000 and $100,000 were mentioned.

Klein is generally regarded as one of the outstanding stars in baseball today. He headed his league in hitting, runs batted in, base hits and has always been a heavy home-run hitter. He was the leading home run hitter and National league batting champion the past season.

The late William Wrigley Jr. negotiated for the purchase of Klein on several occasions but was unsuccessful due to the price placed by the Phillies on their principal drawing card.

Bierman To Coach N. Y. U. In '34, Report

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(INS)—Bernie Bierman, coach of University of Minnesota's football eleven, is headed for New York University in 1935, or before that time if plans already launched mature.

It was learned today that the matter has been informally discussed with Bierman. His contract with Minnesota does not expire until December 1, 1934. Whether Gopher authorities would agree to terminate this contract is not known.

Envoys of New York university also interviewed Glenn S. Warner. It was said the former seer of Palo Alto was willing to come to New York, but he, too, is bound by contract to Temple university until the end of the 1934 season.

This Warner angle revives that was heard during his last year at Stanford.

There is no doubt N. Y. U. has charted a new football course and plans a speedy return to "big time" football. The spirit of the student body and alumni association seems to be all in favor of it. There is general dissatisfaction over de-emphasized football.

GIBSON RETURNS TO SEALS NEXT SEASON

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21.—(INS)—Sam Gibson, leading pitcher of the Pacific Coast league with San Francisco in 1930, will be with the Seals again next season, it was announced today.

Gibson, purchased by the Chicago Cubs from the Portland Ducks, is being sent to San Francisco in a deal which Agule Galan, second baseman, goes to the Cubs. He is one of six players given the Seals in the trade for the promising young infielder.

ROSENBLUM TELLS BETROTHAL AT CLUB

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(INS)—Maxie Rosenbloom, lightweight boxing champion of the world, formally announced his engagement to Beatrice Blinn from the floor of a night club in Harlem early today.

Tendered a hearty ovation when he was introduced from his ring-side table where he was sitting with Miss Blinn, the boxing champion arose and said: "I thank you for this reception, and want to introduce you at this time to my future wife, Miss Betty Blinn."

HORSES GO SOUTH
Running horses will be going south very soon, like the birds do. . . Hialeah Park and Tropical Park at Miami will house the stables of the Whites, Joseph A. Widener, Sylvester W. Labrot, A. C. LOOKING AHEAD
Pursuing the trend of wrestling events as they are conducted nowadays, it may not be many years, according to our prognostication department, before we are reading some such chronicle as this:
"Savoldi was wearing a spiked helmet, spiked shoes and a spiked belt and collar when he entered the ring for his match with Gentleman Jack Washburn. Washburn wore a jerkin of tempered steel and among the equipment in his corner, besides the usual halberd, was an adz and a brace of cold chisels. Jumping Joe depended upon his customary tools, a Moline plow, nine yards of picture wire, a sashweight and a blow-torch."

CRY FOR ACTION
"They rushed for each other's throats, emitting the hoarse cries of the bull ape. The first 15 minutes of the bout were spent in the exercise of various guzzling, throttling and garroting holds. Savoldi managed to twist Washburn into a picture-wire hold, but Gentleman Jack squirmed his way from his corner where he managed to break it with one of the cold chisels."

"Washburn leaped into the offensive, whacking the former Notre Dame fullback about the head and ears with the adz. Savoldi laughed. "There were 'ohs' and 'ahs' from the effete ringside section when Washburn followed up this lead with a flurry of three-edged trench knives which he dug into Savoldi's fleshiness."

REFEREE WARNS
"But the gallery boomed and called upon the referee to 'make 'em fight or throw 'em out, the bums!' That worthy official thrust his helmeted head from a window in his one-man tank and warned the boys to quit stalling or he would open fire with one of the field-pieces mounted on the turret of his armored tractor. "The boys changed to applause and hilarious laughter when Washburn began singeing Savoldi with his blow-torch. The high point of interest was reached a few minutes later when Savoldi, seizing his plow, split Washburn right up the middle."

"The fans, leaving the hall, congratulated the promoters on the show, which, by the way, was popularly priced at 10 cents to 25 cents, the school children admitted at half price."

SIDE LINE ZONE TO BE WIDENED 5 YARDS. PLAN

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(INS)—Admitting that a football rules committee is like a man cutting his own hair, neither knowing quite where to stop, it naturally follows that those now in charge are prepared to be bitterly opposed to whatever they favored at this time last year and that, as soon as they can get off some where and think very deeply, they'll set about simplifying the game further by making it more profound.

Nevertheless, I understand today that they are contemplating one step to which there can be no possible objection by anybody, not even by the people who pay to see the games and whose objections do not count.

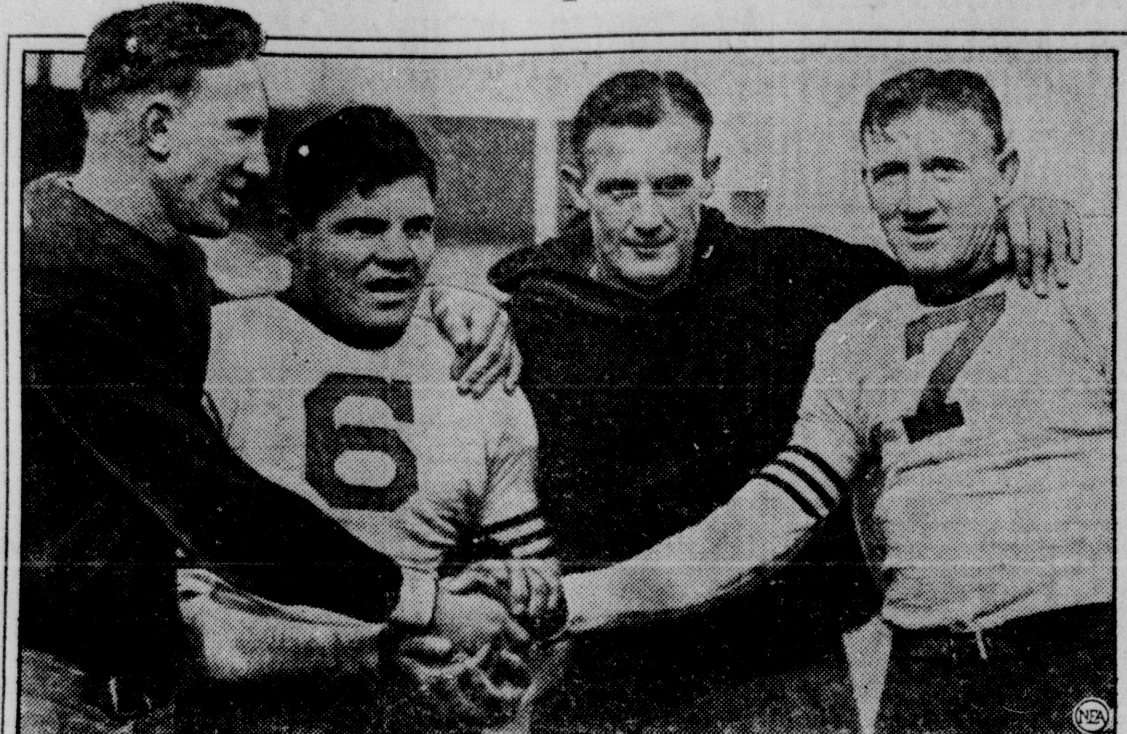

The change in question is to affect the side-line zones, introduced between this season and last with the idea of presenting a greater range to the attack.

Zones To Be Widened
These zones won't be eliminated. On the contrary, they will be widened, it is said, from 10 yards to 15, it having been discovered on the trial error basis that the provision now defeats its own purpose.

Anyhow, it was formerly possible to get the ball out 15 yards from the side lines by wasting a down. Now you take it out 10 yards and waste the down, anyway. More than that, you're liable to keep on wasting time, owing to the fact that the short side is too narrow and if you try to run a play in there, you invariably wind up 10 yards out from the side lines again—and you kick magnificently on third down.

The zone-widening business will be one attempt to pandar to those who claim that modern defense has

SAINTS OUT TO REDEEM SELVES AT LONG BEACH

Determined to make their last game their best, Santa Ana's Saints today plunged into the final week of their football season, vowing to make a better showing at Long Beach Saturday than they did against Alhambra here last week.

Coach Bill Foote frankly confessed his dissatisfaction with Santa Ana's last game, but at the same time said he believed Alhambra was the most underestimated team in the Coast league. "The Moors were as strong as any team we've met this year," Foote declared.

Long Beach, pre-season favorite, is out of the running for conference honors due to its defeat by San Diego and its tie with Pasadena, so the Saint-Jackrabbits just means little this year. The title will be decided by the San Diego-Pasadena contest at Pasadena.

Santa Ana's force will be at full strength for the first time since early season. Ray Clark, right halfback, returned to the squad yesterday. He has been absent since the Covina game, October 6, when his ankle was broken. Waldo Smith, first string quarterback, missing from the Alhambra tussle because of injuries, also reported. He probably will start against Long Beach. Charley Roemer and Carl Schultz, tackles, slightly injured in the Alhambra quarrel, will be ready for Long Beach.

Neither Long Beach nor Los Angeles cared to play here, but Cook was trying to get in touch with Glendale officials this afternoon, the idea being to schedule a game in which only the reserves of the two teams would compete. Cook is anxious to build up his reserve strength for the championship Fullerton engagement at the Municipal Bowl Thanksgiving Day.

GIRL SUIT AGAINST BAER IS POSTPONED

OAKLAND, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Max Baer's appearance in court to face a girl who accused him of breaking a promise to marry her was postponed until Dec. 4, to the disappointment of a large crowd that had gathered in the courtroom.

The heavyweight pugilist and motion picture hero was sued for $250,000 damages by Olive Beck, a waitress in Baer's home town of Livermore, Cal. Attorneys for both sides denied persistent reports that Baer and his former girl friend had reached a settlement of the suit.

ACE HUDKINS FREED FROM JAIL ON BAIL

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Ace Hudkins, the former "Nebraska Wildcat" of fistiana, was at liberty today after his latest brush with the law in which he spent 24 hours in jail on a charge of intoxication.

Released on $150 bail, Hudkins was ordered to reappear tomorrow with a companion, David Chalmers, 31. Police claimed both were asleep in a parked car in the middle of Hollywood boulevard. Chalmers also was released under $150 bail.

Walter Marty's High Jump Mark Accepted

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 21.—(UP)—California held another championship today after approval by the Amateur Athletic union of Walter Marty's high jump record of 6 feet 5-8 inches. Marty made the record as a student at Fresno State college.

MCCOWAN NOW FIRST IN LEAGUE SCORING

Boosting his total to 18 points, Walt McCowan, Long Beach "midnight express," forged into the leadership of Coast league scoring in the fourth round of conference competition.

The dusky Jackrabbits halfback tallied one touchdown against Pasadena Saturday, while Harry Accarelli, who was tied with him for the lead last week, was being held scoreless.

Santa Ana has made three touchdowns in league competition. They were made by Walt Hendrie, Bill Hawkins and Leroy Levens.

The standings:
McCowan, Long Beach, halfback, 18.

Jones Broadcasts On Football Friday

HOPEFUL IRISH PLOT DEFENSE FOR WARBURTON

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Nov. 21.—(INS)—Irvine Warburton, Trojan quarterback, will be a marked man here Saturday when the Southern California football team clashes with Notre Dame.

Heardly Anderson, coach of the Irish, is seeing to that. Anderson planned to give his men a practical drill outdoors today on the defensive outlined in a blackboard session yesterday as the effective one for stopping the elusive Trojan quarterback.

Notre Dame regularly took it easy yesterday while Anderson delivered his warning. All of the regulars were in good physical condition except for a few bruises sustained Saturday when the Irish defeated Northwestern, 7 to 0.

Preparations have been made for a crowd of 40,000 persons at the stadium here.

Coach Anderson was not overly optimistic concerning the contest although a new hope was evident among both players and coaches. "Southern California is too strong for us, but they will not run away with the game," said Anderson. "They have speed, experience, weight and confidence, but we will give them a real battle from start to finish."

TOSS OF COIN ENDS 'B' GAME ARGUMENT

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov. 21.—The disputed football game between Fullerton high school, free lance "B" champions, and Huntington Beach, Orange County league "B" champions, has been decided by a "no game," because of the decision of Referee John Mitchell of Garden Grove.

The play which was miscalled came after Huntington Beach blocked a punt. Hunt, Oiler end, recovered the ball and ran to the Fullerton 4-yard line but Mitchell called the ball back and put it in play where the punt had been blocked. The Huntington Beach team captain, Porry Patrick, protested but the referee held firm.

Coach James Roy Smith of Fullerton and Coach Harry Sheue of Huntington Beach discussed the decision with C.I.F. officials and decided on the "no-game" agreement.

As time prevented another game between the teams before the date for the next C.I.F. game, the two coaches tossed a coin to see which team should proceed in the playoffs. Fullerton won the toss.

TROJANS LEAVE FOR SOUTH BEND TONIGHT

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21.—(UP)—The University of Southern California's football team leaves at 6:45 p. m. tonight for South Bend, where it will strike for its third consecutive victory over Notre Dame's hapless Ramblers Saturday.

Workouts en route are scheduled at Tucson, Ariz., Wednesday; Hutchinson, Kan., Thursday, and Chicago, Friday afternoon.

Pacho, Jackson In Olympic's Windup

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Bobby Pacho will attempt to avenge a knockout defeat tonight in a scheduled 10-round battle with Young Peter Jackson at the Olympic.

S. F. Orders Investigation Of Grid Riot

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21.—(INS)—The board of supervisors today instructed the public welfare committee to investigate the near riot of 5000 football fans who swarmed onto the playing field at Kezar stadium Sunday when the final gun ended the St. Mary's-Santa Clara game.

The committee was instructed to investigate present facilities for handling crowds at the stadium, and make recommendations if they are deemed inadequate.

NAZI OFFICIALS 'REGRET' A. A. U. OLYMPIC VOTE

BERLIN, Nov. 21.—(INS)—Germany today officially took notice of the American Amateur Athletic union's action in adopting a resolution demanding that the Reich lift restrictions on Jewish athletes.

A high official of the federal athletic administration of Germany said:

"We regret that the American A. A. U. took such action, in view of the fact that, at the Olympic Congress in Vienna, Germany assured Jewish members of foreign teams a hearty welcome as guests just as Germany adheres to all other Olympic rules and customs."

"Moreover, Jewish athletes have not been excluded officially from the German Olympic team nor have they been ousted officially from sports clubs."

ELECTION OF OFFICERS NEXT FOR A. A. U.
PITTSBURGH, Nov. 21.—(INS)—The most explosive item of their business out of the way, delegates to the Amateur Athletic union meeting here resumed the convention routine today with the election of officers scheduled as the windup.

A brief but sharp verbal exchange preceded adoption of the resolution which served notice upon the Nazi government that Jewish athletics in Germany must be permitted and encouraged to train for the 1936 Olympics in Berlin. The alternative of this, as far as the A. A. U. is concerned is withdrawal of the United States from the Games.

The resolution, adopted almost unanimously, was an ultimatum to Germany. It demanded a guarantee of this protection before the A. A. U. will certify any athlete for the Olympics. G. T. Kirby of New York, presented the measure on the convention floor.

In the order of business was the selection of the 10 outstanding amateur athletes named by the Sullivan Memorial committee of presentation to select the athlete, performing under A. A. U. auspices, of outstanding performance.

FOOTBALL CAMPS

(By United Press)
BERKELEY (Calif.)—The Golden Bears started heavy work today for the "Big Game" of the season, the clash at Stanford of the Bears camped here with California Saturday. The Indians welcomed Bobby Grayson, star fullback, back to practice. Doctors said his ankle injury had healed completely.

PALO ALTO—Betting commissions today established Stanford as 10-8 favorites to win the traditional game with California Saturday. The Indians welcomed Bobby Grayson, star fullback, back to practice. Doctors said his ankle injury had healed completely.

SEATTLE—Greatly pleased by the University of Washington's performance in the 10-0 victory over U. C. L. the Huskies today on plays for their battle against Washington State Saturday.

LOS ANGELES—Disappointed by the tie to the tie, the Bruins from Washington, the U.C.L.A. Bruins were back home today to point their training eye at the Bruins of the Coliseum Saturday. Several line changes are planned by Coach Bill Stagg's College of Pacific eleven at Wrigley field Friday night.

LOS ANGELES—Heartened although bruised by their hard-fought victory over the San Diego Marines, the Loyola Lions today were expected to display an intact lineup against A. A. Stagg's College of Pacific eleven at Wrigley field Friday night.

EVANSTON, Ill.—Ole Olson's punting the record for the season today as Northwestern drilled for the Michigan game Saturday. Dick Hanley said his eleven will have to rely heavily on the punting of Olson to keep the Wolverines out of Wildcat territory.

WEST POINT, N. Y.—With only two days left for practice before the Navy game, the Army backed down to hard work today. Place-kicking and punting were stressed and Buckner, the Army's great forward passer, gave special attention to that form of attack. The squad entrains for Philadelphia Thursday.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Harvard hopes rose today with the return of Captain Dean and Tackle Choate. One shift has been made in the first team, Shaun Kelly replacing Tom Nazro at end. The Brown victory supplied a tonic which Harvard thinks will lead to a victory over Yale.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Yale scrimmaged against Harvard formations today as Coach Reggie Root put the team through an intensive drill. The squad was bolstered yesterday by the return of Kim Whitehead and this sterling back probably will see plenty of action Saturday.

CASH. TRIO OF PLAYERS SWING BIG BALL DEAL

PROFESSIONALS AT ROSE BOWL?

Mara's Scheme Might Be O. K. At That—McLemore

PASADENA TILT NOT LILY WHITE

BY HENRY MCLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(UP)—The regrettable first because he deserves a reply, the secondly because selection of the Giants would be a swell idea. The Giants are professionals, it's true, but so is the idea of the Rose Bowl game, which, unless our information is haywire, is sponsored by the chamber of commerce.

The Rose Bowl farmers need have no fear about the Giants as a drawing card. Mara's team positively drips with colorful players, including Harry Newman and Ken Strong, and it plays wide-open, let's-go-to-town football. A game between the Giants and Southern California, say, would settle one and for all the argument concerning the relative merits of the pro and college game.

Personally, I don't see where there's any argument. I've seen half a dozen of the hired (and when I say hired I mean openly hired) outfits this season, and any one of them could take any college team I ever saw and bust it wide open. The talk about professional players taking it easy in tackling and blocking is heard no more. The boys are out there peeling for board and room, and let no one tell you that combination isn't just as much an incentive as dear old Rutgers, dear old Harvard or dear old West Coast Marines.

But I must say no more. Mara will be more as the dickens at me for writing this much, for he wanted to keep this gesture secret. The fact that a copy of his wire landed on my desk was pure accident.

Now that was pretty decent. No body hates long train rides like Mara. Especially one to California in the winter. Moreover, Mara hates the pitiless beam of the spotlight and a trip to the New Year's game would no doubt subject him to much publicity. Yet he's willing to go through with all the inconveniences just to help the Rose Bowl committee out, and perhaps pick up thirty or thirty-five thousand dollars in pin money. It's a real sporting gesture.

It's entirely probable that the Rose Bowl committee, unwilling for Mara to make such a sacrifice, won't answer his wire. This would

SURVEYING CURRENT SPORTS IN COMPANY WITH MCLEMORE

By HENRY MCLEMORE

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(UP)—Putting the sports shot here and there:
Track and field athletes are going in for football in a big way this season with no less than six national or intercollegiate championships on the gridiron. . . there's Duane Purvis of Purdue, a javelin finger; Pete Zarembka, N. Y. U., the hammer crack; Ivan F. Funa of Indiana, crack quarter-miler; Willis Ward of Michigan, high jump champion; Glenn Hardin of Louisiana State, hurdle ace, and Jack Turrance of the same school, shot-putter of repute. . . one might add that Ralph Metcalfe, world sprint record-holder, is water boy at Marquette and gets the bucket out there before the players hit the ground.

Another trackman using his speed is Bob MacAllister, the one-time sprinter who is now a cop. . . he recently outran an automobile in which four thugs were escaping, shot one and captured another. . . Bob says it wasn't bravery. . . he thought the bandit shot was the starting gun. . . "Man Mountain" Dean, the 300-pound wrestler with the Spanish moose beard, is a chicken rancher. . . Max Baer, called into a Hollywood ring for an introduction to the other night, pinched Referee Jack Dempsey on both cheeks and then kissed him. . . and they wondered what's wrong with the fight game."

A feature of the last Olympics was the thousands of women spectators. . . A few thousand years ago the Olympic contestants performed in the nude and women were not allowed to attend. . . if a gal did slip by in disguise and was caught, they tossed her off a cliff.

LAGUNA CARD CONTEST OPENS ON DECEMBER 1

LAGUNA BEACH, Nov. 21.—Ralph A. Frost Jr., manager of the Laguna Bridge club, announced today that the preliminary or qualifying round for the 1935 team-of-two contract bridge championship will be held December 1, at the clubhouse. The championship is being sponsored by the Little Slam club, which has named a committee consisting of Mr. Frost, Charles H. Jester and Verner F. Rush to arrange the details. The club instructed the committee that this year that only residents of Laguna Beach will be entitled to enter the qualifying round.

On behalf of the committee, Frost announced that the Mitchell movement will govern play and that match point scoring will be used. The four highest teams from the North-South and East-West sides will qualify for a series of play-back elimination matches to decide the winner.

A permanent trophy, a metal miniature card table, upon which the names of the champions and the runnerup will be engraved, will be given this year. Mrs. Martha De Ahna and Mrs. Elizabeth Pierce are the first team to enter.

Woman's Club In Social On Nov. 25

MIDWAY CITY, Nov. 21.—Ten hostesses will entertain Saturday evening in their respective homes in a benefit bridge party, the proceeds to go toward the clubhouse debt. The affair is sponsored by the Midway City Woman's club and will culminate in a social at the clubhouse, while refreshments will be served and prizes awarded. The members who will entertain include Mrs. M. Yung Johanna, Mrs. W. E. Moore, Mrs. P. H. Marshall, Mrs. Kingsbury, Mrs. Dale Dunstan, Mrs. Charles A. Whittier, Mrs. S. A. Miller, Mrs. N. A. Nelson, Mrs. Murray Harrison and Mrs. Chester Campbell. Mrs. B. L. Kirkham is general chairman of the ways and means committee and will be in charge of the party. Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Miller are in charge of prizes.

Post, Auxiliary In Dinner Party

TUSTIN, Nov. 21.—Meeting in their new club room above the First National bank, members of the Tustin American Legion post and auxiliary and their families, shared a 6:30 potluck dinner recently. Abalone steaks for the dinner were furnished by Charles Cleary, Dick Horton, Earl Horton and Bruan Anderson. Mesdames Laura Marks, Daisy Turner and Mary Lambert were in charge of the serving.

Entertainment of old-fashioned songs were put on by Cadet Hamilton and W. S. Leinberger, entertainment committee. The two organizations made plans to have a Christmas tree and program December 15, with the Boy and Girl Scouts, whom they sponsor, as special guests.

Mrs. Myrtle Horton, auxiliary community welfare chairman, was appointed to serve on the local welfare board this winter.

Awards went to Mrs. McLain, first, and Mrs. May Stroud, second for women; Frank Anning, first for men, and Frank Walker, second for men. Refreshments served included pumpkin pie and coffee.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. John Farnsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murdy, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Stroud, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hazard, Mrs. McLain, first, and Mrs. May Stroud, second for women; Frank Anning, first for men, and Frank Walker, second for men. Refreshments served included pumpkin pie and coffee.

Dinner Is Held In Midway City

MIDWAY CITY, Nov. 21.—Complimenting Mrs. Ernest Marks of Santa Ana, who was celebrating a birthday anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. P. Hell, brother-in-law and sister of the honoree, were hosts at dinner at their home recently. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest J. Marks and daughters, Thelma and Elaine Marks, of Santa Ana; Mrs. L. L. Brown, mother of the honoree and hostess; Mr. and Mrs. M. J. P. Hell and members of their family, the Misses Hazel and Dorothy Hell and Chester Hell. On Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Hell and family were guests at the Marks home, where another party in observance of the anniversary brought together another group of relatives.

BIRTHDAYS OBSERVED

GARDEN GROVE, Nov. 21.—Mrs. W. O. Broady entertained at dinner Sunday in honor of her husband and their son, Ralph Broady, on their birthday anniversaries. The table was centered with a basket of fruit. Covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Broady and daughter, Betty, of San Dimas; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Broady, of Glendale; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Broady, and children, Bobbie and Carolyn and Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Broady.

CARD PARTY NOV. 25

GARDEN GROVE, Nov. 21.—The social section of the Woman's club is sponsoring a public card party in the clubhouse Saturday evening, commencing at 8 o'clock. Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Charles George and Mrs. W. H. Stennett. Tables will be arranged for bridge and "500," with prizes awarded for both. Refreshments will be served at the close of the evening.

MILLS TO TALK ON PROBLEMS OF BUSINESS AND GOVERNMENT

GARDEN GROVE, Nov. 21.—Problems confronting business and government will be placed before Garden Grove Lions and their guests Wednesday noon by Dr. Walter Thomas Mills, veteran sociologist and economist. The club meets in Legion Hall and many Lions from other clubs and friends of members are expected to attend. Mills, who has spoken a number of times recently in Orange county, has been a lifelong student of problems which are now uppermost in American life. He is a personal friend of Ramsey MacDonald, has toured New Zealand, Australia and Canada, and has taken part in several political campaigns in England.

That the problems which have brought distress to the business world are beyond solution by past methods, or by business as now organized, is contended by Mills, who points to increasing governmental functioning in business and participating in commercial activities as evidence that government will continue to exercise a strong influence and may supersede some activities now in private hands.

EDISON SEEKS FRANCHISE FOR TUSTIN AREA

TUSTIN, Nov. 21.—A representative of the Southern California Edison company was present at the regular meeting of the Tustin city council last night and made oral application for a 50-year franchise.

The council voted to adopt a resolution authorizing publication of a notice to sell a franchise for a period of 60 days. Conditions of the franchise will be published December 1, 8, 15 and 22, the Edison company agreeing to pay for the cost of publication. Following December 22, the final publication, it will be necessary to wait 20 days and January 15 will be the final date for filing a bid for the franchise, and if the council sees fit, the bid of the Edison company will be accepted.

SET HEARING DATE

TUSTIN, Nov. 21.—The preliminary hearing of Selma O'Tero for contributing to the delinquency of a minor, will be held at 10 a. m. November 25 in Tustin city court. The preliminary hearing of Miss Beatrice O'Tero, daughter of Mrs. Selma O'Tero, charged with resisting an officer, will take place on the same date.

SEWING CLUB TO MEET

TUSTIN, Nov. 21.—The sewing club of the American Legion auxiliary will hold a potluck luncheon and all-day work meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. Ona Hunter in Long Beach. Aprons will be made for the auxiliary's Christmas bazaar, according to Mrs. Beulah Hamilton, publicity chairman.

TEACHER RECOVERS

TUSTIN, Nov. 21.—Miss Elsie Hull, science teacher, is back at the high school following a minor operation performed November 10. Before going to the hospital the day prior to the operation, Miss Hull taught two classes and planned the work for the days she was absent.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21.—(UP)—A mutinous crew of 33 Chinese seamen, who rioted aboard a British oil tanker in Los Angeles harbor and threatened to kill the captain, awaited deportation to China today. The British consulate here announced that mutiny charges would not be lodged against the 33 seamen, but instead would be deported to China. The mutineers were held in jail at San Pedro. Outbreak occurred shortly after the tanker Giam arrived at the harbor from South America. Capt. B. G. Proteroe said they became angered when he refused their demands for additional wages. One seaman rushed the skipper with a meat cleaver just as police charged up the gangplank. The riot was quelled when officers arrested Geong Boo, the alleged assailant and ringleader.

DELAY ACTION ON REQUEST TO CLOSE ALLEY

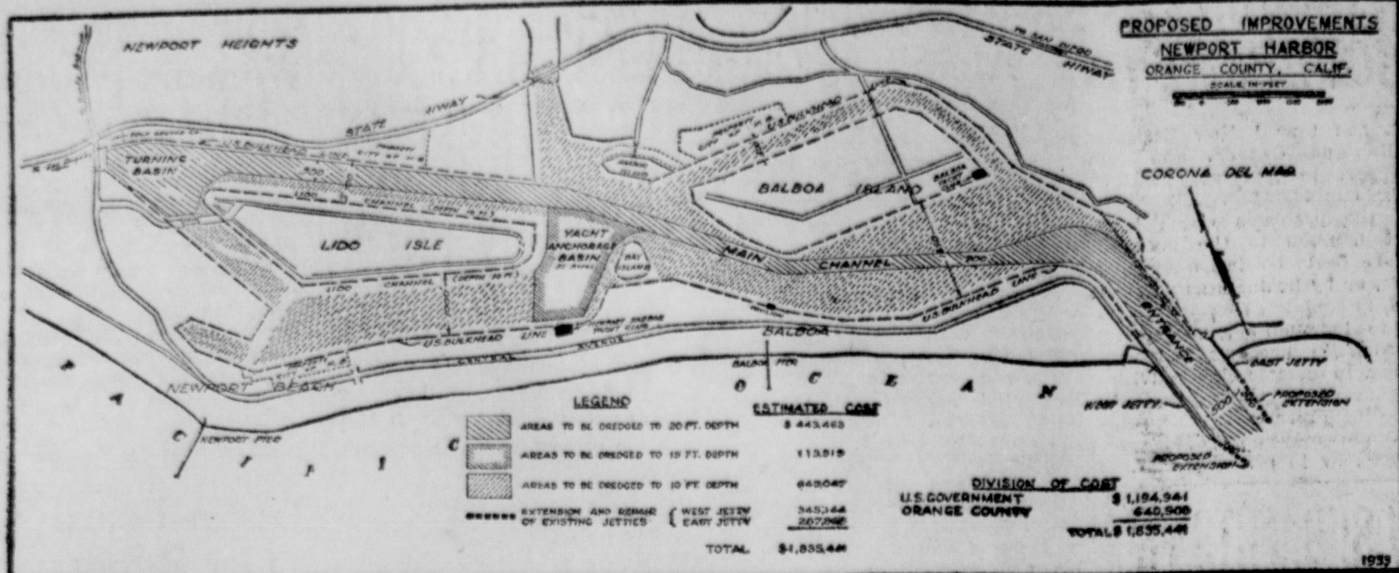

No action was taken by the city council last night on the proposal of the Union Oil company to bear the cost of closing an alley adjacent to the oil storage yard and running from East First to Walnut street, between Evergreen and Minter streets, so that fire protection dikes can be constructed.

The alley runs between the property of the oil company and the Southern Pacific railroad, but the attitude of a third property owner was not clear in the communication to the council. This party will be contacted this week and, if agreeable to the proposed action, the council plans to approve the request.

A city ordinance requiring dikes

HOW HARBOR WOULD BE IMPROVED

Here is a map of the Orange county harbor area at Newport Bay, and approved by United States Army engineers at Washington, D. C., showing proposed improvements that will be effected if the harbor district bonds for $640,000 are approved by the voters of the county on December 19. The entire lower section of the bay will be dredged to a depth of 10 feet, with a 35-acre yacht basin at East Newport, dredged to a depth of 15 feet, and a main channel, 20 feet deep, extending from the harbor entrance to the county wharf and turning basin at Newport, adjacent to the Arches and the state highway. The federal government is expected to contribute $1,195,441 toward financing the project.

DETAILS OF PLAN FOR FEDERAL WORK AT HARBOR OUTLINED BY ENGINEER

Details of proposed harbor improvements, for which an election on a bond issue of $640,000 will be held December 19, are set forth in a statement issued today by R. L. Patterson, city engineer of Newport Beach.

Plans have been prepared by Patterson, and approved by United States Army engineers for the project under which the federal government is expected to bear two thirds of the total cost of financing, and the county the balance. Under such an arrangement, the federal government will contribute $1,195,441 and the county $640,000. The total harbor program will cost $1,835,441.

The various items of the project, with detailed costs, as approved by the Army Engineers, who will award all contracts and supervise the work, are as follows:

Dredge entire lower bay 10 ft. depth at low tide, $645,947; dredge main channel, 20 feet deep, 200 feet wide, $180,159; dredge Co. turning basin, 20 ft. deep, up to 1200 ft. wide, $112,608; dredge anchorage basin, 15 ft. depth; 35-acre area, $112,919; dredge entrance channel, 20 feet depth; 500 ft. wide, $150,696; extension of west jetty, 760 ft. extension provided, $345,144; extension of east jetty, 920 ft. extension provided, $287,868.

In his statement, Patterson points out that a great amount of preliminary work has already been done by the county and the city of Newport Beach, with resulting great benefits, but this is the first time Orange county has been able to secure federal government recognition and assistance in the harbor development program.

The present plan utilizes all previous work done in the area, and comprises the deepening of channels already established, and extension and rebuilding of jetties now erected at the entrance.

With the silt from the Santa Ana river already diverted into the ocean west of Newport Beach, the statement adds, the Orange county harbor will be free from continued silt deposits, and once the channels are dredged the natural scouring action of the tides will keep the channels and entrance free from silt, and thus eliminate continual dredging expense which confronts many harbors. Moreover the initial federal government expenditure in Orange county paves the way for future government aid as the local harbor develops, the statement added.

COUNCIL NOTES

Roch Bradshaw, council reporter for a weekly newspaper, was appointed special officer to serve without pay by the city council last night on the recommendation of Councilman E. G. Warner. He has succeeded Merle Hunsong, who has accepted a position in the office of Agricultural Commissioner A. A. Brock, in Sacramento.

Miss Erma Keeler, deputy city clerk, took the place of City Clerk Ed Vegely last night. Vegely arrived in Santa Ana only a few minutes before the council meeting after completing a trip to Eureka with City Attorney Clyde Downing, but did not remain for the meeting.

An application to conduct a pool hall at 226 West Fifth street was referred to the police commissioner after the planning commission reported that it had no jurisdiction since the building now on the property conformed to the zoning requirements.

A check for $202.92 was received by the city council last night from the Pacific Electric railway as a franchise tax for use of the city streets for the period ending November 7.

PETITIONERS ASK DELAY ON VOTING PROJECTS

Protests or discussion on a proposed nursery at Santa Clara and Bush streets and the erection of a building for the Community Players at Twentieth and Main streets was delayed one week by the city council last night.

Otto Jacobs, attorney representing property owners surrounding the nursery site, asked for a postponement of one week in which to learn the sentiment of voters in the district. Charles Chatlain, owner of the land bounded by Santa Clara, Bush street and the Southern Pacific railroad, was present and agreed to the delay. No written protests had been made on the project.

The joint hearing on the Community Players proposition was not held pending further plans of the organization on whether work will be started or not. There is no definite assurance that aid can be procured from the R. F. C. for labor, it was pointed out.

William Tway, secretary of the planning commission, said that no recommendation from his body would be made unless the work would be started in the near future. The Players proposed to build a frame building to replace The Barn, former quarters of the dramatics group for many years. The site was donated to the city from the Bowers estate and is across the street from the new Bowers Memorial museum.

COMPLETE PURCHASE OF LAND AT BOWL

Payment of the final installment and adoption of a resolution accepting a deed was ordered by the city council last night regarding a strip of land west of the Municipal Bowl purchased by the city in June from J. William Sackman, owner of other adjacent property.

The strip of land, extending from Sixth to Eighth street, and 60 feet wide, was bought for $1500 and the final payment was for $512.64. The payment was not due until December 13 but the deed acceptance and order for payment was executed last night after City Attorney Clyde Downing had approved the documents offered by Sackman for adoption.

MOVE FLAG POLE TO FISHER PARK

COUNCIL APPROVES M.W.D. APPLICATION FOR $59,750,000

Employment for 10,000 men within four months will be provided by the Metropolitan Water District if the proposed request for an additional $59,750,000 loan from the government is granted, the city council was advised last night in a communication from John C. Austin, chairman of the aqueduct committee.

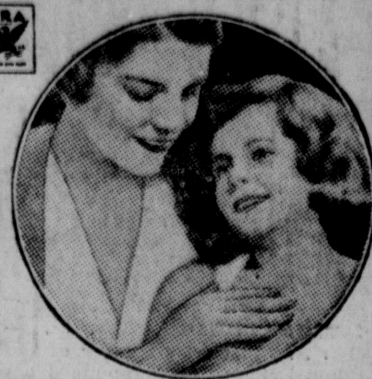

The council approved the request for a resolution endorsing the loan application and will forward it at once to government officials. If the loan is secured, equipment and materials valued at $20,000,000 will be purchased and the rest will go for labor costs.

Read the "Ads" but don't ignore medical opinion

if you want to
—keep bowels regular and comfortable
—make constipated spells rare as colds
—avoid danger of bowel strain

A doctor will tell you that the careless choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation.

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and even affect the liver and kidneys.

Fortunately, the public is fast turning to laxatives in liquid form.

Can Constipation be Corrected?

"Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say thousands who have followed this sensible medical advice: 1. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose that you find suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without assistance.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the average person's bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time. Why not try it? Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is no "convenience" in any cathartic that's taken so frequently, you must carry it wherever you go!

What is the "Right" Laxative?

In buying any laxative, read the label. Not the claims, but the contents. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescriptional preparation in which there are no mineral drugs. By using it, you avoid danger of strain. You can keep the bowels regular, and comfortable. You can make those constipated spells as rare as colds.

How many dimes and quarters are spent on "popular" laxatives! How quickly they count up, as you use more and more of these habit-forming helps! A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin would save you money—and bring you real relief.

Why Doctors give a liquid laxative

The habitual use of irritating salts, or powerful drugs in the highly concentrated form of pills and tablets is risky.

The properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without discomfort or injury. You need not take a "double dose" a day or two later.

The public can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore.

You'll Never Regret Buying Your Electric Refrigerator Now

Ring out the old—ring in the new! There never was a better time nor a better reason for protecting your family's food supply with an electric refrigerator than right now.

It's the right Time because your wife has been dreaming of this event for years—whether she let you suspect it or not. And she deserves what she wants this year.

And the Reason is that Southern California Edison Company's New Deal for the Purchaser makes it easier than ever before to own a modern electric refrigerator without seriously affecting your normal, necessary expenditures.

Drop in at the show-room of the Electrical Dealer nearest you, or visit one of the Edison Office displays. See the newest features of the newest models for yourself—and ask for particulars about this progressive move to help you fulfill your wife's heartfelt wish on Christmas morning.

THE NEW DEAL FOR THE PURCHASER... A new plan that makes it easier than ever before to buy and pay for the range or refrigerator you want. Ask your Electrical Dealer for full particulars.

DELAY ACTION ON REQUEST TO CLOSE ALLEY

No action was taken by the city council last night on the proposal of the Union Oil company to hear the cost of closing an alley adjacent to the oil storage yard and running from East First to Walnut street, between Evergreen and Minter streets, so that fire protection dikes can be constructed.

The alley runs between the property of the oil company and the Southern Pacific railroad, but the attitude of a third property owner was not clear in the communication to the council. This party will be contacted this week and, if agreeable to the proposed action, the council plans to approve the request.

Read the "Ads" but don't ignore medical opinion

if you want to

- keep bowels regular and comfortable
- make constipated spells rare as colds
- avoid danger of bowel strain

A doctor will tell you that the careless choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation.

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and even affect the liver and kidneys.

Fortunately, the public is fast turning to laxatives in liquid form.

Can Constipation be Corrected?

"Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say thousands who have followed this sensible medical advice: 1. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose that you find suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without assistance.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the average person's bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time. Why not try it? Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is no "convenience" in any cathartic that's taken so frequently, you must carry it wherever you go!

What is the "Right" Laxative?

In buying any laxative, read the label. Not the claims, but the contents. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescriptional preparation in which there are no mineral drugs. By using it, you avoid danger of strain. You can keep the bowels regular, and comfortable. You can make those constipated spells as rare as colds.

How many times and quarters are spent on "popular" laxatives! How quickly they count up, as you use more and more of these habit-forming helps! A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin would save you money—and bring you real relief.

Why Doctors give a liquid laxative

The habitual use of irritating salts, or powerful drugs in the highly concentrated form of pills and tablets is risky.

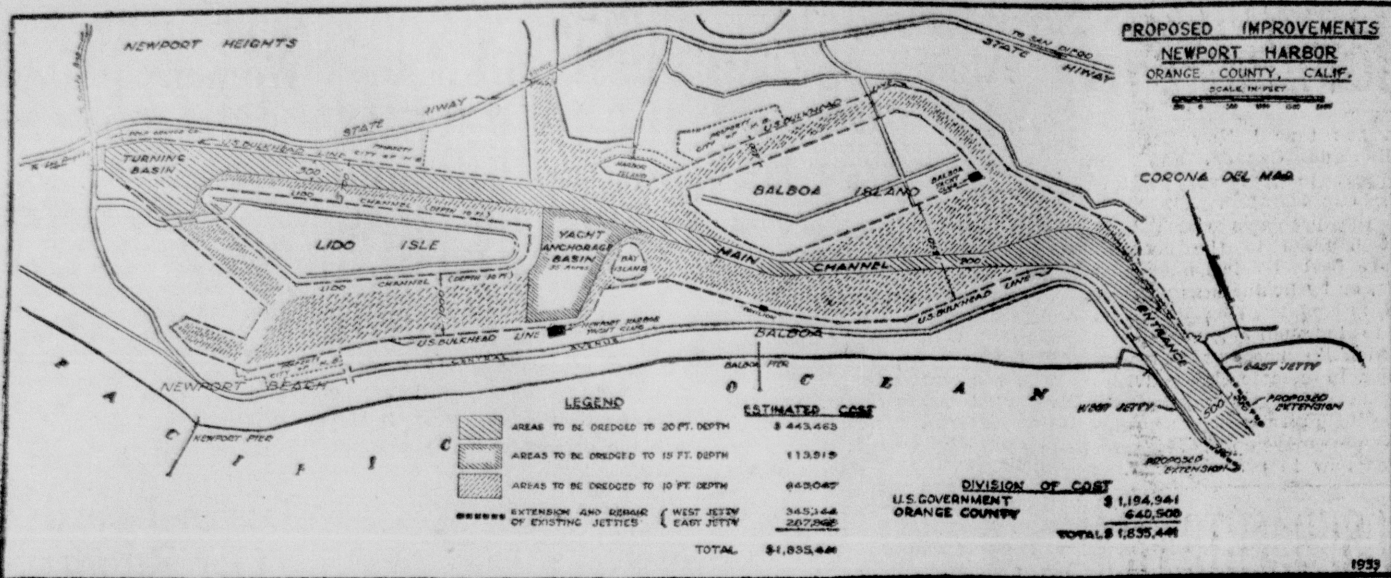

The properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without discomfort or injury. You need not take a "double dose" a day or two later.

The public can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore.

HOW HARBOR WOULD BE IMPROVED

Here is a map of the Orange county harbor area at Newport Bay, and approved by United States Army engineers at Washington, D. C., showing proposed improvements that will be effected if the harbor district bonds for $640,000 are approved by the voters of the county on December 19. The entire lower section of the bay will be dredged to a depth of 10 feet, with a 35-acre yacht basin at East Newport, dredged to a depth of 15 feet, and a main channel, 20 feet deep, extending from the harbor entrance to the county wharf and turning basin at Newport, adjacent to the Arches and the state highway. The federal government is expected to contribute $1,195,441 toward financing the project.

DETAILS OF PLAN FOR FEDERAL WORK AT HARBOR OUTLINED BY ENGINEER

Details of proposed harbor improvements, for which an election on a bond issue of $640,000 will be held December 19, are set forth in a statement issued today by R. L. Patterson, city engineer of Newport Beach.

Plans have been prepared by Patterson, and approved by United States Army engineers for the project under which the federal government is expected to bear two thirds of the total cost of financing, and the county the balance. Under such an arrangement, the federal government will contribute $1,195,441 and the county $640,000. The total harbor program will cost $1,835,441.

The various items of the project, with detailed costs, as approved by the Army Engineers, who will award all contracts and supervise the work, are as follows:

Dredge entire lower bay 10 ft. depth at low tide, $645,047; dredge main channel, 20 feet deep, 200 feet wide, $180,159; dredge Co. turning basin, 20 ft. deep, up to 1200 ft. wide, $112,608; dredge anchorage basin, 15 ft. depth; 35-acre area, $113,919; dredge entrance channel, 26 feet depth; 500 ft. wide, $150,696; extension of west jetty, 700 ft., extension provided, $345,144; extension of east jetty, 920 ft. extension provided, $287,868.

In his statement, Patterson points out that a great amount of preliminary work has already been done by the county and the city of Newport Beach, with resulting great benefits, but this is the first time Orange county has been able to secure federal government recognition and assistance in the harbor development program.

The present plan utilizes all previous work done in the area, and comprises the deepening of channels already established, and extension and rebuilding of jetties now erected at the entrance.

With the silt from the Santa Ana river already diverted into the ocean west of Newport Beach, the statement adds, the Orange county harbor will be free from continued silt deposits, and once the channels are dredged the natural scouring action of the tides will keep the channels and entrance free from silt, and thus eliminate continual dredging expense which confronts many harbors. Moreover the initial federal government expenditure in Orange county paves the way for future government aid as the local harbor develops, the statement added.

COUNCIL NOTES

Roch Bradshaw, council reporter for a weekly newspaper, was appointed special officer to serve without pay by the city council last night on the recommendation of Councilman E. G. Warner. He has succeeded Merle Hunsong, who has accepted a position in the office of Agricultural Commissioner A. A. Brock, in Sacramento.

Miss Erma Keeler, deputy city clerk, took the place of City Clerk Ed Vegely last night. Vegely arrived in Santa Ana only a few minutes before the council meeting after completing a trip to Eureka with City Attorney Clyde Downing, but did not remain for the meeting.

An application to conduct a pool hall at 2026 West Fifth street was referred to the police commissioner after the planning commission reported that it had no jurisdiction since the building now on the property conformed to the zoning requirements.

A check for $202.02 was received by the city council last night from the Pacific Electric railway as a franchise tax for use of the city streets for the period ending November 7.

PETITIONERS ASK DELAY ON TWO PROJECTS

Protests or discussion on a proposed nursery at Santa Clara and Bush streets and the erection of a building for the Community Players at Twentieth and Main streets was delayed one week by the city council last night.

Otto Jacobs, attorney representing property owners surrounding the nursery site, asked for a postponement of one week in which to learn the sentiment of voters in the district. Charles Chatlain, owner of the land bounded by Santa Clara, Bush street and the Southern Pacific railroad, was present and agreed to the delay. No written protests had been made on the project.

The joint hearing on the Community Players proposition was not held pending further plans of the organization on whether work will be started or not. There is no definite assurance that aid can be procured from the R. F. C. for labor, it was pointed out.

William Tway, secretary of the planning commission, said that no recommendation from his body would be made unless the work would be started in the near future. The Players proposed to build a frame building to replace The Barn, former quarters of the dramatics group for many years. The site was donated to the city from the Bowers estate and is across the street from the new Bowers Memorial museum.

COMPLETE PURCHASE OF LAND AT BOWL

Payment of the final installment and adoption of a resolution accepting a deed was ordered by the city council last night regarding a strip of land west of the Municipal Bowl purchased by the city in June from J. William Sackman, owner of other adjacent property.

The strip of land, extending from Sixth to Eighth street, and 50 feet wide, was bought for $1500 and the final payment was for $512.64. The payment was not due until December 13 but the deed acceptance and order for payment was executed last night after City Attorney Clyde Downing had approved the documents offered by Sackman for adoption.

MOVE FLAG POLE TO FISHER PARK

COUNCIL APPROVES M.W.D. APPLICATION FOR $59,750.000

Employment for 10,000 men within four months will be provided by the Metropolitan Water District if the proposed request for an additional $59,750,000 loan from the government is granted, the city council was advised last night in a communication from John C. Austin, chairman of the aqueduct committee.

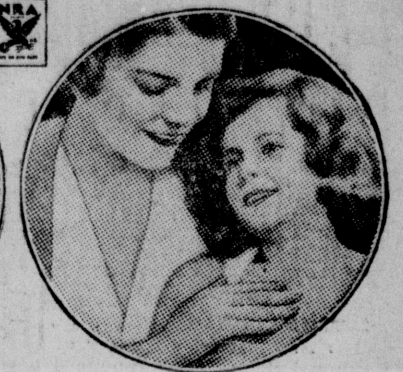

The council approved the request for a resolution endorsing the loan application and will forward it at once to government officials. If the loan is secured, equipment and materials valued at $20,000,000 will be purchased and the rest will go for labor costs.

Santa Ana Radio Station Joins New Southland Network

INAUGURAL TO BE OBSERVED IN GALA PROGRAM

Inaugural broadcast of a new California radio chain will be given tomorrow night from 10:15 to 11:15, according to officials of KREG, Santa Ana station which is one unit of the new system. The new chain will combine KREG, KMTR and KGER under the name of the California Broadcasting system. The linking of the three stations, officials of the local unit declare will result in improved programs and greater service for listeners.

With KMTR as the key station, the inaugural broadcast will mark the initial step in the new project. The program as arranged will bring to listeners a wide variety of the best talent of the three participating stations. In addition to the entertainment features of tomorrow night's introductory program the presentation will bring to the air congratulations to the new broadcasting system from Gov. James Rolph, R. J. McFadden, Placencia, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county; J. F. Burke and others.

Governor Rolph probably will deliver his address of congratulation from the key station, KMTR in Hollywood. McFadden and Burke will speak from the Santa Ana station. Other greetings will be extended from KGER in Long Beach.

Artists representing KREG in the inaugural broadcast will include Madame Rosemary Rose, well-known artist-teacher, whose "Voice of the Opera" and music appreciation presentations each Monday night are familiar to many listeners; Georgia Belle Walton, concert violinist, also a favorite with local listeners; and the Twilight serenaders male quartet. That portion of the broadcast originating in Santa Ana will be announced by KREG's own announcer, Gordon Mills.

List Honors Won In Dairy Competition

With honors for the greatest increase in average butter-fat production going to R. F. Hazard and the Alliso Dairy, results of the 1933 cow competition have been released by the dairy department of the Orange County Farm Bureau. Hazard's herd showed an increase of 12 per cent, and Alliso Dairy herd increased 6.9 per cent. The Hazard herd produced 1275 pounds of milk and 61.1 pounds of butter fat. The Alliso herd produced 976 pounds of milk and 37.1 pounds of butter fat.

Other results of the competition were:

High herd average, under 35 cows: 1. Peter DeBoer, 14,369 pounds milk, 570.1 pounds butter fat; 2. E. A. Wakeham, 11,114 pounds milk, 465.4 pounds butter fat.

High herd average, 35 to 65 cows: 1. Delos Patterson, 12,588 pounds milk, 576.0 pounds butter fat; 2. Segerstrom Bros., 13,085 pounds milk, 483.2 pounds butter fat.

High herd average, over 65 cows: 1. Otto Folkerts, 13,609 pounds milk, 541.9 pounds butter fat; 2. Alliso Dairy, 13,610 pounds milk, 535.0 pounds butter fat.

High cow: 1. Daisy View Holstein Farm (No. 22), 16,483 pounds milk, 812.9 pounds butter fat; 2. Delos Patterson (Hilda), 17,139 pounds milk, 754.1 pounds butter fat.

High five cows: 1. Daisy View Holstein Farm (22, 11, 45, 71, 21), 16,459 pounds milk, 682.2 pounds butter fat; 2. Alliso Dairy (138, 165, 54, 168, 197), 14,823 pounds milk, 665.3 pounds butter fat.

REPORT DROP IN DISEASE IN DAIRY HERDS

Seven new directors of the dairy department of the Orange County Farm Bureau have taken over affairs of the department for 1933. The new directors are: R. F. Hazard, Midway City; E. A. Wakeham, Garden Grove; J. J. Denni, Cypress; Antone Borchard, Greenville; William Segerstrom, Greenville; Ned Clinton, Garden Grove; and H. L. Wakeham, Santa Ana.

Election of directors was the principal business transacted at the afternoon session of the annual dairy day of the department held Friday at Raitt's dairy in Garden Grove where the annual meeting was held. Hazard, chairman of the department, during the year, was in charge of the program.

During the morning session winners of certificates awarded by the National Dairy Science association were announced as follows: Alliso Dairy, Santa Ana; Peter DeBoer, Buena Park; Otto Folkerts, Talbert; R. F. Hazard, Midway City; S. W. Hunt, Bolsa; A. C. Murdy, Smelter; Delos Patterson, Garden Grove; Raitt's dairy, Garden Grove; Segerstrom Brothers, Greenville; E. A. Wakeham, Garden Grove; H. L. Wakeham, Santa Ana and A. F. Walker, Midway City.

The dairymen were informed, through a summary of state tests on dairies, that a marked decrease in tuberculosis reactors, has been noted since 1928. The summary showed that from a high point of 7.5 per cent reactors in 1928, there has been a decrease for 2.3 per cent reactors in 1932. Records for 1933 are not yet completed but a further decrease is anticipated.

W. H. Kurt, chairman of the milk arbitration board, was in attendance at the meeting and explained to the dairymen details of the milk marketing agreement recently signed by the secretary of agriculture and applicable to the Los Angeles area. W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor for Orange county was one of the speakers during the morning session and outlined the federal credit agencies to which dairymen might apply for aid and reported on the progress of the department's dairy improvement program.

In the afternoon G. E. Gordon, extension dairy specialist, University of California, outlined procedure in proving a herd, and Prof. W. M. Regan, division of dairy husbandry, university farm, spoke on the results of 15 years' dairy cattle breeding experiments.

BUILDS SHIP IN A BOTTLE

'TIME-KILLER' PROVES TO BE INTERESTING EXHIBIT OF SHIP BUILT IN A BOTTLE

"I've got a time-killer here I thought maybe you'd like to see," were the words of a fine looking old gentleman with a full white beard and sparkling eyes and who looked as though he might be an uncle to Santa Claus as he came in the newsroom of The Register the other day.

And as he withdrew it from the wrappings it didn't take long for most of the work going on in the room to halt momentarily as everyone gathered about to see a truly remarkable exhibit.

For there inside a large glass bottle with a very small neck was a ship flying the American flag, her sides bound in brass, with two masts and rigging for both almost filling the bottle. Expressions of amazement were heard on all sides. It seemed incredible that it could have been built inside that bottle. One spectator was heard to mutter, "He must have put it in when it was little and let it grow up."

But there it was.

Made in 15 Days

And it was truly, as its maker, Elwood C. Finney, 84, of 111 South Birch street, had dubbed it—a "time-killer," for he explained that it had taken 15 days to complete, including the marvelously contrived wooden stopper, which was so constructed with a key and double cotter effect on the inside that it was impossible to open.

It was a concrete example of what patience to the nth degree, steady nerves and a clear eye could accomplish, and a demonstration that a man approaching the sunset of life can do more than sit with folded hands awaiting what may come.

The little ship was four inches long, with its flat bottom hull made of two pieces of a yardstick that had been split to permit entry through the narrow bottle neck, then painstakingly glued together inside.

Strange Tools

Finney explained that it had been constructed step by step within the bottle, using as tools through the narrow neck a lead pencil, a piece of wire, small sticks and fine silk threads.

He has many other unique and interesting articles which he has made in the fascinating game he plays as he whiles away the long hours with his "time-killers." Among them are things which have taken even more time to make than the ship. One is an automobile in a bottle, driven by

FINAL ACTION ON CITY BOND BALLOT TAKEN

Preceded by an unexpected discussion on what conditions the government will place on a grant of $30,000 to help build a city hall in Santa Ana if voters approve a bond issue, an election ordinance calling the vote for December 19 was passed by the city council last night.

The ordinance, given first reading at a special meeting last Tuesday, specifies that voters shall approve a proposition to secure a loan of $100,000 from the federal government, $30,000 of which shall be a grant to Santa Ana. The new building shall be built at Third and Main streets, and the bonds for $70,000 shall not be sold until the 30 per cent agreement is verified by R. F. C. officials.

Councilman A. E. LeGaye voiced the opinion that if there were too many obligations and conditions on the grant, it would be foolish to accept it. He declared that if expensive union labor, high priced materials and other necessities were specified in the contract, the 30 per cent would be more than offset.

Mayor Paul Witmer replied that the public works act specifies that union labor shall be used and that government officials shall frame details of the contract. He said that if Santa Ana asked for an unconditional grant, no loan would be made and the money would be given to other cities.

On the roll call vote, LeGaye refused to vote, but the other four councilmen passed the measure. The election will be held in conjunction with the state election and will not cost the city anything for election officials, polling places or ballots, according to city officials.

Windbreak Efficiency To Be Tested

With the increasing interest in windbreak protection, many inquiries have been received concerning the efficiency of artificial breaks as compared to living windbreaks, Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg said today.

In order to determine the effectiveness of the former type under Orange county conditions, instruments are being set up behind the extensive system of wooden breaks constructed at the Howard Gardner orchard northeast of Orange, he announced. The wind velocity will be measured at various distances behind the protective panels, and an instrument also set out in the open away from any protecting influences to serve as a check reading. These wind velocity indicators or anemometers were supplied by Woodbridge Metcalf, extension forester of the University of California, who is co-operating with the farm advisor in the tests. They will be maintained throughout the winter and spring seasons, according to Wahlberg.

Several years ago similar velocity tests were made for living windbreaks, in co-operation with the U. S. Weather Bureau. At that time a study and analysis of exhaustive data obtained from many recorded readings showed that windbreaks of eucalyptus reduced wind velocity better than 50 per cent at a distance of 150 feet behind the windbreak. The influence of the windbreak was obtained at a distance of five times the height of the break.

Packing house records this year show that fruit from protected orchards is superior in quality and freedom from blemishes to that not protected from the wind. Protected orchards are also enabled to hold the fruit on the trees later in the season, with less loss from drops or shrinkage.

FIGURES ON REGISTRATION ARE ANNOUNCED

Registration of 55,300 voters, eligible to cast their ballot in the special election of December 19, has been announced by County Clerk J. M. Backs. The Great Register of voters closed last week as far as the December election is concerned.

Backs said that the number now eligible to vote is under the total registered vote for the November election last year. At that time there were 62,306 voters registered. The drop in registration, he said, is due principally to the removal from the rolls those voters who did not exercise their franchise as required by law.

Santa Ana has 15,886 voters eligible to vote on the state-wide water plan, harbor bond proposal, city hall bonds and possible plebiscite in connection with the proposed rehabilitation of school buildings damaged during the earthquake. The registered vote in Santa Ana for the general election last November totaled 18,090.

Anahim has 4950 registered voters, compared to the 5803 eligible to vote in the general election and Fullerton's registered vote at present is 5167. Last November the Fullerton registered vote totaled 5709. There are 4193 voters registered in Orange as compared to the 4741 eligible at the general election.

Seek Letters Of Administration On Patton Estate

Petition for letters of administration over the estate of the late Benjamin S. Patton, 63, of Huntington Beach, were filed yesterday in superior court by Atty. L. W. Blodgett.

Patton who died November 4, last, in Los Angeles died intestate. The petition lists the estate as valued at not more than $8000 consisting of a share in real property, mostly unimproved and having no income and insurance to the extent of $5000 payable to the estate. One piece of property listed in the estate is improved with an oil well returning a monthly income amounting to $50.

The petition lists as next of kin and heirs at law: T. M. Patton, 30, of Kingsville, Tex., a half brother; Dr. J. W. Patton, 72, Toledo, O.; R. O. Patton, 68, Capitol, Mo.; T. A. Patton, 65, Roncove, West Va.; E. P. Patton, 60, and J. A. Patton, 57, both of Huntington Beach, brothers, and Mrs. Maggie B. Clifton, 54, a sister, also living at Huntington Beach, and three nephews and two nieces whose names and addresses are unknown.

SEEKS ANNULMENT OF STAR'S ADOPTION

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(UP)—Hearing on a motion of the suit by Victor Kosow, father of Silvia Sidney, screen star, seeking to annul her adoption by Dr. Zigmund Sidney, was scheduled to begin in supreme court today.

Kosow, a clothing salesman, asked that the adoption be set aside on the ground that he did not receive notice of the proceeding. He also asked that Miss Sidney be restrained from using the name Sidney.

The suit was revealed Saturday when Miss Sidney and her mother, Mrs. Beatrice Sidney, and her foster father made application to examine Kosow before trial. Their answer also accused Kosow of demanding $15,000 at one time and $15,000 at another under threat of beginning the suit.

Sewing Machine Census Planned

Owners of Singer sewing machines in the United States and Canada, estimated at more than 10,000,000 people, are to be visited in what is believed to be the most extensive census of its kind ever undertaken.

Announcement to this effect was made today by the Singer company, which will compile a record showing the age and type of sewing machine in every home.

To every person owning a machine made before the introduction of the modern Singer electric, the Singer company stated it plans to offer allowance of 40 per cent of the original cost on an exchange for any new model.

TERM IN JAIL RESULTS FROM ARSON ATTEMPT

Following an alleged attempt to kill his wife by locking her in their home and setting fire to it, John Corona, 23, living near El Modena, yesterday was sentenced to spend the next 30 days in the county jail.

Corona was arrested by Chief John Stanton of Tustin on a charge of attempt to commit arson after his wife told a harrowing story of how she was nearly burned alive. After beating her up and breaking dishes and furniture, Corona poured kerosene on the rugs and locked her in the front room, she said. He then stood in the kitchen and tossed matches in the room until she became exhausted putting out the flames.

When he tired of throwing matches and went out in the yard, she escaped from the house and reported the case to Stanton. Corona was haled in Tustin justice court today and given the 30 day sentence on a charge of disturbing the peace.

A near riot was averted in front of the 1st noon yesterday when several women, relatives and friends of the Corona family, exchanged hot words and started to fight. Quick action by bystanders and officers prevented any injuries.

Court Notes

Transferred to Orange county courts from Ventura county on a change of venue, the divorce case of Mrs. Marguerite Yett, against Louis Yett, was filed this morning in superior court. The suit originally was filed June 29, last, in Ventura county. According to the complaint, Mrs. Yett is accusing her husband, whom she married in Santa Ana September 8, 1928, with desertion and non-support of herself and their minor child. She alleges that Yett left her August 31, 1931. She also is seeking custody of the child.

Mrs. Antonio Mendosa, 29, Santa Ana, charged with battery after being accused of beating Stella Miranda, daughter of Mrs. John Miranda, 104 North Artesia street, has been given a 15 day suspended jail sentence in police court with the provision that she shall not interfere with the Miranda family in any way.

M. Griffith, charged with disturbing the peace, has been sentenced to serve 12-1-2 days in the county jail or pay $25 in police court. He promised to pay the fine on November 20.

Harry Jarvis has been given a 10 day suspended jail sentence for drunkenness by Judge J. G. Mitchell.

Santa Ana Radio Station Joins New Southland Network

INAUGURAL TO BE OBSERVED IN GALA PROGRAM

Inaugural broadcast of a new California radio chain will be given tomorrow night from 10:15 to 11:15, according to officials of KREG, Santa Ana station which is one unit of the new system. The new chain will combine KREG, KMTR and KGER under the name of the California Broadcasting system. The linking of the three stations, officials of the local unit declare will result in improved programs and greater service for listeners.

With KMTR as the key station, the inaugural broadcast will mark the initial step in the new project. The program as arranged will bring to listeners a wide variety of the best talent of the three participating stations. In addition to the entertainment features of tomorrow night's introductory program the presentation will bring to the air congratulations to the new broadcasting system from Gov. James Rolph, R. J. McFadden, Placentia, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county; J. F. Burke and others.

Governor Rolph probably will deliver his address of congratulation from the key station, KMTR in Hollywood. McFadden and Burke will speak from the Santa Ana station. Other greetings will be extended from KGER in Long Beach.

Artists representing KREG in the inaugural broadcast will include Madame Rosemary Rose, well-known artist-teacher, whose "Voice of the Opera" and music appreciation presentations each Monday night are familiar to many listeners; Georgia Belle Walton, concert violinist, also a favorite with local listeners; and the Twilight serenaders male quartet. That portion of the broadcast originating in Santa Ana will be announced by KREG's own announcer, Gordon Mills.

List Honors Won In Dairy Competition

With honors for the greatest increase in average butter-fat production going to R. F. Hazard and the Aliso Dairy, results of the 1933 cow competition have been released by the dairy department of the Orange County Farm Bureau. Hazard's herd showed an increase of 12 per cent, and Aliso Dairy herd increased 6.9 per cent.

The Hazard herd produced 1275 pounds of milk and 61.1 pounds of butter fat. The Aliso herd produced 976 pounds of milk and 37.1 pounds of butter fat.

Other results of the competition were:

High herd average under 35 cows: 1. Peter DeBoer, 14,369 pounds milk, 570.1 pounds butter fat; 2. E. A. Wakeham, 11,114 pounds milk, 465.4 pounds butter fat.

High herd average, 35 to 65 cows: 1. Delos Patterson, 12,588 pounds milk, 576.9 pounds butter fat; 2. Segerstrom Bros., 13,085 pounds milk, 483.2 pounds butter fat.

High herd average, over 65 cows: 1. Otto Folkerts, 13,609 pounds milk, 541.9 pounds butter fat; 2. Aliso Dairy, 13,610 pounds milk, 535.0 pounds butter fat.

High cow: 1. Daisy View Holstein Farm (No. 22), 16,483 pounds milk, 812.9 pounds butter fat; 2. Delos Patterson (Hilda), 17,139 pounds milk, 754.1 pounds butter fat.

High five cows: 1. Daisy View Holstein Farm (22, 11, 45, 71, 21), 16,459 pounds milk, 682.3 pounds butter fat; 2. Aliso Dairy (138, 165, 54, 168, 197), 14,823 pounds milk, 665.3 pounds butter fat.

REPORT DROP IN DISEASE IN DAIRY HERDS

Seven new directors of the dairy department of the Orange County Farm Bureau have taken over affairs of the department for 1933. The new directors are: R. F. Hazard, Midway City; E. A. Wakeham, Garden Grove; J. J. Denni, Cypress; Antonio Borchard, Greenville; William Segerstrom, Greenville; Ned Clinton, Garden Grove, and H. L. Wakeham, Santa Ana.

Election of directors was the principal business transacted at the afternoon session of the annual dairy day of the department held Friday at Raitt's dairy in Garden Grove where the annual meeting was held. Hazard, chairman of the department, during the year, was in charge of the program.

During the morning session winners of certificates awarded by the National Dairy Science Association were announced as follows: Aliso dairy, Santa Ana; Peter DeBoer, Buena Park; Otto Folkerts, Talbert; R. F. Hazard, Midway City; S. W. Hunt, Bolsa; A. C. Murdy, Smelter; Delos Patterson, Garden Grove; Raitt's dairy, Garden Grove; Segerstrom Brothers, Greenville; E. A. Wakeham, Garden Grove; H. L. Wakeham, Santa Ana and A. F. Walker, Midway City.

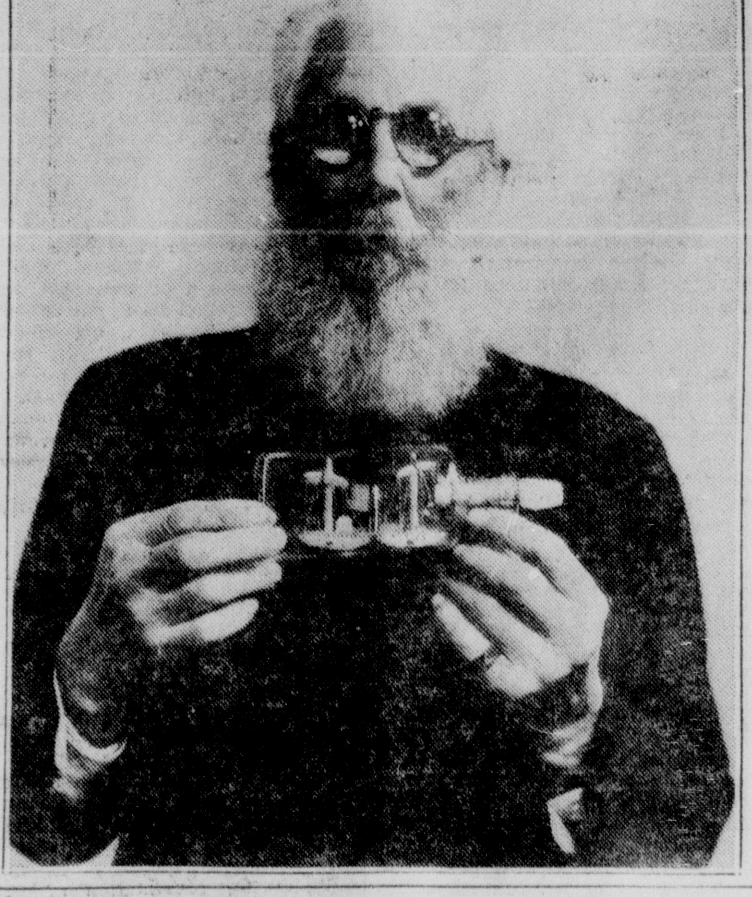

The dairymen were informed, through a summary of state tests on dairies, that a marked decrease in tuberculosis reactors, has been noted since 1928. The summary showed that from a high point of 7.5 per cent reactors in 1928, there has been a decrease for 2.3 per cent reactors in 1932. Records for 1933 are not yet completed but a further decrease is anticipated.

W. H. Kurt, chairman of the milk arbitration board, was in attendance at the meeting and explained to the dairymen details of the milk marketing agreement recently signed by the secretary of agriculture and applicable to the Los Angeles area. W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor for Orange county was one of the speakers during the morning session and outlined the federal credit agencies to which dairymen might apply for aid and reported on the progress of the department's dairy improvement program.

In the afternoon G. E. Gordon, extension dairy specialist, University of California, outlined procedure in proving a herd sire and Prof. W. M. Regan, division of dairy husbandry, university farm, spoke on the results of 15 years' dairy cattle breeding experiments.

BUILDS SHIP IN A BOTTLE

'TIME-KILLER' PROVES TO BE INTERESTING EXHIBIT OF SHIP BUILT IN A BOTTLE

"I've got a time-killer here I thought maybe you'd like to see," were the words of a fine looking old gentleman with a full white beard and sparkling eyes and who looked as though he might be an uncle to Santa Claus as he came in the newsroom of The Register the other day.

And as he withdrew it from the wrappings it didn't take long for most of the work going on in the room to halt momentarily as everyone gathered about to see a truly remarkable exhibit.

For there inside a large glass bottle with a very small neck was a ship flying the American flag, her sides bound in brass, with two masts and rigging for both almost filling the bottle. Expressions of amazement were heard on all sides. It seemed incredible that it could have been built inside that bottle. One spectator was heard to mutter, "He must have put it in when it was little and let it grow up."

But there it was.

Made in 15 Days

And it was truly as its maker, Elwood C. Finney, 84, of 111 South Birch street, had dubbed it—a "time killer," for he explained that it had taken 15 days to complete, including the marvelously contrived wooden stopper, which was so constructed with a key and double cotter effect on the inside that it was impossible to open.

It was a concrete example of what patience to the nth degree, steady nerves and a clear eye could accomplish, and a demonstration that a man approaching the sunset of life can do more than sit with folded hands awaiting what may come.

The little ship was four inches long, with its flat bottom hull made of two pieces of a yardstick that had been split to permit entry through the narrow bottle neck, then painstakingly glued together inside.

Strange Tools

Finney explained that it had been constructed step by step within the bottle, using as tools through the narrow neck a lead pencil, a piece of wire, small sticks and fine silk threads.

He has many other unique and interesting articles which he has made in the fascinating game he plays as he whittles away the long hours with his "time-killers." Among them are things which have taken even more time to make than the ship. One is an automobile in a bottle, driven by

Preceded by an unexpected discussion on what conditions the government will place on a grant of $30,000 to help build a city hall in Santa Ana if voters approve a bond issue, an election ordinance calling the vote for December 19 was passed by the city council last night.

The ordinance, given first reading at a special meeting last Tuesday, specifies that voters shall approve a proposition to secure a loan of $100,000 from the federal government, $30,000 of which shall be a grant to Santa Ana. The new building shall be built at Third and Main streets, and the bonds for $70,000 shall not be sold until the 30 per cent agreement is verified by R. F. C. officials.

Councilman A. F. LeGaye voiced the opinion that if there were too many obligations and conditions on the grant, it would be foolish to accept it. He declared that if expensive union labor, high priced materials and other necessities were specified in the contract, the 30 per cent would be more than offset.

Mayor Paul Witmer replied that the public works act specifies that union labor shall be used and that government officials shall frame details of the contract. He said that if Santa Ana asked for an unconditional grant, no loan would be made and the money would be given to other cities.

On the roll call vote, LeGaye refused to vote, but the other four councilmen passed the measure. The election will be held in conjunction with the state election and will not cost the city anything for election officials, polling places or ballots, according to city officials.

Court Notes

Transferred to Orange county courts from Ventura county on a change of venue, the divorce case of Mrs. Marguerite Yett, against Louis Yett, was filed this morning in superior court. The suit originally was filed June 25, last, in Ventura county. According to the complaint, Mrs. Yett is accusing her husband, whom she married in Santa Ana September 8, 1928, with desertion and non-support of herself and their minor child. She alleges that Yett left her August 31, 1931. She also is seeking custody of the child.

Mrs. Antonio Mendosa, 29, Santa Ana, charged with battery after being accused of beating Stella Miranda, daughter of Mrs. John Miranda, 194 North Artesia street, has been given a 15 day suspended jail sentence in police court with the provision that she shall not interfere with the Miranda family in any way.

M. Griffith, charged with disturbing the peace, has been sentenced to serve 12 1/2 days in the county jail or pay $25 in police court. He promised to pay the fine on November 29.

Harry Jarvis has been given a 10 day suspended jail sentence for drunkenness by Judge J. G. Mitchell.

Windbreak Efficiency To Be Tested

With the increasing interest in windbreak protection, many inquiries have been received concerning the efficiency of artificial breaks as compared to living windbreaks, Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg said today.

In order to determine the effectiveness of the former type under Orange county conditions, instruments are being set up behind the extensive system of wooden breaks constructed at the Howard Gardner orchard northeast of Orange, he announced. The wind velocity will be measured at various distances behind the protective panels, and an instrument also set out in the open away from any protecting influences to serve as a check reading. These wind velocity indicators or anemometers were supplied by Woodbridge Metal, extension forester of the University of California, who is co-operating with the farm advisor in the tests. They will be maintained throughout the winter and spring seasons, according to Wahlberg.

Several years ago similar velocity tests were made for living windbreaks, in co-operation with the U. S. Weather Bureau. At that time a study and analysis of exhaustive data obtained from many recorded readings showed that windbreaks of eucalyptus reduced wind velocity better than 50 per cent at a distance of 150 feet behind the windbreak. The influence of the windbreak was obtained at a distance of five times the height of the break.

Packing house records this year show that fruit from protected orchards is superior in quality and freedom from blemishes to that not protected from the wind. Protected orchards are also enabled to hold the fruit on the trees later in the season, with less loss from drops or shrinkage.

J. E. Seale, Movie Actress Married In Arizona City

J. E. Seale, Fullerton undertaker, and his bride, the former Opal Heggie, 24, Hollywood film actress, have returned to Fullerton following a wedding trip to Yuma, where they were married Friday night by the Rev. Randall Scott.

It is understood that Mrs. Seale will give up her film work. She has been connected with the Fox studios.

A brother of the Fullerton man, Robert L. Seale, of Hollywood, was married in Santa Ana last Tuesday.

FIGURES ON REGISTRATION ARE ANNOUNCED

Registration of 55,300 voters, eligible to cast their ballot in the speckled election of December 19, has been announced by County Clerk J. M. Backs. The Great Register of voters closed last week as far as the December election is concerned.

Backs said that the number now eligible to vote is under the total registered vote for the November election last year. At that time there were 62,306 voters registered. The drop in registration, he said, is due principally to the removal from the rolls those voters who did not exercise their franchise as required by law.

Santa Ana has 15,886 voters eligible to vote on the state-wide water plan, harbor bond proposal, city hall bonds and possible plebiscite in connection with the proposed rehabilitation of school buildings damaged during the earthquake. The registered vote in Santa Ana for the general election last November totalled 18,990.

Anaheim has 4950 registered voters, compared to the 5303 eligible to vote in the general election and Fullerton's registered vote at present is 5167. Last November the Fullerton registered vote totalled 5709. There are 4193 voters registered in Orange as compared to the 4741 eligible at the general election.

Seek Letters Of Administration On Patton Estate

Petition for letters of administration over the estate of the late Benjamin S. Patton, 63, of Huntington Beach, were filed yesterday in superior court by Atty. L. W. Blodgett.

Patton who died November 4, last, in Los Angeles died intestate. The petition lists the estate as valued at not more than $8000 consisting of a share in real property, mostly unimproved and having no income and insurance to the extent of $5000 payable to the estate. One piece of property listed in the estate is improved with an oil well returning a monthly income amounting to $50.

The petition lists as next of kin and heirs at law: T. M. Patton, 50, of Kingsville, Tex., a half brother; Dr. J. W. Patton, 72, Toledo, O.; R. O. Patton, 68, Cabot, Mo.; T. A. Sewing Machine Census Planned

Owners of Singer sewing machines in the United States and Canada, estimated at more than 10,000,000 people, are to be visited in what is believed to be the most extensive census of its kind ever undertaken.

Announcement to this effect was made today by the Singer company, which will compile a record showing the age and type of sewing machine in every home.

To every person owning a machine made before the introduction of the modern Singer electric, the Singer company stated it plans to offer allowance of 40 per cent of the original cost on an exchange for any new model.

Family Group Attends Surprise Bridal Shower

Entertaining yesterday afternoon in the Richards' home, 809 North Olive street, Mrs. J. F. Richards and her daughters, Mesdames N. E. Watson and T. E. Tournat, complimented their niece and cousin, Miss Veneta Vlau, fiancée of Thomas E. Davis.

A family group took part in the event, which had been planned as a surprise to the bride-to-be. A 1 o'clock luncheon was served at small tables brightened with centerpieces of delicate pink carnations and breath of heaven. Place cards were fashioned as wedding rings. Colorful bouquets had been arranged throughout the rooms.

During a treasure hunt which followed, the honoree came into possession of numerous packages whose tissues and ribbons concealed shower gifts of personal nature.

Those present, other than Miss Vlau, were Mesdames J. T. Wool, W. A. Swain, Weldon Wright, J. U. Vlau, William Fitcher; the Misses Ora Cartmell, Carmelle Swain, Lucille Swain, Georgianna Swain, Ruth Cartmell and Blanche Cartmell; the hostess group, Mesdames Richards, Watson, and Tournat, and the latter's son, Iyon Tournat.

Distinguished Guests Are Entertained In Local Home

Privileged to renew acquaintance with Lieutenant Commander H. C. Lowry, U.S.N., Mrs. Lowry and their two young daughters, Nancy Ann and Louise, a little group of friends met last night in the home of Mrs. E. W. Spruance, 2215 North Ross street, in which the distinguished visitors are houseguests.

Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Hammond, Col. and Mrs. M. B. Wellington and Mr. and Mrs. Loyal K. King were in the group. All had become acquainted with the honor guests, who used to visit frequently in the home of Mrs. Spruance when Lieutenant Commander Lowry was stationed at San Pedro in his capacity as dental surgeon in the United States Navy.

The Santa Anas heard with interest that the Lowrys are sailing December 13 on the Monterey, Matson liner, for the naval station at Samoa, there to be stationed for 18 months. They arrived here November 19 on the President Garfield from New York, having spent the past three years at Annapolis, where the lieutenant commander was stationed.

Mrs. Spruance will accompany her guests to San Diego Thursday where the interesting family will remain for a two weeks' visit before sailing for Samoa.

Crystal Shower Given As Surprise To Bride-Elect

Miss Vesta Jacobs, fiancée of Ben Kingsbury of Laguna Beach, was complimented at a surprise shower given the past week in the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Jacobs, 119 Occidental street, with Mrs. A. W. Sanford and her daughter, Miss Alberta Sanford, as hostesses. The Jacobs home had been the scene of another pretty affair on October 22, when announcement was made of Miss Jacobs' engagement to Mr. Kingsbury. Relatives and close friends attended the event.

Mrs. Sanford and Miss Sanford had planned hearts as the game to precede the gift shower. Prizes were won by Mrs. George Cocking and Mrs. Jacobs, scoring high and low. The bride-to-be was presented with a set of clear crystal goblets, gift of the assembled group.

Refreshments were served at small tables centered with yellow chrysanthemums in silver vases. Those present other than the honor guest, Miss Jacobs, and the hostesses, Mrs. Sanford and Miss Sanford, were Mesdames George Cocking, C. J. Bear, Cecil Hagthrop, Esther Parker, Bernice Dunham, A. S. Carroll, L. Zimmerman, O. L. Jacobs and Miss Louise Markwalder, of this city, and Mrs. Charles Markwood of Anaheim.

SERIES OF DINNER PARTIES INSPIRED BY HARVEST BALL

Illustrating the important place in the social calendar given Saturday night's Junior Ebell ball, was the fact that dancing at 9 o'clock in Ebell clubhouse, was preceded by an unusual number of dinner parties of marked individual charm. Some of these were staged in homes of different members of the younger set, others found their setting in the pretty tea rooms of the community.

One of the largest pre-dance parties was that staged in Garden Inn, reserved for the early evening by a merry group of young married people, and beautified by a lavish arrangement of flowers which suggested the autumnal theme adopted for the ball.

So enjoyable was the menu and its attendant sociability that it was almost with reluctance that the party moved on to the pleasures awaiting at Ebell clubhouse, there to become a part of the colorful throng of dancers.

In the group of diners were Messrs. and Mesdames Frank Miller, William J. Stauffer, Fred Merker, Walter O. Hills, Henry Williams, E. M. Sundquist, Paul Ragan, Carl Edgar, Edwin T. McFadden, Harry Le Bard, James Coulson, Carl Wiesemann, Merle Hall, Lloyd Banks, Harold Segerstrom, William Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Hubert Nall, Miss Adahuth Ellis and Harold Fish. Later the party was augmented by the arrival of Dr. and Mrs. John Wehrly Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Andrews Jr. It was Mrs. Andrews who had given the appropriate name of "Harvest Ball" to the Ebell function inspiring the various pre-hospitalities.

Progressive Event

From Santa Ana to Tustin and back to Santa Ana again led the pleasant trail of a group of diners entertained in advance of the ball by Mrs. Dorothy Forgy, Mr. W. Sanford and her daughter, Miss Alberta Sanford, as hostesses.

The Jacobs home had been the scene of another pretty affair on October 22, when announcement was made of Miss Jacobs' engagement to Mr. Kingsbury. Relatives and close friends attended the event.

Mrs. Sanford and Miss Sanford had planned hearts as the game to precede the gift shower. Prizes were won by Mrs. George Cocking and Mrs. Jacobs, scoring high and low. The bride-to-be was presented with a set of clear crystal goblets, gift of the assembled group.

Refreshments were served at small tables centered with yellow chrysanthemums in silver vases. Those present other than the honor guest, Miss Jacobs, and the hostesses, Mrs. Sanford and Miss Sanford, were Mesdames George Cocking, C. J. Bear, Cecil Hagthrop, Esther Parker, Bernice Dunham, A. S. Carroll, L. Zimmerman, O. L. Jacobs and Miss Louise Markwalder, of this city, and Mrs. Charles Markwood of Anaheim.

In Hilltop Home

Receiving a group of guests in their home on Lemon Heights, Miss Eleanor Crookshank and her brother, Ronald Crookshank, were aided in dispensing a charming hospitality by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Crookshank.

Flowers used in embellishing the home reached the height of their beauty in the dining room, where a carefully appointed table was centered with rosy petal. The refreshments, flanked by candies and smaller clusters of the same glowing flower.

While not a progressive dinner, since the complete menu was served in the Crookshank home, the party was really a progressive one, for in addition to the dancing at Ebell clubhouse, there were several concluded with a post-dance hour, when the pleasant events of the entire evening were rehearsed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Finley, 1587 East Fourth street.

In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Leiland Finley, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Finley, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Leiland, and Mrs. Ralph Leiland; the Misses Eleanor Crookshank, Mary Saffley, Beulah Sturgeon; Messrs. William Woodruff of Los Angeles, Victor Rees and Ronald Crookshank.

For Ball Chairman

So exacting were the demands upon the time of Mrs. Frederick C. Elliott, general chairman under whose direction the Junior Ebell ball was planned in all its details, that there was scant time for Mr. and Mrs. Elliott to take part in any preliminary dinner event. However, they had time to join a lively group meeting with Mr. and Mrs. George Hugh Walker in their Greenleaf home, to proceed to the clubhouse for a party, and later to meet again for a general resume of the evening's success.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. George Spielman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacDaniel, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Redmond of Anaheim and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Elliott comprised this group. All of them expressed appreciation for the assistance given by Mr. Spielman in securing some of the ballroom decorations.

Double Hospitality

"Partying" both in advance of the ball and as a finale to the evening, one of the merry groups of young people assembled first at the Magnolia apartments with Miss Maurine Mathes and Miss Wilma Plavan, proceeding thence to the Doris Kathryn for an enjoyable dinner hour.

Table appointments were in harmony with the harvest idea dominating the ball, and were quite lovely in the glow of autumn hued candles.

Covers were laid for the Misses

Wilma Plavan, Maurine Mathes, Louise Young, Reva Hawkins and Ruth Langley, and Messrs. Robert Lowe, Floyd Croddy, Ralph

Jordan, Herbert Hauser and Clarence Trickey. After enjoying the ball to the utmost with the hundreds of dancers attracted to this gala affair, this particular little group re-assembled in the home of Miss Hawkins, 2331 Benton Way. There they enjoyed an Italian supper, with table appointments in keeping with the menu.

Two Gay Events

Dining at Melody Gardens, on the Santa Ana-Anaheim boulevard, as a preface to the evening of dancing, a friendly group was formed by Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hall, Dr. and Mrs. Karl Loerch Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Webb of Riverside and Mr. and Mrs. James K. Hermon.

Tables strikingly appointed in black and red were reserved for the pleasant hour which introduced the evening. At the conclusion of the dance, Mr. and Mrs. Hall were hosts to the same little group, augmented by Miss Lolita Mead of this city and William Adams of San Pedro.

The hall home, 2224 Greenleaf street, was inviting with flowers and a genial hospitality expressed in terms of a post-dance supper.

Informal Hospitality

The home of Dr. and Mrs. Edward F. Bruning, 1521 North Broadway, was chosen rendezvous for quite a large group of dance guests, who there shared a pleasant prelude to the formal ball at the clubhouse, returning at the close of the formal function to spend another hour in discussing the success of the event.

In this group were Mr. and Mrs. Urban J. Engelman, Dr. and Mrs. V. C. Croal, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harvey, Dr. and Mrs. John Price, Dr. and Mrs. Newell Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Frederick Zaiser, Dr. and Mrs. Milo Tedstrom, Miss Nan Mead, Leo Kluthie, and the hosts, Dr. and Mrs. Bruning.

County Association Has Luncheon In Garden Grove

The Orange County Association of Associate Conductresses of Eastern Star was entertained Saturday in the home of Mrs. Alice T. Smith on East Stanford avenue, Garden Grove, with Mrs. Mabel Lambert of Santa Ana as co-hostess.

A two-course luncheon was served buffet style from a dining room table decorated with garlands and Chinese lilies.

Arrangements were made at the business session for entertaining associate conductresses elect at a luncheon January 13 in the home of Miss Henrietta Bohling, Santa Ana.

Those present were Miss Jessie Crookshank, Anaheim; Miss Henrietta Bohling, Santa Ana; Mrs. Esther Long, Fullerton; Mrs. Alma Gallagher, Buena Park; Mrs. Edna Lentwider, La Habra; Mrs. Gwendolyn Thompson, Orange; Mrs. Ina Liles, Yorba Linda; Mrs. Roselyn Jackson, Brea; Mrs. Jean McAdam, Huntington Beach; Mrs. Nettie Cook, Anaheim; Mrs. Elsie Gillogly, Orange; and a special guest of the association, Mrs. Mae Henry, deputy grand matron, of Garden Grove, and the hostesses, Mrs. Lambert and Mrs. Smith.

District Nurses Enjoy Original Program At Hospital Meeting

Nurses' association, held its November meeting Friday night of the past week, members were entertained at Orange County hospital, with Miss Grace Lansing, superintendent of nurses, as hostess, and Mrs. Julia Salisbury, instructor of nurses, in charge of the program.

Mrs. Olive King, president of the association, conducted the business session at which six nurses were admitted to membership. Correspondence from national headquarters was read to the effect that after January, 1934, nurses might become registered nurses only if they had trained in hospitals having a minimum average of 40 patients.

Entertainment features opened with a program of Hawaiian music, played on steel guitars by Dr. Barney Iwanaga, an interne at the hospital, and Clyde Harman. A short play given by preliminary students was titled "If Men Played Bridge Like Women." It was written by the nurses, with the assistance of Mrs. Salisbury, and characters were given the names of husbands of several members of the organization.

Taking part were Miss Evelyn Prindle as "Mr. Balch"; Miss Claire Codman as "Mr. Bement"; Miss Claire Garrett as "Mr. Grouard"; Miss Lenore Terrell as "Mr. King"; and Miss Velma Ryan as the maid.

After refreshments were being served in the nurses' hall, beautifully decorated with poinsettias and lighted by scarlet papers in bronze candelabra, guests were entertained by two senior students, the Misses Ella Middleton and Eleanor Post, who sang popular numbers, including a most entertaining presentation of "The Big Bad Wolf."

The nurses' Christmas party will be held December 15, with Mrs. Mabel Grouard, 1076 West Fourth street.

Evening Bridge Club Has Meeting

Bridge club members were entertained the past week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mitchell, 922 West Camille street. Prize winners in the card games were Mrs. Kenneth Stowe and Earl Lepper, scoring high and low, and Mrs. Ralph Hoover and Philip La Londe, low.

The hostess used a variety of flowers in decorating. Refreshments were served at the card tables at the close of play.

Those present, other than the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lepper, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stowe, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hoover, Mr. and Mrs. Philip La Londe, of this city; Mrs. William Stanford of Fullerton and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Terrell of Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. La Londe are to be hosts at the next meeting.

Club Showers Engaged Couple At Dinner Meeting

Making their latest meeting the occasion for a surprise shower complimenting Miss Vesta Jacobs and Ben Kingsbury, whose engagement was announced recently, members of the Nt Witt club met Saturday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pike, 936 West Chestnut street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bachman and Mr. and Mrs. Pike joined as hosts, serving a delicious covered-dish dinner at which a Thanksgiving motif was observed. Just preceding a session of hunko, Miss Jacobs and Mr. Kingsbury were presented with an array of miscellaneous gifts from their associates in the club and the group of special guests attending.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ingle, Orange; Mr. and Mrs. William McGraw, Costa Mesa; Mr. and Mrs. Clay Woodin, Corona; Ted Young and Hugh Woodin, Idaho. Club members attending with Miss Jacobs, Mr. Kingsbury, Mr. and Mrs. Pike and Mr. and Mrs. Bachman were Mr. and Mrs. William Humphrey, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Sanford, Everett McKinney, Royce Jacobs, Miss Louise Markwalder and Orville Bachman.

Pledges Have Party For Sorority Members

Pledges of Pi Theta Chi, the Misses Carol Smith, Charlene Kite, Helen Tyner and Martha Tadlock, entertained the past week with a kid party honoring members of the sorority, giving the affair in the home of Miss Tadlock's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Wilson, 650 First street, Tustin.

Guests attended wearing appropriate costumes. They spent the evening playing card and guessing games, and participating in a fishing contest which provided prizes for all. Dancing was enjoyed.

Paper bag lunches were served at the close of the affair. Decorations were in keeping with a Thanksgiving theme.

Members sharing the hospitality of the four pledges, the Misses Smith, Kite, Tyner and Tadlock, were Miss Lorene Shippe, advisor, and the Misses Mary Alice White, Mary Louise Niedergall, Betty Niedergall, Winifred Schneider, Grace Middlebrook, Dorothy Johnson and Martha Sharpley.

Mayflower Club Gives Surprise Party In Corona

Mayflower club members and their husbands took part in a pleasant affair Sunday morning to Corona to give a surprise affair in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cubley.

The group had all in readiness for a covered-dish dinner, enjoyed early in the afternoon at small tables placed beneath a large pepper tree in the yard. The menu was served cafeteria style.

Those participating in the event with Mr. and Mrs. Cubley were Messrs. and Mesdames J. H. Paterson, A. C. Wiebe, C. G. Gledy and son, Dean, J. W. Parkinson and daughter, Peggy Louise, William Lawrence and daughters, Jean and Eleanor, V. C. Shidler and daughters, Jacqueline and Elizabeth, Mrs. J. D. Sanborn and Miss Nellie Fickas.

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Straight of Mt. Vernon, Wash., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Taylor, 2410 Bonnie Brea, Dr. and Mrs. Straight, who may spend the winter in Southern California, now are visiting with relatives in Glendale.

HIT THAT COLD WHERE IT LIVES—in the System!

Don't fool yourself about a cold! It's not likely to be taken lightly nor treated lightly. A cold is an internal infection that will quickly spread within the system unless promptly checked. The wise thing to take for a cold is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

First of all, it is distinctly a cold remedy and not a "cure-all." Secondly, it is an internal treatment. Thirdly, it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. That's the treatment a cold requires and anything less is taking chances. All druggists sell Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine, 30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and reject a substitute—Adv.

surely eating of any meal, delaying the business in hand with something interesting to read. It may not be good manners exactly, but just who made that opinion, anyway? I'll bet a cooky it was some tongue-wagging female whose husband had perforce to listen to her or go hungry. Have you ever thought about how a cow manages the business? She never has indigestion, simply because she takes her own sweet time in eating and ruminating after the meal. We can't spare much time for the ruminating but we certainly can take time out to chew food properly and observe its flavors.

A contributor says that this salad combination is a good one.
Apple Salad
Chop apples, cabbage and a little celery, together. Sweeten and mix to a creamy consistency with mayonnaise.

Sounds as though it might be good; with mineral oil mayonnaise it would be ideal for a reduction diet.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Luncheon Salad
1 bunch carrots
1 bunch celery
1 pound cooked green peas
2 hard boiled eggs
—Contributed recipe.

The four items listed are the base of the salad; peel, dice and cook the carrots. String the celery and cut in fine pieces, chill green peas (in winter use tiny canned peas) and dice the hard boiled eggs. To this base you can add any of the following combinations, depending on the occasion.

No. I
With well chilled salad base mix the shredded meat of 1-2 pound can of crab. Dress with mayonnaise.

No. II
To chilled base add canned tuna fish or 2 cans of shrimp, diced after cleaning.

No. III
To chilled base add diced cream cheese and diced ripe olives.

The contributor suggests for small luncheons serving larger portions of this salad with hot rolls or baking powder biscuits, jam, and a simple dessert. She makes the suggestion of ice-cream cookies.

The calory values would vary according to the salad combination and the quantity served, so it is impossible to give an accurate rating to any of the three. Vaguely, the salad would be in the neighborhood of 450.

Wednesday: Apricot Ice Box Cake.

ANN MEREDITH.

As shooting stars shot all about, the Star Man heard wee Duncy shout, "Gee, I would like to take a ride on some big shooting star. If I was sure 'twas safe and sound, it would be fun to ride around. I fear, though, that I would get lost, if carried very far."

"Now, that's a good idea, son, and it's no sooner said than done," replied the friendly Star Man. "You are going to have your wish."

"I'll get a star that will hold you, and you'll be thrilled, before you're through. If you are game to hop aboard, you'll leave here with a swish."

"The star will take you 'round, and then come shooting right back here again. I'll send you out to see the great big dipper in the sky."

And then he grabbed a star and roared, "All right, young fellow, hop aboard." When Duncy did, he promptly went a-sailing through the sky.

It didn't take him very long to reach the dipper. "Something's wrong," exclaimed Wee Duncy, as he looked at flick'ring stars galore.

And then his own star swung around, and back to Star Isle it was bound. "Gee! Did you see the dipper?" he heard all the Tinies roar.

IF YOU FEEL THAT WAY
If you are one of those who want to turn back to the land for your substance, here's an ideal way. It's 56 acres back in the hills, with house and other outhouse equipment. There are horses, cow, fruits, vegetables, chickens, in fact, almost everything that such a life would seem to demand. If you had it maybe you could just live there, be self-sufficient, and forget worldly cares. Do you want to try it? 7668. (Get our free rental list.)

OWN YOUR OWN HOME—PRICES ARE LOW
It is not necessary to be a prophet to say that this is a good time in which to build a home. A study of all the factors entering into the business mechanism of our country and of the financial facts, leads surely to the conclusion that home building may be undertaken at this time with unusual confidence as the ultimate soundness of the investment. Planning and designing can be arranged. We build anywhere. For choice home sites see Floral Park along Holliston and Flower, north of 17th Street.

"THUNDER OVER MEXICO"

"Thunder over Mexico," the widely-heralded picture taken by Sergei M. Eisenstein in Mexico is now being presented on the coast. It opened last Friday night and is attracting crowds which fill the theater in which it is presented to capacity. It is a beautiful and powerful epic of the Mexican people in the days of their oppression.

The story back of the taking of the picture has enlisted wide interest. One critic who awarded the picture his highest praise said that it is the result of a shotgun wedding between Hollywood and Moscow and more beautiful than either of its parents.

When Eisenstein, whose artistic tastes were found to be incompatible with Hollywood traditions and standards, after having been brought over to Hollywood, was faced with return without any accomplishment to his credit in this country, he, with the assistance of friends, went to Mexico to take the picture which was to be the great epic of the Mexican people. His interest in the country and the people came to be expressed in two hundred thousand feet of motion picture film. Then Eisenstein himself was recalled to Russia and the work of cutting the picture devolved upon his associates here. It was said that the total film actually contained five stories. "Thunder in Mexico" is about six thousand feet in length. There is little doubt but that most of the people who have seen it want to see more of the two hundred thousand feet.

A number of sequences, running about twenty minutes in length, are being run throughout the country as travelogues augmenting other pictures.

"Thunder over Mexico" is reported to be causing unrest among the followers of Eisenstein who undoubtedly would be dissatisfied with any way in which the film was cut by any other hand than Eisenstein's own, which was impossible.

It might have been "something" to have run the whole thing. With intermission for dinner, as an opera, a well-known play, and an oratorio are run. In such an arrangement, however, it sometimes happens that the most notable thing about the production becomes the length of the time it takes to see it. In this case the two hundred thousand feet would take about seven or eight hours.

As it stands the picture is a powerful and beautiful picture which will bring all those who see it to a closer and more friendly sympathy with the Mexican people.

"DE LAWD" INVADES THE SOUTH

It was with some misgivings that the producers of the Negro play, "Green Pastures," proposed to carry that play into the South. Public opinion, so far as it is sensed by newspaper editors, ministers, and prominent public men was sounded out on the matter. What has been familiarly called "the Bible belt" is very sensitive to any caricature of the Bible, or anything that seems to make religion ridiculous. To those in the North who do not understand the Negro psychology as well as it is understood in the South, there are parts of the play that border on the ridiculous. The producers, therefore, were quite fearful as to how the play might be received.

Well, approval was given by the leaders and makers of public opinion in the South, and the company made its first appearance before a capacity audience in Roanoke, Virginia, and has been meeting with loud approval all through the Carolinas into Georgia. Never has a play so captured the imagination of a people as this Negro play has in the South. The play to the people seemed to be holy. Nobody laughed, and one Southern newspaper remarked that the atmosphere of the playhouse was the atmosphere of a church.

Southerners understand the Negro much better than do Northerners. They are closer to him, and have become familiar with his type of religion. Like most of us, they have come to accept the Negro conception of religion as one accepts the landscape about his home. When one sees that landscape thrown on canvas by the artist, he is surprised that it is as beautiful and inspiring as it is. So it has been with the Southern people. Around them, the Negro religion has become a commonplace; but presented on the stage as a play, they are impressed with the reverence and the uniqueness of it. "De Lawd" walking about in a frock coat, and having an office with a little desk in it, which dusky angels with paper wings sweep and dust, does not shock them. It expresses the Negro psychology they know so well.

It should be remembered that the text was written by a Southerner, and that "Old Man Adam and his Chillin'," the book from which the play has been compiled, was even more popular in the South than in the North. So, in the very nature of things, it was a bit surprising that the producers of the play should have been so timid about introducing it in the South.

HOW THE EDUCATED BECOME DE-EDUCATED

Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War under President Wilson, has been very much interested in adult education. In a recent address in New York he is reported as having said that while people should be permitted to use their spare time as they saw fit, it would be well if the country should turn somewhat from guarding the American standard of living to developing the "American standard of thinking." "If people stop getting education when they graduate from school, or college," he added, "they soon become uneducated."

Mr. Baker strikes a very timely note there.

A diploma is simply an introduction to real education. It has been said that the mark of wisdom is not the possession of knowledge, but the use that is made of the knowledge acquired. We fear that there are all too many who stop their education when they step out from academic halls. There are any number of college graduates drifting about who died educationally the moment they received their diplomas. That accounts for the reactionary tendencies which mark so many of our leaders in business and in the professions. They do not keep up with the times, and instead of becoming leaders in the forward march of the world, they become obstructionists, never making a constructive effort or offering a constructive plan for anything.

Continuous self-improvement is the need of an enriched life. One sometimes wonders how much that idea is drilled into the minds of youth when they are receiving their education, or whether the present studies and the desire for present grades does not obscure the vision of a life of continuous education.

THINGS LOOK BETTER NOTWITHSTANDING

The weekly business index has not been encouraging for the past two months. Half the gain made up to middle July has been lost. Yet, as the editor of the Annalist remarks, there are certain imponderables at work which brighten the picture. That word "imponderable" is a big word, and simply means that there are facts which cannot be tabulated in the business picture, but are quite as important as steel activity, car loadings, cotton forwardings, electric power production, etc.

Standard Statistics recently reported that for the first nine months of 1933, 236 industrial companies reported profits of $183,400,000 over against profits of $17,333,000 in the corresponding period of 1932. Moreover the dividends are being renewed by many companies which had discontinued them. Extra dividends are also beginning to appear. Those companies which are still making up current dividends out of surplus are encouraged to believe that better things are just ahead.

Corporations are slow in cutting out dividends, and they are equally slow in restoring them. It is not good psychology to renew dividends before there is a reasonable certainty that they can continue to be earned. Facts such as these cannot be discounted. They promise something better in the near future.

EMBITTERED BACHELORS SIGN AGREEMENT

Twenty-five women-haters of sixteen have signed a mutual agreement not to speak to women other than in the line of business, except for three hours once a month. This movement would be a good one to foster. Its spread would relieve educators and parents of many problems. There is no danger that fostering the movement would be inviting race suicide for the lads of sixteen will break their pledges sooner or later, before any harm is done.

Nothing like this is very serious at sixteen because reactions set in quickly.

"HE PLAYS BY EAR."

A critic of the administration program recently disposed of President Roosevelt with this curt characterization. The more we think of it the more we are inclined to agree with the opposition politician who retails the incident that this was the best thing said at that political meeting.

Whether Roosevelt is a demagogue, a political messiah leading us out of the economic wilderness or merely a remarkably able and experienced politician the truth of this characterization is obvious. He does play by ear rather than note. And he keeps that ear firmly pressed to the ground listening to the current of public opinion.

This contact with popular feeling is revealed in many ways. The presidential relations with the press, for example, are more cordial and intimate than those obtaining in any other administration. The system for maintaining direct contact with the nation is amazingly effective. The daily load of White House mail is many times heavier than ever before, even during the world war. And, by an iron-clad rule, every one of these thousands of letters must be personally answered and signed by the member of the presidential staff who handles it. This rule is only suspended on occasions like the days following the first radio broadcast to the nation when the daily mail reached the fantastic total of 120,000 letters!

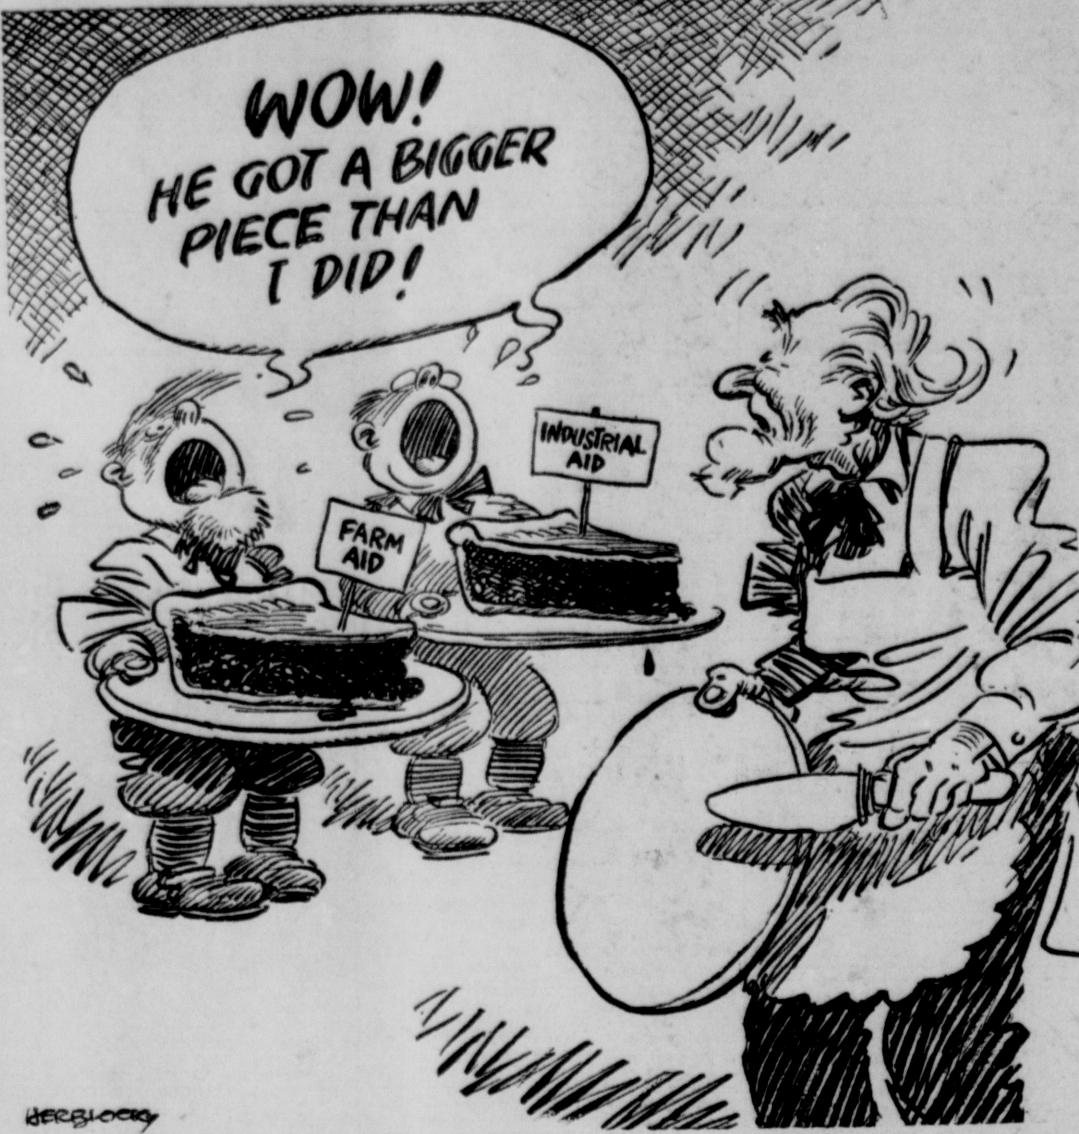

This exceptional gift for reading public opinion, a gift that is recognized even by the President's political enemies, makes him an extremely important index of national opinion. The man who wishes to foretell political events or plot the probable general trend of public policy can find here a fairly reliable guide.

At a moment when public opinion is changing with startling rapidity this can throw more light into the future than either records or statistical prophecies. It is evident, as the administration has insisted all along, that we are embarked upon a program of experimentation. The greatest source of criticism—and the greatest virtue—of the recovery program is its flexibility. The moment that one experiment fails it can be discarded because the Chief Executive is not committed to any rigid program save aggressive pursuit of national recovery. The final objective is fixed. Complete freedom of action is retained as to the means to be taken in achieving that objective.

The general trend of this change is faintly visible in the record of the past year. That trend is restoring popular influence in government. Power has been centralized, it is true, but only because public opinion now finds an outlet—through the White House. Authority has been transplanted from Wall Street to Washington. The rudiments of a national system begin to appear out of the chaos of bewildered individualism. Localism is giving way to nationalism. The net effect of all these shifts—as far as it can be measured while the change still is at full tide—is toward planned control, positive action rather than passive waiting in the face of a world crisis.

This does not all emanate from one individual. It is only revealed where it could be expected to appear, in the man who has been and is most successful in hearing and interpreting the American reaction in a great emergency.

More Truth Than Poetry

TO AN OYSTER

I wonder, as I gaze on you,
What unknown, prehistoric man
First made of you a sizzling stew
Or fried you in a stonehewn pan.
I know that either raw or cooked
You are delightful and nutritious,
But I'm convinced you never looked Delicious.

Some hungry aborigine
Or shipwrecked tar, it might have been,
Who found you hidden in the sea.
Together with your teeming kin.
But how was one of my race,
Pre-Adamite or modern, able
To know how well that you would grace
A table?

The trout and bass look good to eat,
And so does corn upon the cob,
But who could view you as a treat,
An unattractive, beige hued blob.
All gustatory lure you lack,
A slithering shapeless mass of sinew,
Without a shadow of attraction in you.

Just who it was we cannot tell,
While wading in some sea or sound,
First plucked you from your ugly shell
'And made you known the world around,
Though dull or wise, or rich or poor,
In these few verses I endeavor
To make his claim to fame endure
Forever.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

PAVING THE WAY TO PEASANTRY

I live very close to the beating heart of agricultural America. Hardly a week passes that I do not come into first hand contact with both the leaders and the followers of that farming region out of which the more strident voices are heard and in which the abortive but significant phenomenon of the farmer-strike appears.

The more radical farm element, judged by the severe standards of economic realism, is something less than statesmanlike. But the instinctive fear that lurks in the subcellar of the radical farmer's mind may be sounder than the rationalizations of the agricultural professor and the agricultural politician who think the farmer should throw his hat in the air and stop thinking upon receipt of a check from Washington for having thrown the brake on his productive capacity.

The radical farmer may not have thought the situation through with the logical analysis of facts and the statistical array of figures that mark the manifestos of the partisan researchers. Yet he has an instinctive, and I think healthy, skepticism of a national policy that asks him to trust his future to a check from Washington in return for a check on his own efficiency as a producer of foodstuffs and industrial raw materials.

We are seemingly embarked on a policy of self-contained nationalism. We are daily baking the bricks of policy out of which we shall build the wall that shall barricade us from world markets. This means that we must scale our industrial plant and our agricultural plant down to the approximate dimensions of our domestic needs. We are not alone in this. The world is being swept just now by a dangerous epidemic of deranged nationalism. The policies of the world's governments grow increasingly isolationist and nationalistic at the very moment when the processes of the world's life grow increasingly interdependent and international. This renaissance of self-contained nationalism seems to me the economics of infantism and the politics of insanity. But apparently we are in for it.

If we are in for it, I make bold to predict that the literal working out of a self-contained national economy will spell the doom of commercial agriculture, from which the farmer has expected something beyond the creature comforts of food, clothing and shelter, and that the American farmer will sink to the status of the peasant, perhaps with a standard of living higher than the hard lot of the old peasant of Europe, but with the subsistence income that marks the peasant nevertheless.

It is this instinctive sense that commercial farming has its back to the wall that is behind the blind striking out against circumstance that marks the news from the Middle West farmers just now.

I deplore their methods but I share their fears.

"Up to last year Albert was the best child possible. He was obedient, cheerful, never gave anybody any trouble either in school or at home. All of a sudden he changed. Just over night. He grew, he got his back up at the lowest word, he isn't doing well in school and altogether he is a troublesome, worrisome child. What can be the matter and what can we do?"

Albert is fourteen. For fourteen years he has been changing under the eyes of his father and mother, but they have not noticed it beyond saying occasionally, "He is growing very fast. He has to have a new overcoat this season. We'll have to give away his old one. It's scarcely worn but he outgrows things so fast."

His go cart and kiddy car were given away and so were his blocks and his rabbits but father and mother saw no change in their son. To them longer legs and arms and more weight were growth, quite normal and to be expected but they never gave a thought to the growth that was going on in the child's mind. Minds are forgotten because they do not have to have shoes. They need wings but as they have no means of making the demand clear to the casual eye of a grownup, they have to provide them for themselves.

One day, after 14 years of continuous growth and change Albert's parents discovered that he had changed from the day they laid him in his blue blanket in his basket. All of a sudden they had a stranger in the house and didn't know what to do with him. But "All of a sudden," is never true. You see it can't be true. Now what is to be done with this stranger child?

Treat him as you would a guest in your home. Listen what he talks so you can find what he is interested in and you can talk to him. Watch him so as to see what he likes and dislikes and behaves accordingly. Wrench your mind from the memory of the blue bundle in the basket and fix it on this young person who so suddenly made himself felt in the household.

He isn't grownup and responsible. He has developed in spots and streaks so he has odd strength and weakness intermingled. He wants his strength appreciated and he needs to have his weaknesses protected. He has to be regarded as an adult at some times and as a child at others. By accepting the fact that he is changing rapidly you can almost keep even with him. And her.

Girls have the same needs at this period as the boys have. They too, need to be accepted into the family circle as partners, guests, and always as the beloved children of the household. That attitude underlies all the others. It must be hidden from the keen eyes of these self appreciative youngsters. The smooth surface of courtesy must be kept uppermost. This should have been done as gradually as his wardrobe was adjusted, but having overlooked it we must do the best we can now to catch up.

"Thunder in Mexico" is about six thousand feet in length. There is little doubt but that most of the people who have seen it want to see more of the two hundred thousand feet.

A number of sequences, running about twenty minutes in length, are being run throughout the country as travelogues augmenting other pictures.

"Thunder over Mexico" is reported to be causing unrest among the followers of Eisenstein who undoubtedly would be dissatisfied with any way in which the film was cut by any other hand than Eisenstein's own, which was impossible.

It might have been "something" to have run the whole thing. With intermission for dinner, as an opera, a well-known play, and an oratorio are run. In such an arrangement, however, it sometimes happens that the most notable thing about the production becomes the length of the time it takes to see it. In this case the two hundred thousand feet would take about seven or eight hours.

As it stands the picture is a powerful and beautiful picture which will bring all those who see it to a closer and more friendly sympathy with the Mexican people.

"DE LAWD" INVADES THE SOUTH

It was with some misgivings that the producers of the Negro play, "Green Pastures," proposed to carry that play into the South. Public opinion, so far as it is sensed by newspaper editors, ministers, and prominent public men was sounded out on the matter. What has been familiarly called "the Bible belt" is very sensitive to any caricature of the Bible, or anything that seems to make religion ridiculous. To those in the North who do not understand the Negro psychology as well as it is understood in the South, there are parts of the play that border on the ridiculous. The producers, therefore, were quite fearful as to how the play might be received.

Well, approval was given by the leaders and makers of public opinion in the South, and the company made its first appearance before a capacity audience in Roanoke, Virginia, and has been meeting with loud approval all through the Carolinas into Georgia. Never has a play so captured the imagination of a people as this Negro play has in the South. The play to the people seemed to be holy. Nobody laughed, and one Southern newspaper remarked that the atmosphere of the playhouse was the atmosphere of a church.

Southerners understand the Negro much better than do Northerners. They are closer to him, and have become familiar with his type of religion. Like most of us, they have come to accept the Negro conception of religion as one accepts the landscape around his home. When one sees that landscape thrown on canvas by the artist, he is surprised that it is as beautiful and inspiring as it is. So it has been with the Southern people. Around them, the Negro religion has become a commonplace; but presented on the stage as a play, they are impressed with the reverence and the uniqueness of it. "De Lawd" walking about in a frock coat, and having an office with a little desk in it, which dusky angels with paper wings sweep and dust, does not shock them. It expresses the Negro psychology they know so well.

It should be remembered that the text was written by a Southerner, and that "Old Man Adam and his Chillun," the book from which the play has been compiled, was even more popular in the South than in the North. So, in the very nature of things, it was a bit surprising that the producers of the play should have been so timid about introducing it in the South.

HOW THE EDUCATED BECOME DE-EDUCATED

Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War under President Wilson, has been very much interested in adult education. In a recent address in New York he is reported as having said that while people should be permitted to use their spare time as they saw fit, it would be well if the country should turn somewhat from guarding the American standard of living to developing the "American standard of thinking." "If people stop getting education when they graduate from school, or college," he added, "they soon become uneducated."

Mr. Baker strikes a very timely note there.

A diploma is simply an introduction to real education. It has been said that the mark of wisdom is not the possession of knowledge, but the use that is made of the knowledge acquired. We fear that there are all too many who stop their education when they step out from academic halls. There are a number of college graduates drifting about who died educationally the moment they received their diplomas. That accounts for the reactionary tendencies which mark so many of our leaders in business and in the professions. They do not keep up with the times, and instead of becoming leaders in the forward march of the world, they become obstructionists, never making a constructive effort or offering a constructive plan for anything.

Continuous self-improvement is the need of an enriched life. One sometimes wonders how much that idea is drilled into the minds of youth when they are receiving their education, or whether the present studies and the desire for present grades does not obscure the vision of a life of continuous education.

THINGS LOOK BETTER NOTWITHSTANDING

The weekly business index has not been encouraging for the past two months. Half the gain made up to middle July has been lost. Yet, as the editor of the Annalist remarks, there are certain imponderables at work which brighten the picture. That word "imponderable" is a big word, and simply means that there are facts which cannot be tabulated in the business picture, but are quite as important as steel activity, car loadings, cotton forwardings, electric power production, etc.

Standard Statistics recently reported that for the first nine months of 1933, 236 industrial companies reported profits of $183,400,000 over against profits of $17,333,000 in the corresponding period of 1932. Moreover the dividends are being renewed by many companies which had discontinued them. Extra dividends are also beginning to appear. Those companies which are still making up current dividends out of surplus are encouraged to believe that better things are just ahead.

Corporations are slow in cutting out dividends, and they are equally slow in restoring them. It is not good psychology to renew dividends before there is a reasonable certainty that they can continue to be earned. Facts such as these cannot be discounted. They promise something better in the near future.

EMBITTERED BACHELORS SIGN AGREEMENT

Twenty-five women-haters of sixteen have signed a mutual agreement not to speak to women other than in the line of business, except for three hours once a month. This movement would be a good one to foster. Its spread would relieve educators and parents of many problems. There is no danger that fostering the movement would be inviting race suicide for the lads of sixteen will break their pledges sooner or later, before any harm is done.

Nothing like this is very serious at sixteen because reactions set in quickly.

"HE PLAYS BY EAR."
A critic of the administration program recently disposed of President Roosevelt with this curt characterization. The more we think of it the more we are inclined to agree with the opposition politician who retails the incident that this was the best thing said at that political meeting.

Whether Roosevelt is a demagogue, a political messiah leading us out of the economic wilderness or merely a remarkably able and experienced politician the truth of this characterization is obvious. He does play by ear rather than note. And he keeps that ear firmly pressed to the ground listening to the current of public opinion.

This contact with popular feeling is revealed in many ways. The presidential relations with the press, for example, are more cordial and intimate than those obtaining in any other administration. The system for maintaining direct contact with the nation is amazingly effective. The daily load of White House mail is many times heavier than ever before, even during the world war. And, by an iron-clad rule, every one of these thousands of letters must be personally answered and signed by the member of the presidential staff who handles it. This rule is only suspended on occasions like the days following the first radio broadcast to the nation when the daily mail reached the fantastic total of 120,000 letters!

This exceptional gift for reading public opinion, a gift that is recognized even by the President's political enemies, makes him an extremely important index of national opinion. The man who wishes to foretell political events or plot the probable general trend of public policy can find here a fairly reliable guide.

At a moment when public opinion is changing with startling rapidity this can throw more light into the future than either records or statistical prophecies. It is evident, as the administration has insisted all along, that we are embarked upon a program of experimentation. The greatest source of criticism—and the greatest virtue—of the recovery program is its flexibility. The moment that one experiment fails it can be discarded because the Chief Executive is not committed to any rigid program save aggressive pursuit of national recovery. The final objective is fixed. Complete freedom of action is retained as to the means to be taken in achieving that objective.

The general trend of this change is faintly visible in the record of the past year. That trend is restoring popular influence in government. Power has been centralized, it is true, but only because public opinion now finds an outlet—through the White House. Authority has been transplanted from Wall street to Washington. The rudiments of a national system begin to appear out of the chaos of bewildered individualism. Localism is giving way to nationalism. The net effect of all these shifts—as far as it can be measured while the change still is at full tide—is toward planned control, positive action rather than passive waiting in the face of a world crisis.

This does not all emanate from one individual. It is only revealed where it could be expected to appear, in the man who has been and is most successful in hearing and interpreting the American reaction in a great emergency.

The Hungry Boys

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

TO AN OYSTER

I wonder, as I gaze on you,
What unknown, prehistoric man
First made of you a sizzling stew
Or fried you in a stoneoven pan.
I know that either raw or cooked
You are delightful and nutritious,
But I'm convinced you never looked Delicious.

Some hungry aborigine
Or shipwrecked tar, it might have been,
Who found you hidden in the sea
Together with your teeming kin.
But how was one of any race
Pre-Adamite or modern, able
To know how well that you would grace
A table?

The trout and bass look good to eat,
And so does corn upon the cob,
But who could view you as a treat,
An unattractive, beige hued blob,
All gustatory lure you lack.
A silvery shapeless mass of sinew,
Without a shadow of attraction in you.

Just who it was we cannot tell,
While wading in some sea or sound,
First plucked you from your ugly shell
And made you known the world around.
Though dull or wise, or rich or poor,
In these few verses I endeavor
To make his claim to fame endure
Forever.

All rite, then you dont get your 5 cents, his mother said, and Sam said, Aw, all rite, I'll eat it.

Which he did, and after lunch I said, G, Sam, do you get 5 cents every time you eat spinnitch?

Sam said, Sure, only I haft to make a fuss about it every time or else they'll think I must be getting to like it and mite eat it for nothing.

Sounding like a pritty good of a ideer, and we had soop for supper at home, being pea soop and me not being intrisged in any kind but noodle soop, and I said, I dont think I want any soop, I seem to of took a dislike to soop.

Well, dont shed tears into it, nobodys going to make you cry if you pop said, and me said, If you dont appreciate good soop I'm sure that's your loss.

Neither of them offering me 5 cents to drink it, me thinking, O well, I guess vegetables is the important thing.

Nora bringing in 2 of my favorite kinds with the meat, being mash potatoes and peas, and I said, I seem to of took a dislike to vegetables too.

Leave them on your plate and cut out the sob stuff, pop said, and me saying, My lands we seem to have a little Gandy in our midst, hee hee.

Still not offering to pay me to eat, and I was going to mention something about Sam Cross only I thawt it mite sound too much like a hint, and me said, I'm reely almost releived not to see him eat too much because we have lemmin merrange pie for dizzert and the last time we had it he ate so much it was reely equivalent to a meal in itself, and pop said, Perhaps he's taken a dislike to lemmin merrange pie too, have you, Benny?

Sir? I said, and pop said, Are you losing your heering as well as your appetite? and I said, No sir, I think I feel it coming back. Meening my appetite, and I ate my vegetables and 3 slices of lemmin merrange pie, the 3d slice properly going in the place left by the soop and making me feel lucky anyways.

Indicative of the rapid growth of Santa Ana and of the county, was the increase of voting precincts from 107 to 111. Two of these new precincts were in Santa Ana, and the remaining two in the northern part of the county. The precincts were mapped by J. L. McBride, county surveyor, and adopted by the board of supervisors.

The general contract for Santa Ana's new tourist hotel on North Broadway just north of the Christian church, had been signed and actual work to be begun on November 24. It was believed that the building would be completed by June, 1920.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

PAVING THE WAY TO PEASANTRY

I live very close to the beating heart of agricultural America. Hardly a week passes that I do not come into first hand contact with both the leaders and the followers of that farming region out of which the more strident voices are heard and in which the abortive but significant phenomenon of the farmer-strike appears.

The more radical farm element, judged by the severe standards of economic realism, is something less than statesmanlike. But the instinctive fear that lurks in the subcellar of the radical farmer's mind may be sounder than the rationalizations of the agricultural professor and the agricultural politician who think the farmer should throw his hat in the air and stop thinking upon receipt of a check from Washington for having thrown the brake on his productive capacity.

The radical farmer may not have thought the situation through with the logical analysis of facts and the statistical array of figures that mark the manifestos of the partisan researchers. Yet he has an instinctive, and I think healthy, skepticism of a national policy that asks him to trust his future to a check from Washington in return for a check on his own efficiency as a producer of foodstuffs and industrial raw materials.

We are seemingly embarked on a policy of self-contained nationalism. We are daily baking the bricks of policy out of which we shall build the wall that shall barricade us from world markets. This means that we must scale our industrial plant and our agricultural plant down to the approximate dimensions of our domestic needs. We are not alone in this. The world is being swept just now by a dangerous epidemic of deranged nationalism. The policies of the world's governments grow increasingly isolationist and nationalistic at the very moment when the processes of the world's life grow increasingly interdependent and international. This renaisance of self-contained nationalism seems to me the economics of infantism and the politics of insanity. But apparently we are in for it.

If we are in for it, I make bold to predict that the literal working out of a self-contained national economy will spell the doom of commercial agriculture, from which the farmer has expected something beyond the creature comforts of food, clothing and shelter, and that the American farmer will sink to the status of the peasant, perhaps with a standard of living higher than the hard lot of the old peasant of Europe, but with the subsistence income that marks the peasant nevertheless.

It is this instinctive sense that commercial farming has its back to the wall that is behind the blind striking out against circumstance that marks the news from the Middle West farmers just now.

"Up to last year Albert was the best child possible. He was obedient, cheerful, never gave any body any trouble either in school or at home. All of a sudden he changed. Just over night. He grows, he get his back up at the least word, he isn't doing well in school and altogether he is a troublesome, worrisome child. What can be the matter and what can we do?"

Albert is fourteen. For fourteen years he has been changing under the eyes of his father and mother but they have not noticed it. Beyond saying occasionally, "He is growing very fast. He has to have a new overcoat this season. We'll have to give away his old one. It's scarcely worn but he outgrows things so fast."

His go cart and kiddy car were given away and so were his blocks and his rabbits but father and mother saw no change in their son. To them longer legs and arms and more weight were growth, quite normal and to be expected but they never gave a thought to the growth that was going on in the child's mind.

Minds are forgotten because they do not have to have shoes. They need wings but as they have no means of making the demand clear to the casual eye of a grownup, they have to provide them for themselves.

One day, after 14 years of continuous growth and change. Albert's parents discovered that he had changed from the day they laid him in his blue blanket in his basket. All of a sudden, they had a stranger in the house and didn't know what to do with him. But "All of a sudden," is never true. You see it can't be true. Now what is to be done with this stranger child?

Treat him as you would a guest in your home. Listen while he talks so you can find what he is interested in and you can talk to him. Watch him so as to see what he likes and dislikes and behaves accordingly. Wrench your mind from the memory of the blue bundle in the basket and fix it on this young person who so suddenly made himself felt in the household.

He isn't grownup and responsible. He has developed in spots and streaks so he has odd ideas. Treat him as you would a guest in your home. Listen while he talks so you can find what he is interested in and you can talk to him. Watch him so as to see what he likes and dislikes and behaves accordingly. Wrench your mind from the memory of the blue bundle in the basket and fix it on this young person who so suddenly made himself felt in the household.
